TURKISH WARSHIPS BOMBARD SEAPORTS

Sebastopol, Theodosia and Anapa Attacked—Turkish Ambassador to Great Britain Handed His Passports—Turks Also Bombard British Vessel

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—The newspapers report that the cruisers Goeben and Breslau and four Turkish torpedo-boats bombarded the shore near Sebastopol yesterday morning, shelling the railroad and docks. The Russian shore batteries replied.

The warships disappeared along the Crimean shore to the eastward after inflicting trivial damage.

Theodosia, on the Crimean coast 100 miles northeast of Sebastopol, also suffered a bombardment on Saturday when a Turkish cruiser sailed close enough to throw thirty shells into the city.

News has been received at the foreign office that the Russian ambassador has left Constantinople but the Turkish minister has not yet received his passport or instructions from Constantinople.

BRITISH VESSEL IGNITED AND SCUTTLED DURING BOMBARDMENT

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A despatch to the Times from Petrograd, dated Sunday, says that a British vessel, the Frederick, was ignited and scuttled during the bombardment of Novorossiysk. The Turks also reportedly bombarded Anapa, a Russian seaport of the Black sea.

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE

Bad blood is responsible for more ailments than anything else. It causes catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, weak, tired, languid feelings and many troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has been wonderfully successful in purifying and enriching the blood, removing scrofula and other humors, and building up the whole system. Take it—give it to all the family so as to avoid illness. Get it today.

TURKISH CRUISER SULTAN SELIM WAS THE GERMAN CRUISER GOEBEN

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—The correspondent of the Handelsblad telegraphs that the Turkish cruiser Sultan Selim, which bombarded Sebastopol, is the cruiser known as the Goeben when the vessel was under the German flag.

TURKISH WARSHIPS ARE REPORTED AT ENTRANCE OF GULF OF SUEZ

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A Rome despatch to the Central News asserts that Turkish gunboats are reported at the entrance to the Gulf of Suez. Numerous detachments of Turkish cavalry, according to the same despatch, have reached Akabah, a fortified village of Arabia, on the gulf of the same name.

EDMOND COSTELLO DEAD

POPULAR RESIDENT OF NORTH BILLERICA PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

The many Lowell friends of Edmond Costello will regret to hear of his death which occurred yesterday at his home, 40 Talbot street, North Billerica. He had sustained a shock several years ago, but enjoyed fairly good health until the past week when he had another attack which proved fatal.

Mr. Costello was a most estimable character whose good nature, kindness and charity had endeared him to all who knew him. He was for a great many years a member of Court Merrimack, P. of A., and of the Mathew Temperance Institute of North Billerica. For many years he had been treasurer of the United Irish League in Lowell and devoted much of his time for years to the cause, always honest, faithful and devoted to the work. When the home rule bill was passed, he expressed his great satisfaction, as if it were a matter personal to himself. He leaves two sons, Edward R. and William Costello; four daughters, Bridget, Mrs. John H. Mahoney, Mrs. Joseph Cannon and Mrs. John S. Welsh; two brothers, John of North Billerica and Thomas in Ireland; also one sister, Mrs. Bridget Slack of Ireland.

TURKISH TROOPS PENETRATE EGYPT

Battles on the Sand Dunes Along Belgian Coast Still Dragging on With Painful Monotony—Allies Reoccupy Lille and are Creeping Nearer Ostend

LONDON, Nov. 2.—War has not been formally declared on Turkey but the withdrawal from Constantinople of the ambassadors of the Triple Entente powers is regarded in London as being equivalent to a signal for hostilities which Turkey has anticipated by a naval raid in the Black sea and by a reported land expedition which is said to have penetrated into Egypt.

Evidence accumulates that Turkey intends to proclaim a holy war. Ample measures, it is certain, have been taken by Great Britain and Russia against this probability and it is evident that the first trouble is expected to arise in Egypt, where, it is said, the khedive intends to ask Great Britain for an explanation of her attitude toward Turkey.

Berlin claims that Turkey was forced to throw in her lot with Germany because the Porte recognized that an entente victory would mean the disruption of the Turkish empire with Constantinople, Armenia and Kurdistan going to Russia; Arabia to England and Syria to France. On the other hand in the event of the defeat of the Triple Entente nations Turkey was to be guaranteed territorially to be given aid in reconquering the Caucasus and Egypt and be given perhaps something more.

The usual charges and denials are being made as to the responsibility for the first attack in the Black Sea but these are issued chiefly for consumption by the neutral countries, since the inevitability of the conflict was recognized by both sides.

The principal actors are not greatly concerned which nation fired the opening shot.

The battles on the sand dunes along the Belgian coast still are dragging on with painful monotony. Advances by either side are only for short distances and are made at fearful cost.

Further east the allies claim to have penetrated to the north and to the east of Lille, which is believed to have been reoccupied by the allied troops.

Other reports assert that the allies are daily creeping nearer to Ostend, which even now hardly can be said to be occupied in a military sense but as long as the Germans hold the river the town does not need any considerable force to retain it.

Another unconfirmed special report also states that a large German force was cut off from the main army when a Belgian bicycle corps blew up a bridge and that many thousands of the invaders surrendered.

SAYS BULGARIA WILL MAINTAIN THE STRICTEST NEUTRALITY

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The correspondent of the Times at Sofia, Bulgaria, says he is informed on the highest authority that Bulgaria will maintain the strictest neutrality.

GERMAN MERCHANTMEN PROVIDE CRUISERS IN PACIFIC WITH COAL

LONDON, Nov. 2.—German merchantmen regularly provide German cruisers in the Pacific with coal and provisions from Chilean ports and furnish the warships with wireless information, according to the Times' correspondent at Santiago, Chile.

VIENNA CLAIMS THAT AUSTRIANS DEFEATED SERBIANS NEAR ROVRYE

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Co. from Amsterdam gives the following Austrian despatch received there from Vienna:

The Austrians on Saturday successfully attacked a strong fortified Serbian position near Rovrye. Our troops crossed the Save and Drina rivers, which were obstinately defended by Serbians.

NISH, SERBIA, REPORTS VICTORIES WITH OPPONENTS LOSING HEAVILY

NISH, Serbia, Saturday, Oct. 31.—(Via London, Nov. 2.)—A semi-official note has been issued here as follows:

"The enemy operating October 29 in the direction of Gutchevo bombarded our positions at Eminova and Banja from 7 o'clock in the morning until noon. At this hour they attacked but were repulsed by our troops. Our counter attack developed into violent bayonet combats in which the enemy, sustaining heavy losses was forced to fall back in disorder, leaving three officers and about 300 men on the field.

"The enemy delivered another attack on our positions in the evening but was again forced to retreat with heavy loss. 'Nothing of importance has occurred on the remainder of the front.'"

FRENCH MINISTER OF WAR ISSUES ORDER TO MEN OF THE ARMED SERVICE

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Alexandre Millerand, the minister of war, has issued an order that all men of the armed service, employed or detached, be immediately integrated in their corps. Commanders are also required to make monthly reports on certain requirements which are made part of the order.

LIQUOR CAUSED DEATH

THREE MEN DIED SUDDENLY IN BRISTOL, VT.—THREE OTHERS ARE ILL

BRISTOL, VT., Nov. 2.—The sudden death yesterday of three men and the illness of three others led to the arrest last night of D. A. Bisbee, proprietor of a drug store. According to the officials the deaths were due to the effects of liquor obtained at the store.

The dead are Fred O'Bryan and Samuel King of Bristol, and Edward Wakefield of Warren.

An autopsy was held last night under the direction of Dr. B. H. Stone, director of the state laboratory of hygiene, and Dr. Whitney of Burlington, assisted by local physicians. A quantity of liquor seized at the drug store was turned over to Dr. Stone and will be analyzed at the state laboratory to determine the nature of the alcohol supposed to be contained in it.

It is expected that Bisbee will be given a hearing after the report of the autopsy is submitted.

DEATHS

SEAVEY—Mrs. Adelaide Mitchell Seavey, a highly esteemed resident of Westford died yesterday at the Lowell General hospital after an illness of about six weeks. Deceased was 15 years of age and was a member of the Tadnuck club, secretary-treasurer of the W. C. T. U. Woman's Alliance and the Unitarian church. She is survived by a husband, three sons, Marden, a student at Tufts college; Morton and Gordon, and a daughter, Marjorie, a student at the Boston university; also a mother in Cambridge.

THE TOLL OF DEATH GREAT ON BOTH SIDES

Fiercest Fighting of War at Nieuport and Ypres—Renewal of Fighting Between Main Forces of Russia and Austro-German Armies in Poland

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—(via London)—Official reports from the western front show little change in the situation in northern France and in Belgium, but events in Poland would appear to be shaping themselves for a renewal of the fighting between the main forces of Russia and the Austro-German armies.

In addressing the Brandenburg regiment in France recently, at a point behind the front, Emperor William closed his speech with these words:

"When the war is finished we should see each other again. Under all circumstances the enemy will be beaten."

This information is conveyed in a letter received in Berlin from the front.

Letters from the front reaching Berlin, describing the fighting at Nieuport and Ypres state it is probably the fiercest of the war. The Germans forced their way southward by repeated night attacks. The toll of death was great on both sides.

The fighting in Poland has not recommenced but in Galicia, according to special despatches, events would appear to be approaching a decisive moment.

A despatch received here from Cracow says the Russians have been thrown back across the river San and ejected from Leslask, whence the Austrians pursued them for the distance of four miles. An Austrian report declares merely that the Austrian forces in Central Galicia have retained all the captured positions to the north and east of Turka, near Stary-Sambor; to the east of Przemyśl and on the lower San river. They repulsed an attack near Ducco. The Russians losing many prisoners. A Russian column composed of infantry, cavalry and artillery has been defeated to the north of Kuty on the frontier of Bukovina and Galicia.

"The exploits of the Turkish fleet which bombarded Odessa and Sebastopol and destroyed two Russian warships, 10 transports and several oil tanks, excite unbounded enthusiasm here. El Imparcial, a newspaper of Madrid, reports that there is dangerous unrest in Algeria. The natives have refused to enter the military service and have killed French policemen."

ALL SAINTS DAY

Observed in All Catholic Churches Yesterday—Vespers for the Dead

Yesterday being the feast of All Saints, the services at all the Catholic churches of the city were especially elaborated. The day has always been considered a day of unusual devotion, having been set apart not only to honor all of the saints whose names are on the calendar of the church, but the unnumbered legions of the faithful who, unknown and unrecorded, lived lives of virtue and reaped their reward in eternal happiness. Today is the feast of All Souls. In accordance with the ancient observance masses for the souls in purgatory were celebrated at all the churches early this morning and wax candles were blessed for use in Catholic homes at times of calamity and death.

St. Patrick's
The high mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday was very largely attended. Rev. Timothy P. Callahan was the celebrant, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Joseph A. Curran.

BETTER BABIES

The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast, and taken firm hold of American mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from mysterious pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.

AGED TAX COLLECTOR

Restored To Health By Vinol

Corinth, Miss.—"I am a city tax collector and, seventy-four years of age, I was in a weak, run-down condition. My druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and in a week noticed considerable improvement; I continued its use and now I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and feel much stronger. I consider Vinol a fine tonic to create strength for old people."—J. A. PRICE.

We guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, for all run-down, weak and debilitated conditions. Liggett's Drug Store, Riker-Jaynes' Drug Store, Lowell, Mass.

tin who spoke on the feast of All Saints. Fr. Curran related many incidents from the lives of the saints and told of the great good to be derived from reading their lives and following their example. He reminded the congregation that the saints honored by the church were human beings with all the temptations and frailties of human nature and he urged the faithful to emulate their example, saying that what was possible to them is possible to all Christians. He explained why the Catholic Church is so devoted to the saints, giving a brief sketch of the veneration of the saintly departed from earliest times, and urged on all a special devotion to the saints as one of the greatest aids to virtue.

Last evening at 7 p. m. vespers for the dead were sung by Rev. Fr. Callahan. The choir, under the direction of Organist Michael J. Johnson, sang the responses and also rendered appropriate hymns. The masses this morning were at 6, 7 and 9 o'clock.

Immaculate Conception
Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., sang the high mass yesterday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception and the sermon was preached by Rev. Owen P. McGuire, O. M. I., who spoke on the lives of the saints and of the value of devotion to them as an aid to salvation. As an illustration of the virtues of a Christian life he mentioned saints of every age and degree, referring in particular to the great penitents who rose from sin to great heights of sanctity.

Vesper services were held at 6:30, followed by special vespers for the dead. Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., officiated and the evening sermon on the dead was preached by Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe. Masses this morning were celebrated at 5:30, 6:30 and 8 o'clock.

St. Michael's
The parish mass at St. Michael's yesterday was celebrated by Rev. Denis F. Murphy, and the sermon on the saints was preached by Rev. Francis J. Mullin. Vespers for the dead were sung yesterday afternoon at 3 p. m. Fr. Murphy officiating. The choir sang the responses and appropriate hymns. High mass was celebrated this morning for the souls in purgatory.

St. Patrick's Academy Alumni
The committee having in charge the arrangements for the forthcoming reunion and dinner of St. Patrick's Academy alumni met yesterday morning at the school and discussed with much enthusiasm the plans for the event, now a notable feature of the life and activities of the school. Dr. Richard J. McCluskey, chairman, presided, and Edward J. Flannery acted as secretary. Dr. McCluskey emphasized the need of cooperation of the alumni with the committee members, saying that this is all that is needed to make the affair an unprecedented success. Sub-committees were appointed and Dr. McCluskey mentioned his intention of securing some of the most noted speakers in the state for the evening.

St. Peter's
Rev. W. George Mullin celebrated the last mass at St. Peter's yesterday and Rev. Dr. Keleher gave the sermon, briefly referring to the significance of All Saints' day and All Souls' day and exhorting the congregation to pray for the intercession of the saints before the throne of God. This morning a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in observance of All Souls' day. There was a large attendance.

Sacred Heart
The high mass at the church of the Sacred Heart yesterday was celebrated by Rev. James T. McDermott, O. M. I., and Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., preached the sermon on the feast day. The members of the Holy Rosary sodality attended communion in a body at the 7:30 o'clock mass. The celebrant of the mass was Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I.

Last evening vespers for the dead were celebrated by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., and the sermon on "Purgatory" was delivered by Rev. James J. Gallagher, O. M. I., of the Tewksbury novitiate.

Today masses were celebrated at 5, 6, 7 and 8 o'clock. The last one was a solemn high mass for the deceased members of the parish.

On Thursday morning at 8 o'clock a solemn high mass will be celebrated for the deceased members of the Oblate order.

St. Mary's, Collinsville
Besides the special devotions usual to the day, St. Mary's, Collinsville, yesterday celebrated the fifth anniversary of the establishment of the parish. A high mass of Thanksgiving was sung by the pastor, Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, who also preached a sermon reviewing the many important activities that have come into being during the last five years. Since coming to Collinsville Fr. Walsh has done wonders in furthering the cause of the church, and St. Mary's has good cause to congratulate itself on its fifth anniversary.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

Delegates From Union St. J. Bte. Met in Lowell Yesterday

The quarterly meeting of District Council No. 4, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amérique, took place in this city yesterday and a feature of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The delegates numbering about 25 and coming from various cities of the state arrived in Lowell in the forenoon and attended the 11 o'clock mass at St. Louis' church and in the afternoon held a business meeting.

The mass was celebrated by Rev.

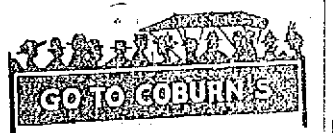

MR. PIERRE BROUSSEAU

L. C. Bedard and the delegates were welcomed by the pastor, Rev. J. B. Labossiere, who is chaplain of the council. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Mathieu, a Franciscan monk, who is visiting the members of the Third Order of St. Francis in this city.

At the close of the mass the delegates enjoyed dinner and at 2 o'clock they gathered at the Centralville Social club rooms in West Sixth street, where a business meeting was held. Joseph F. Montminy of this city, substitute to the president general, opened the meeting. A list of business was transacted and the election of officers took place with the following result: Seriola Dionne, Lynn, president; Andre Brochu, Amesbury, first vice-president; Joseph Lussier, Lowell, second vice-president; Anedee Cote, Salem, secretary-treasurer; Alexandre Quinn, Lawrence, master of ceremonies; Pierre A. Brousseau, Lowell, dean; J. L. Duost, Haverhill, honorary president; Rev. J. B. Labossiere, Lowell, chaplain.

The installation of the new officers took place at the close of the meeting with Joseph F. Montminy acting as installing officer. Among the delegates present were the following: Mathias Caron, Mrs. Georgiana Dubé, Henri Courtemanche, Henri Ragot, Emile Baril and Alexandre Quinn, Lawrence; J. L. Duost, Haverhill; Anedee Cote, Joseph Raymond, Honore Chouinard and Edmond P. Mathieu, Salem; Wilfred Surprenant, G. Houdouin and Andre Brochu, Amesbury; Louis J. Plante, Newburyport; S. Dionne and Napoleon Bergeron, Lynn; Joseph Lussier, Miss A. Carmité, Joseph Blon, Adolphe Houehard, P. A. Brousseau, Joseph Carrier and Ernest Rousseau, Lowell.

CANDIDATE AT AGE OF 74

GOVERNOR BALDWIN OF CONNECTICUT WANTS TO BE UNITED STATES SENATOR

Gov. SIMEON E. BALDWIN

Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut is really one of the wonderful men of the country's political personalities. At the age of 74 he is seeking election as United States senator from his state. If he wins on Nov. 3 he will be 75 years old when he takes his seat in the senate next spring. His achievement in twice leading a democratic ticket to victory in a strong republican state makes it more than possible that he may defeat Senator Frank B. Brandegee, republican, who seeks another term. Gov. Baldwin has been chief justice of the Connecticut supreme court of errors and president of the American Bar association.

INJURIES FATAL

Clarence Lesuer Dies as Result of Accident at Mann School

Clarence E. Lesuer, who was injured by an explosion in the basement of the Mann school in Broadway, on Friday afternoon, Oct. 23, died yesterday morning at the Lowell hospital. Mr. Lesuer lost his right hand in the explosion and he was badly burned about the head, face and body. Hopes for his recovery, however, were entertained until Friday when delirium set in and on Saturday the doctors said recovery was impossible. He was teacher of automobile repairing in the vocational school and it was while repairing an automobile that the fatal accident occurred. He was very popular among his associates and the boys whom he taught. He was always genial, kind and accommodating. Mr. Lesuer was born in this city and was the only son of Joseph B. and Ella R. Lesuer. He was educated in the public schools and was graduated from the Lincoln grammar and the High school. He also attended Worcester Polytechnic Institute, where he studied mechanical and electrical engineering.

He was a member of the Advent Christian church in Grand street and held the position of secretary and treasurer of the Sunday school for a number of years. His death will be mourned by a host of friends. He leaves besides his father and mother, one sister, Elizabeth, of Aurora college, Ill. He was 26 years of age.

GREEK DRAMA PRESENTED
Fine Entertainment at Playhouse By Local Greek Talent Assisted By Operatic Singers
The Playhouse was last night the scene of a very large gathering, the occasion being an entertainment under the auspices of the Greek community of this city for the benefit of their parochial school which is now in progress of construction. The program was a real treat for it consisted of operatic numbers by members of the Lombard Opera Co. of Boston and a five-act drama by local Greek talent.
The entire program was as follows:
"Air de Fleur" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," A. Symacopoulos, the famous Greek tenor; selection from "Il Trovatore," Miss Elsa de Marki; "Love and Music," from "Tosca," Miss Eugenie Manetti; "Musetta," from "Boheme," Miss Bessie Morton; "Miserere," Miss de Marki, Mr. Symacopoulos. The closing number of the first part was the song "I Believed," by Mr. Symacopoulos.
Several numbers were given in part by the same artists and the evening closed with a delightful five-act drama entitled "The Turkish Girl," and piano selections by Mrs. D. J. Generalis, a talented pianist of this city. The Helene Military band of this city, N. Gagus, leader, rendered delightful music during the evening. The proceeds of the evening were very substantial and will help defray the expenses of remodeling the Thukott residence for a parochial school.

MIDNIGHT CONFERENCE

TWO LARGE JAPANESE CRUISERS ARE HOVERING OUTSIDE HONOLULU HARBOR
HONOLULU, Nov. 2.—A midnight conference was held between Collector of the Port Franklin and Deputy Collector Sharp during which wireless messages were exchanged with the United States revenue cutter Thetis, patrolling outside the harbor.
Collector Franklin appeared perturbed and was uncommunicative as to the cause of the meeting at that unusual hour. Two large Japanese cruisers, the Hizen and the Asama, are hovering outside the harbor near where the Thetis is on duty but whether the conference and the message had to do with them or not could not be learned from any official source.

MADE AT WELS FIBRE FABRIC CO.

East Section Second Floor

THREE years ago we began to feature the "Made in Lowell" idea—emphasizing the fact that merchandise which comes from our own factories and shops should take preference in your purchasing—And now that the "Made in America" thought has been universal all over these United States we are more than ever ready to feature our Spindle City products—Few cities in this country can boast of the diversified industries that we have here—and we believe that there is no other store which would offer like values.

FABRICS, FOOTWEAR, HOSIERY, UNDERWEAR, TOILET ARTICLES, BLANKETS, TOWELS, etc., etc., say nothing of the great number of made up things which "our own factory" contributes to this sale.

All this week Lowell made goods will be featured at this store—and nearly every department holds some offerings of bargain interest to every economical shopper in this section.

OLD ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

IMPRESSIONS CEREMONIES AT REDEDICATION OF JAMAICA
PLAIN CHURCH

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Impressive ceremonies marked the rededication of St. Thomas' church, Jamaica Plain, by Cardinal O'Connell yesterday. The ceremony began with a procession of 100 members of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, wearing sword and baldric, boys of the sanctuary choir, crossbearers, acolytes, altar boys and priests, Cardinal O'Connell, attended by the Rev. John F. Cummins, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, Roslindale, and the Rev. George A. Lyons of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, Jamaica Plain, bringing up the rear. The procession marched from the rectory, through South street to the church.

EVER WATCHFUL

A Little Care May Save Many Lowell Readers Future Trouble

Watch the kidney secretions.

See that they have the amber hue of health; The discharge not excessive or infrequent.

Contain no "brick-dust like" sediment.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for weak kidneys.

Let a Lowell citizen tell you how they work.

Frank Kennedy, 129 Fremont St., Lowell, says:

"My kidneys began to bother me some time ago. The trouble came on from bending at my work. I had a crick in my back. I was dizzy and specks floated before my eyes. The kidney secretions were highly colored. My feet swelled and were very painful. I finally began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kennedy had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

CHRISTMAS SHIP, JASON, SAILS NOV. 15
WITH GIFTS FOR CHILDREN OF EUROPE

UNITED STATES COLLIER JASON, AMERICA'S CHRISTMAS SHIP TO EUROPE

The United States collier Jason has been designated by the navy department as the Christmas ship that will take the gifts of the children of America to the children of Europe, whose fathers have fallen in the war. She will sail Nov. 15 from New York. This movement was started and taken up by many of America's important newspapers, and children all over the land are donating the old toys and new ones for the little folks of the war zone, whose Christmas at the best will be sad, sad indeed. The Jason will stop first in England and then go to Havre, France. From there she will visit other countries. She is starting early so as to be sure the presents reach the 1,000,000 fatherless war children of Europe before Christmas. The Jason is 336 feet long and can carry 10,500 tons. She is of steel throughout and cost nearly $1,000,000. Gifts must reach New York by Nov. 9. Many railroads are carrying the gifts free.

exterior walls. Then the cardinal and clergy marched through the centre aisle of the church, through lines of the members of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, to the main altar, where a pontifical high mass was begun, with the Rt. Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D. D., V. G., auxiliary bishop of Boston, celebrating.

Cardinal O'Connell presided at the mass, and at the end of the communion addressed the gathering. The church was thronged. At the conclusion of the mass the procession, including Bishop Anderson and the officers of the mass, proceeded through the centre aisle to the rectory; the cardinal blessing the ground through both inside and outside the church.

Officers of the Mass

The officers of the mass besides Archbishop Anderson were the Rev. Arthur T. Connolly of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, assistant priest; the Rev. John J. Ryan of St. Paul's church, Cambridge, deacon; the Rev. L. W. Slattery of St. Joseph's church, West End, sub-deacon; and the Rev. Mark E. Madden of St. Thomas' church, master of ceremonies.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor E. J. Moriarty, P. R., rector of the church, greeted the cardinal. He said that the priests and people of the parish rejoiced at the coming of the cardinal to bless again the church. "I but echo the sentiments of all," he said, "when I give you a thousand welcomes and offer you loving greetings."

KILLED BY HIS OWN AUTO

PORTLAND, Nov. 2.—Hugh H. Lappin, treasurer of the J. J. Lappin company, grain dealers in this city, sustained injuries while cranking his automobile yesterday afternoon, which resulted in his death a few hours later at a local hotel. The gear of the machine had been left in, and when Mr. Lappin moved the engine the automobile started and crowded him against the side of the garage. His hip was crushed and he sustained internal injuries. Mr. Lappin was 46 years old and is survived by his wife.

UNFAIRNESS TO WALSH

The statement made by Senator Edward Fisher and published in Saturday's issue of The Sun commands the respect and attention of all the voters of Lowell who are lovers of truth. The unassailable record of its author, his reputation for veracity and honorable dealing, his legislative achievements and his well known dislike of political hypocrisy give it a force which twenty campaign speeches cannot equal. Furthermore, the declaration of Senator Fisher that it was made "in order that justice may be done to all" recommends it to the attention of the fair-minded men of all parties who demand that a man be attacked, if at all, in the open and not stabbed in the back.

The Sun has heretofore called attention to the mendacity of the accusations made against His Excellency and to their rampant unfairness. Candidate McCall, in speaking of the Walsh administration in this city, accused the chief executive of extravagance—studiously omitting to mention that if the last legislature was extravagant, the responsibility rests on those who controlled it—the republicans. He did, however, accuse the governor of boosting the salary of his private secretary, Judge Menney, and declared that, in this, Governor Walsh gave bad example to the legislature—a legislature, by the way, which would not be disposed to follow the example of the governor for good or evil and whose extravagance in many cases the governor strove to restrain.

Mr. McCall deliberately told this to the people of Lowell, but he failed to give the facts. Senator Fisher tells the facts, and in a way that must carry conviction to the most ardent republican in the city who is honest in his judgment. At the outset, the senator says that though "no member of the legislature fought harder or more consistently against salary raises and undue expenditures" than he did, he supported the bill to increase this salary. He then gives many good reasons why $4000 a year is not excessive, but this is not the particular point at issue, viz.: the injustice and unfairness of those who accuse Gov. Walsh of extravagance.

That the matter of the secretary's salary is comparatively slight does not matter. Where grave accusations are not obtainable, slight things must be exaggerated. Nevertheless it does not seem right that Mr. McCall or any other aspirant to Governor Walsh's present office should accuse him of anything for which the responsibility rests almost wholly on the republicans. Senator Fisher deserves the thanks not only of democrats but of the honorable men of all parties for coming out to tell the truth and expose the falsity of republican charges.

Incidentally, Senator Fisher says that for years the governors of Massachusetts have been wont to pay their secretaries partly out of their own pockets. As the governors have generally been men of unusual wealth, this has been easily done. Governor Walsh is not in a financial position to pay his secretary personally and, instead of being censured, he should be commended for meeting a salary problem so honestly. Even those who accuse him of boosting the salary did not call $4000 a year excessive. One air bubble has been punctured. A campaign he has been mailed, and the facts vindicate Governor Walsh fully. Vote for him, not only as an expression of confidence in his administration but as a rebuke to those who have attacked him so grossly, so persistently and so unfairly.

This is but one sample of the arguments against the governor; but the only reason why the republicans want him ousted is that he is a democrat. The only reason why they favor McCall is that he is a republican.

THE PUBLIC MARKET

The voters of Lowell will be called upon tomorrow to decide whether this city shall require or not suitable structures for a public market, and we are to assume that on the answer will depend whether Lowell will have such a market in the near future or not. It may be that even an affirmative vote might be followed by the inactivity shown in the public hall, the contagious hospital, the high school, and many other matters, but this does not affect the principle of the public market. The point for the voters to decide is whether such a market is desirable in Lowell or whether it is impractical.

At the meeting held over a year ago relative to this same subject, the farmers of the vicinity seemed to favor the project. The argument published by the Lowell board of trade and purporting to speak for the farmer also favors it. There is certainly something wrong when farmers of Dracut, Tewksbury, and other towns just across the line transport their goods to Boston and sell to wholesalers, who in turn sell the produce to Lowell retailers. But whether the public market would furnish any remedy for this is largely problematical.

At the best, the public market cannot serve the entire city, because people will not put themselves out to do their own transporting. If such a market be located in a very populous neighborhood it might be the means of attracting a brisk trade in direct buying and selling, but to benefit the entire city, markets would have to be established in the various sections or in the chief transportation centers. The market may be of these cities to avail of it to the full, but no one can vote on it intelligently who does not understand its inherent limitations.

Charles Sumner Bird, commenting on the Boston public market a few days ago condemned it owing to the fact that it tends to eliminate the retailer instead of the wholesaler. On this phase of the matter the public will be little interested. Those who wish to make a nickel on a long way and those who favor old-fashioned hawking would find the public market advisable—that is, the ideal public market. Only experience can prove whether Lowell wants such a market. Think it over in all its phases before you vote.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

The various candidates may have differed on many fine points but they all agreed on the fact that a large vote is desirable. The time will come when the successful aspirant of tomorrow, the defeated candidate and all the voters will have passed away from the world of politics and business, but Massachusetts will still be governed by a man chosen by the citizens of the future. The war in Europe should be an incentive to you to assert your prerogative as well as to perform your duty which is to turn out tomorrow and vote for the candidate of your choice. No matter whether you are personally indifferent to the fortunes of all the men on the various party tickets. If you are an American citizen who realizes what it means, you will go to the polls tomorrow and vote. It is especially desirable that you vote the democratic ticket, but if you cannot do so conscientiously, vote anyhow.

We suggest the democratic ticket because in a large national sense the democratic party is the party of reform, not merely promised future reform but demonstrated reform. No other party of late years has made such large promises and has kept them. From the top to the bottom it is permeated with the spirit of its great leader, Pres. Woodrow Wilson, who has written his name large in American history and in doing it has fulfilled his public pledges and kept America out of the hell of world war. In appealing for your vote, we only repeat the request of that same great president who asks that you give him practical support by electing members of his party to office.

We also ask your vote for the democratic party because it is the party of Governor Walsh, a chief executive who, under peculiar difficulties has had your interest at heart and who has served you well. Do not be misled by false attacks on him but vote fairly and squarely for a broad and public-spirited citizen. Vote also for Lieut.-Gov. Barry, his accomplished and active co-worker, and for the other men on the democratic ticket.

A SING-SING CHAUFFEUR

Governor Glynn did the proper thing in promptly discharging the warden of Sing Sing prison after some revelations of the brand of justice administered by him. The specific charge was that a bank wrecker of some means was hired as the warden's chauffeur, having driven him on long journeys and sometimes having been left alone in New York and elsewhere for hours at a time. This was during the time that the banker was supposed to be doing hard labor in Sing Sing. The warden did not attempt to defend his use of the banker-chauffeur, merely saying that he chose him for the honorable position because he appeared to be a gentleman. Gilbert and Sullivan in their palmiest days never conceived a better burlesque on justice than this incident which has too many humorous features to be condemned as it deserves. Sing-Sing officials learn very slowly; this is by no means the first revelation of laxity in its administration, though it is one of the most picturesque.

ONLY TESTED METHODS

Dr. Murlin's advice before the Middlesex County Teachers' association in Tremont Temple, that only proved methods of education should be introduced into the schools, comes appropriately at a time when faddists advocate teaching everything up to sex consciousness. "We cannot afford to experiment with material so precious as childhood," he said, and wisely. The greatest men in our history and in all histories were men trained in the sound fundamentals of education and under systems that respected home and school discipline. There has been a danger of late years that the pendulum was about to swing in the other direction. If Dr. Murlin's advice is indicative of a realization of danger ahead, it is gratifying indeed. Let us have the tried and true educational methods that have given us clever and noble men and women.

MILITARY OFFENSE

During the annual maneuvers of the British Territorials a private was riding one day in a train with his uniform coat unbuttoned. This caused a sergeant to say:
"Button up that coat! Haven't you got any sense of military decency?"
But here a gentleman on the left interposed, saying to the sergeant:
"How dare you give commands with a cigar in your mouth? I am Major Fitzhugh Calbraith."

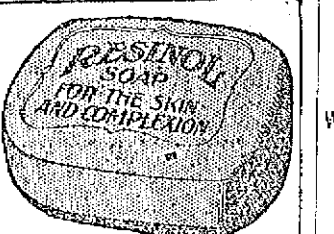

At this point an elderly gentleman with a white mustache leaned over and murmured in the major's ear:
"Col. Brewster Fairfax is sorry to remind you, sir, that to scold a sergeant in the presence of a private is a military offense hard to overlook."

FAMILIAR REASONING

In a certain home missionary movement every participant was to contribute $1 that she had earned herself by hard work. The night of the collection of the dollars came, and various and droll were the stories of earning and money. One woman had shampooed hair, another had made doughnuts, another had secured newspaper subscriptions, and so on.
"The chairman turned to a handsome woman in the front row.
"Now, madam, it is your turn," he said. "How did you earn your dollar?"
"I got it from my husband," she answered.
"Oh," said he. "From your husband?" There was no hard work about that."
The woman smiled faintly.
"You don't know my husband," she said.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Any soap will clean your skin—a bar of laundry soap will do it if you do not care what becomes of your complexion. But you know that laundry soap contains harsh, drying alkali that would ruin your skin and hair, so you never think of using it for your toilet.

Many toilet soaps contain this same injurious alkali, and to it are added the most potent dyes. These give it soothing, healing properties which clear the complexion, comfort tender skins and keep the hair rich and lustrous.

LORD FISHER POPULAR

FIRST SEA LORD OF THE EIGHTH ADMIRALTY NOW 73 YEARS OF AGE

Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, now first sea lord of the English admiralty, has been admiral of the British fleet since 1905. He was born in 1841 and entered the British naval service when 13 years old, working his way up through all the grades. When the British channel fleet was reorganized in 1897 Fisher had a serious difference with Lord Charles Beresford regarding his composition. Both the public and members of parliament took sides in the controversy, and ultimately Lord Charles Beresford was forced out of the fleet. Lord Fisher is 73 years old. His appointment to succeed Prince Louis of Battenberg, who resigned, is popular.

J. E. CONANT & CO.'S SALE

DISPOSSES OF LUZERNE KNITTING COMPANY AT WEST PITTSFORD, PA. FOR SUM OF $21,000

The sale of the property of the Luzerne knitting mills at West Pittsford, Pennsylvania, went forward Thursday as advertised. The sale began promptly at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and was fully completed at half past two. The real estate was purchased locally by J. M. Anderson, acting as attorney, for the sum of $14,500 and the taxes and insurance. The machinery and mechanical equipment went broadest to purchasers from as far west as Michigan, from as far south as North Carolina, from as far north as Connecticut and from very much of the intervening territory. While the total sale was only about $21,000 against an assessed valuation of $23,000, it by no means shows the success of the spirit and activity of the sale.

WARREN CLUB PARTY

PRESENTED PRESIDENT FARRELL
TOKEN OF ESTEEM—HALLOWEEN PARTY ENJOYED

A delightful Halloween party was held at the Warren club rooms in the Old Fellows building in Middlesex street Saturday evening with all the characteristic witches astride brooms, ghosts, goblins and other Halloween spirits in attendance. There were many guests present, including friends from North Cambridge, Dorchester, Boston, Haverhill, Nashua and Reading. The rooms were elaborately decorated with pumpkins, faces, Jack-o'-lanterns and other designs from which beamed the varicolored lights.

But the occasion, aside from merely making merry on Halloween had a much more significant meaning, and after the opening of the evening's festivities with selections by Broderick's union orchestra. Mr. John Farrell, who recently resigned as president of the club was presented a handsome traveling bag as a testimonial of appreciation of services well rendered and of esteem by the members of the club. Mr. Frank Finnerty made the presentation speech, and in a few well chosen words expressed the sentiment of the donors in a most fitting manner. Mr. Farrell had entered into the spirit of the occasion, blissfully ignorant of the surprise awaiting him, but managed to express his heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift.

Immediately following the presentation, a delightful musical program was carried out, with Mr. Thomas Dowd, one of Lowell's leading instrumentalists at the piano. The first number, a violin solo by Mr. Edward Elton was well received. Mr. Thomas Baxter pleased with the song, "Just a Little Love." Mr. William McCarthy gave several pleasing selections on the piano, while the reading, "Asleep at the Switch," by Frank O'Brien, was highly appreciated. Mr. Franklin Williams then applauded with "Would You Take Me Back Again," and Mr. Fred Smith, acting president of the club favored with a few remarks.
The gathering then sat down to a sumptuous collation prepared by Caterer Dick Talafarro and many grotesque and varied favors were passed around as mementos of the occasion. The dance hall was next visited and general dancing to the strains of Broderick's orchestra was continued till midnight.

Those responsible for the success of the affair on various topics of special interest to the profession, Miss Emma M. Nichols spoke on "The Red Cross Nursing Service," Dr. W. P. Powers, secretary of the Massachusetts state board of nurse registration, gave some timely information on legislation and matters pertaining thereto. And the closing remarks were by Miss Lela Richards, the first graduate nurse in the United States.

LIEUT. GEN. CHAFFEE DEAD

Former Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army Rose From the Ranks—Wounded in Three Battles

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 2.—Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee (retired), former chief of staff of the United States army, died at his home here yesterday of typhoid pneumonia. His body will be taken to Washington, leaving Tuesday, for interment in Arlington National cemetery.

After his retirement, General Chaffee was appointed head of the Los Angeles water board. Later he accepted the presidency of an insurance company, but retired from business affairs a few months ago.

Wounded in Three Battles
Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee rose from a private to the command of the United States army. He never saw the inside of West Point except as a visitor, but he was one of the greatest fighters that ever led Uncle Sam's troops.

When he finally came to the office chair of the chief of staff in Washington, he brought with him the scars of three bullet wounds received at Chickamauga, Gettysburg and Santiago, and an unsurpassed record for personal prowess in the campaign and on the battlefield.

Few modern generals entrusted with the command of large military affairs have ever seen so much real bloodshed as he.

His most famous achievements as a field commander were the planning and execution of the attack on the stone fort of El Caney in the Cuban campaign, and the leading of the American troops in the capture of Pinar del Rio in the capture of Pinar del Rio.

In the death of General Chaffee the army loses one of its most spectacular figures. Starting as a cavalry trooper, and later winning laurels as an Indian fighter, his conduct on the battlefield was the stuff of the showy daredevilry of the cowboy.

Reckless Bravery on Field
His most famous exhibition of this was when he dashed out before his men at El Caney in the thick of the Spanish fire, and, waving his hat to encourage them in the charge. More than one of his steps in rank was one of his reckless bravery in leading a cavalry charge.

But he combined with this characteristic remarkable cunning in the presence of the enemy. In the west he won the name of the "sleuth," because, it is said, he was never ambushed, or successfully tricked by the Indians in his many campaigns against them.

General Chaffee enlisted in the sixth cavalry in 1861, and served as a private and non-commissioned officer till 1863, when he was made second lieutenant. He took part in more than 50 engagements in the civil war, being present finally at Appomattox in 1865.

After the war he went with his regiment to Texas. For more than 20 years he served constantly in the west.

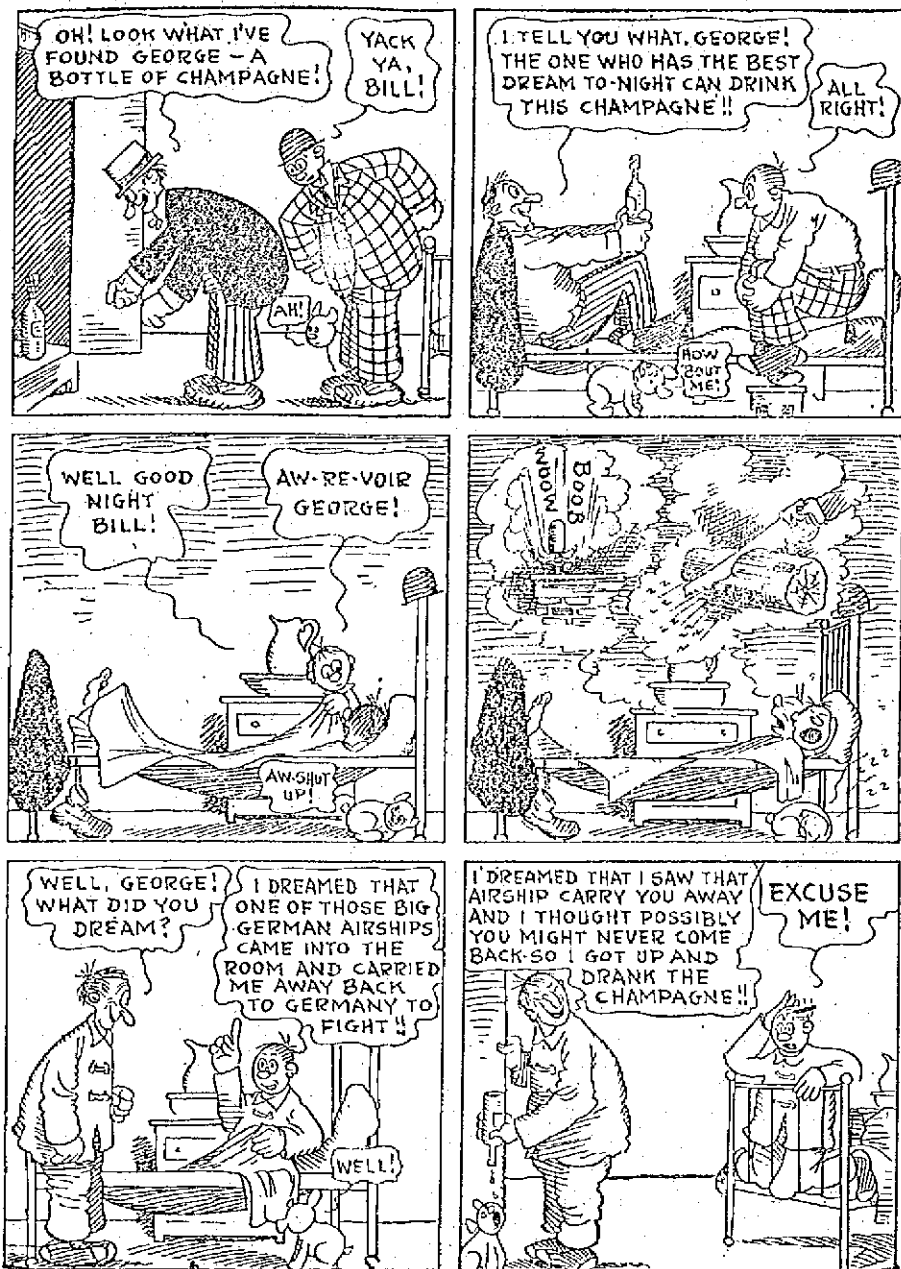

He was made a captain in 1867 and a major in 1868. He had previously been brevetted major in 1863 for his services in the battle of Point Creek, Texas, against the Comanche Indians, received further brevets for gallantry for leading a cavalry charge over "rough and precipitous bluffs on the Red river" of Texas in 1874, and for his part in the action at Big Dry Wash, Arizona, in 1884.

When the Spanish war broke out he was made first brigadier and then major-general of volunteers, and took command of one of the divisions that went to capture Santiago. After that campaign he returned to Cuba as chief of staff for Generals Brooke and Wood.

Later he commanded the China expedition and then the American forces in the Philippines, coming home to wind up his service as lieutenant-general and chief of staff. He retired Feb. 1, 1908.

HOT FIGHT IN VERMONT

CHARLES A. PROUTY SEEKING TO DEFEAT SENATOR WILLIAM P. DILLINGHAM

Charles A. Prouty is the progressive, democratic and prohibitionist candidate for United States senator from Vermont. He is seeking to wrest the seat away from Senator William P. Dillingham, republican, who has been in the upper branch of congress since 1900. Mr. Prouty is former interstate commerce commissioner and is a republican. He tried first for the republican nomination, but failed to get it. Senator Dillingham withdrew. Then Mr. Prouty accepted the progressive and prohibitionist nominations. The democratic nomination came to him when Charles D. Watson, who had been chosen by the state convention, withdrew. The Vermont fight is among the hottest waged by progressives and democrats to oust an old republican senator.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES

GHOSTS, Goblins, SPOOKS AND WITCHES AT Y. W. C. A.—PARTIES IN CHURCH VESITRIES

There was one great big time at the Y. W. C. A. Saturday night. It was a Halloween party and there was no end to the long line of ghosts and goblins. Of course they weren't real ghosts, or goblins, but they looked the part and it gave one the "cold creeps" to listen to their weird moanings. Each guest, as she appeared costumed and masked, was grabbed by a white spook, who escorted her through the mazes and terrors of "Spook Alley" to the gymnasium floor. Here, at 8:30, the grand march formed, with Ruth Choate and Millan Walker, as gypsies, leading, and the scene was a very remarkable one. The gymnasium had been decorated with cornstalks and leaves, pumpkins and black and orange streamers by a group of the house girls under the chairmanship of Cora King; the program was in charge of Eva Henderson, representing the Riverlock club; the refreshments were

FIRE ON LAKEVIEW AVE.

TENANTS DRIVEN INTO STREET EARLY YESTERDAY MORNING—CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Fire which started in the store of a large block on Lakeview avenue, near Coburn street, shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning, drove the occupants of the tenement above into the street attired in what clothing they could reach in a moment's notice. Fortunately no one was injured and after the firemen had worked for over an hour extinguishing the flames the tenants returned to their sleeping quarters.

The cause of the blaze could not be learned. A passerby discovered smoke pouring from the building at 1:20 o'clock and he immediately sounded an alarm from box 62, corner of Lakeview avenue and Coburn street. Upon the arrival of the department several lines of hose were put into use and for nearly an hour water was poured onto the burning from all sides. The store and parts of the block were practically gutted when the firemen finished their work, the damage being heavy. The building is owned by M. J. Jurelsen.

Box 521 yesterday afternoon was for a brush fire in Pine street. No damage.

Brush fires were also reported yesterday in the vicinity of the Bunick club, Sayce street and at High street, near Fort Hill park.

OIL MILLIONS FOR THE EUROPEAN WAR VICTIMS

Rockefeller Foundation Will Start Relief Ship From Rotterdam Tomorrow—Loaded With Food for Belgians

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Rockefeller Foundation has determined to employ its immense resources for the relief of non-combatants in the countries afflicted by the war and stands ready to give "millions of dollars, if necessary," for the purpose.

This was announced last night by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., president of the foundation.

In pursuance of this philanthropy the foundation will send a commission to Europe in a few days to report first hand as to how, where and where aid can be rendered most effectively. At a cost of $775,000 it already has chartered a ship and loaded it with 1000 tons of provisions for the relief of the starving Belgians.

"This action is taken," Mr. Rockefeller says, "as a natural step in fulfilling the charter purposes of the foundation, namely to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

The ship is the Massapequa, the largest neutral vessel now in New York harbor. She will sail Tuesday morning direct for Rotterdam, with a verification from the British consul at New York that its cargo is destined for the use of Belgian non-combatants and should not be delayed in transit. The supplies are consigned to the American consul at Rotterdam, and will be distributed by the Belgian relief commission.

Mr. Rockefeller has been in communication with Ambassador Page at London, and makes public a cablegram, in which the ambassador describes the dire need of the Belgians, and says that "it will require a million dollars a month for seven or eight months to prevent starvation."

"In fact," the ambassador said, "many will starve now before food can reach them." He added that the British government forbids the export of food, and that none can be bought on the continent.

It was in response to this urgent message and a similar one from H. C. Hoover of the American relief committee in London that the foundation decided to send a relief ship "at the earliest possible moment."

Work "Absolutely Neutral"

Mr. Rockefeller makes clear in his announcement that whatever steps are taken by the foundation in the administration of its relief work "will be absolutely neutral." The commission of investigation will be headed by Wickliffe Rose, director-general of the international health commission, and will visit the several countries affected by the war.

The announcement follows: "It having become clear that one of the most terrible and appealing effects of the war will fall upon the non-combatants—those most innocent of any part in the cause or the conduct of the conflict—the Rockefeller Foundation has determined to exert itself to the extent, if necessary, of millions of dollars for the relief of non-combatants in the various countries involved."

"This action is taken as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely, to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

"I have written the American ambassador in London that we foresee the probability that large masses of the population will be in dire need of relief at a time when the resources of the world are being drawn upon for immediate relief will be, perhaps, very nearly exhausted. Under the circumstances, we feel the need of further advice."

Commission to Europe

"In order to obtain expert opinion as to the time and place and means of rendering aid most effectively, the foundation has arranged to send to Europe within the next few days a commission which shall visit the countries affected and advise us first hand. The chairman of the commission will be Wickliffe Rose, director-general of the international health commission, whose successful experience in organizing the campaign against hookworm disease in various parts of the world peculiarly fits him for the task. We are also seeking to enlist the co-operation of one or two others experienced in the administration of relief to those in need."

"The sending of such a mission will not render unnecessary the efforts of other agencies of relief, for the need is widespread and millions of people are suffering. All steps which the Rockefeller Foundation takes will, of course, be absolutely neutral."

"To avoid delay and to provide relief at the earliest possible moment for the suffering people of Belgium, the foundation has chartered the largest neutral ship available in New York harbor and purchased a full cargo of supplies to be despatched immediately."

"This action will but supplement the public spirited efforts of the Belgian relief committee of which Mr. Robert W. DeForest is chairman. That the necessity is vital and worthy of the heartiest support is indicated by the following cablegrams which in reply to inquiries we have received from Mr. Page, the American ambassador at London:

Belgians Starving

"Belgians on verge of starvation. I emphatically regard it most opportune to help. I have never known such a case of need. Commerce to distribute food consists of prominent Americans here and influential Belgians in Belgium and American minister and consuls in Belgium, all under my direction. British government forbids export of food and no food can be bought on continent. Help needed is food, and clothing for women and children."

"It will require a million dollars a month for seven or eight months to prevent starvation. In fact, many will starve now before food can reach them. No food can be bought and exported from any country in Europe. Every dollar you choose to give will save or prolong a human life. If you can give it quickly enough. No other time will come in any land when there can be greater need. Do not send money. Buy six parts wheat, two parts rice two parts beans, and ship in neutral ships consigned to American consul at Rotterdam. Inform me when you ship and I will arrange all diplomatic requirements for landing for transit to Belgium, and for distributions in small quantities by the commission of relief, which as a means of reaching all the people, have taken over all grocery stores."

"Immediately upon receiving these messages the Rockefeller Foundation enlisted the co-operation of the shipping department of the Standard Oil company of New York in securing the vessel, and at the same time gladly availed itself of the voluntary services of Mr. Lionel Hageniers, a Belgian, now resident in New York, and member of the Belgian relief committee. In purchasing the cargo the foundation encountered considerable difficulty in finding a capacious vessel, and the pressure upon the market for foodstuffs was such that it was impossible to comply exactly with Ambassador Page's suggestion as to proportions. To fill and despatch the ship called for an expenditure of $775,000.

Ship Sails Tuesday

"On next Tuesday morning, therefore, the Massapequa of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship company will sail direct to Rotterdam. Holland, laden with 1000 tons of supplies consigned to the American consul.

"The cargo will consist of: "25,000 barrels of flour. "14,000 packets (100 pounds each) of rice. "2000 bags (200 pounds each) of beans. "1000 boxes (100 pounds each) of bacon."

"The British consul has kindly agreed to certify that these supplies are absolutely for the aid of non-combatants and should not be delayed in transit."

"The extraordinary need in Belgium is further indicated by the following cablegram received from H. C. Hoover of the American relief committee in London:

Need Five Millions Monthly

"Have received reports from members of our commission, from the American minister in Brussels and from local officials that within three weeks the last vestige of foodstuffs in Belgium will have been exhausted and the entire population of over 2,000,000 people will be faced with starvation. The minimum supply of foodstuffs required amounts to about 90,000 tons of cereal per month, together with bacon and lard. The minimum monthly expenditure required is from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, of which some part returnable through sales. It therefore appears the problem of feeding the people of Belgium transcends other Belgian relief. The one function of Americans in Belgian relief is the purchase and despatch of food. We have expended every dollar that we have received in the purchase and despatch of foodstuffs already and it will take all the funds we can raise here to take care of the emergency pending arrival of funds from America."

"It is obvious that no philanthropic exertion will be too great to relieve the acute suffering of these victims of the war who are innocent of any participation in it."

Has $100,000,000

The Rockefeller Foundation, which was incorporated by congress last year, and to which John D. Rockefeller gave $100,000,000, has for its announced purposes the prevention and relief of suffering, the advancement of civilization by the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge, and the promotion of the elements of human progress by eleemosynary and philanthropic means.

Combining Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

The following is rather a good suggestion from Hortense, for those who travel on the trains at any time, or even for the girl who moters. The towels, she says, used on trains or at motor inns are apt to be rather rough for the face. Old, soft, cotton handkerchiefs are the best thing to wipe the cream off with.

Put them in places just large enough to use once, then you can throw them away after using. Old linen toweling will also answer.

The paper towels are sometimes used, but for wiping off the cream they are not as good as the soft cotton toweling. They are very useful though for drying the hands.

Hortense is an advocate of the water drinking habit. She declares that it is the greatest of all aids to a beautiful complexion. To have a clear complexion, it is imperative that all the excretory organs are kept in a healthy condition and skin diseases are the result of not drinking sufficient water to aid the system to carry off the waste matter. The water, of course, must be pure.

Take a glass a half-hour before breakfast, several between meals and a glass before retiring.

Every morning Hortense urges me to take an early walk in the clear autumnal air. Sometimes I protest, but when I return, with cheeks glowing and sparkling eyes, I am thankful for her advice.

Deep breathing is naturally an accompaniment to walking. So if you walk well you will also breathe well. In walking hold the chest high and head erect, not tipped back or inclined forward. Take a firm, light stride.

The body should be balanced on the hips without swaying. Keep the mouth closed and breathe through the nose. Never allow yourself to acquire a mindless step.

Most women are fond of dainty perfumes and bath vanities, but usually they are expensive. Hortense sends the following one which can be made at home.

It is a very simple powder delightful to use after the bath and one which will absorb any unpleasant odor or excessive perspiration, and is made as follows: Boracic acid, one ounce; precipitated chalk, two ounces; powdered talcum, perfumed, seven ounces. Of course, a smaller quantity may be made up, maintaining the same proportion.

After bathing the wrinkles with warm water and castile soap, dry thoroughly and then dust with this powder.

Hortense usually sets aside a day for the making of my soap and cream. She especially wishes my readers to try the following liquid soap recipe for green liquid soap, which is recommended by skin specialists for fine skins, or for those which have the pores extended, and can be made at home.

Take equal parts of glycerine, water, alcohol and castile soap. Shave the soap into the water and stir over the fire till the mixture is smooth.

Add the glycerine, and lastly, after the kettle is removed from the fire, the alcohol. Add a tablespoonful of eau de cologne, if perfume is desired.

Hortense has given me the recipe of an excellent cleansing cream that is very good for those who are troubled with blackheads.

Every night before retiring apply the cleansing cream to face and throat with the tips of the fingers and wipe it off thoroughly with a soft towel, then apply the blackhead lotion and leave on over night.

In the morning cleanse the face with the toilet water instead of ordinary water. White vasoline, one ounce; white wax, one ounce; oil of sweet almonds, four ounces; extract of violets, ten drops.

It is claimed that there is always the best obtainable. The long open tunic with its curvaceous edges is eminently graceful and it flares in a most attractive manner while the fur serves to emphasize that feature. Nothing more fashionable and nothing handsomer than broadcloth could be suggested for such a costume but there is no one model that can not be varied again and again and this suit can be made of velvet, of corduroy, of one of the new zibeline or poplin suitings or it could be made with coat and tunic of one material over skirt of another. In place of the fur could be used one of the handsome fur cloths, for fur cloths were never so beautiful, never so rich in effect and they are being employed by the best tailors in just such ways.

The comfort of the separate coat that can be slipped on over a complete gown is not to be disputed. There are two shown here that are exceedingly smart and handsome and available for many uses. The long coat that is loose and ample and buttoned up closely at the neck seems especially designed for motoring and occasions of the kind. Here it is made from one of the new velvet finished cloths showing a slight striped effect and the collar and cuffs are of fox fur.

On the next figure is shown a belted coat and bolero of various sorts make an interesting feature of the season. Here the costume is made of gabardine combined with velvet and there is a circular tunic over a plain two-piece skirt. All the lines are good and the costume is not alone a generally useful one. It also will be found generally becoming. If liked, the tunic can be made longer but, for many women this length is the becoming one. The bound edges make an interesting feature also for this is a season of much braid and of such things used to a great extent. While it is probable that the military thought that so completely fills the mind just now will find its greatest reflection in the later fashions, braids and trimmings of the sort are greatly in vogue.

On the third figure, there is shown a costume of broadcloth with fur-trimmed and velvet revers. The materials are exceedingly handsome and exceedingly smart and the lines are

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

CARING FOR THE PIANO

"Do you know Marie, I haven't until today touched the piano all summer and it is in an awful shape. I know. I tried it just a little, this morning, and it doesn't sound or look good at all," was Marjorie's greeting to Marie one morning.

"You certainly should have it attended to at once, I should think," responded Marie. "Your aunt has hers tuned at regular intervals. This is important for the sake of the piano itself and because it is bad for the player to accustom her ear to faulty tones."

"The piano will keep its tone sweet for years if it is tuned by an expert not less than three times a year. It should be exercised regularly, however, in between."

"An expensive piano is worth caring for. It stands any amount of neglect, but neglect will soon spoil its tone and produce a jangling which is most unpleasant."

"Never stand the piano too near a heater, or directly over a furnace, because the heat will dry it out, as the tune say. Really, for the sake of the instrument, the room in which it is placed, should have little or no heat at all."

"The tone is higher in a cold room than in a warm one, on account of the metal plates whose resonance depends upon their length and tension. A singer is very sensitive to the difference of tone in the piano accompanying the voice, and an experienced vocalist often insists upon singing in a room of certain temperature, the piano being previously tuned in that temperature to enable her to depend upon its tone."

"In dry weather the lid should be left off the keys, if care is taken to remove the dust daily. Keys will not turn yellow if in regular use and allowed plenty of air. The ivory keys used on old pianos would turn yellow but the celluloid keys now generally preferred ought to keep white with a little care, especially if no one is allowed to touch the piano with sticky fingers."

"It liberates the fingers to soak them in hot water for a few minutes and for this reason, as well as for the sake of the keys, the habit of washing the hands before touching the keys is an excellent one."

"It is not good for the keys to wet them often, but now and then it seems necessary. In this case, a champagne wrung out in cold water containing a few drops of ammonia, will remove finger marks."

"The wooden case of a piano is highly polished and after the damp heat of summer is apt to look smoky. A soft cloth wet with cold water applied vigorously will remove this dullness entirely. If not, a few drops of household ammonia added to the cold water will have the desired effect."

THE SUN'S WOMEN'S PAGE

Many evidences of the interest the women take in this big feature of The Sun have shown that The Sun's Women's Page, which is a regular feature in The Sun every Monday evening has won its way into the hearts of the women readers and captivated their attention, for which purpose it was intended. This office has received many expressions of appreciation from delighted readers who have found the women's page very entertaining and helpful. One man remarked that the last admonition he invariably received from his wife as he left the house was, "Now John, be sure to bring home The Sun tonight, I want to see the Women's Page."

One instance which stands out more prominently perhaps than others is the fact that a great number of interested readers called up The Sun office to find out where they could buy the patterns of the latest styles pictured on the Women's Page. As these styles featured on this page are the celebrated May Manton styles, the editor informed The Ladies' Specialty Shop, 133 Merrimack street, who sell the May Manton patterns. The Ladies' Specialty Shop accordingly advertised these patterns for the convenience of the readers, as their ad on this page shows. This incident also demonstrates the great usefulness of The Sun's women's page.

Should any farmer so far forget the traditions of his class, as to be up late and in the city at night, I wonder that more than one looks with longing eyes on those beautiful lanterns that decorate the street corners. I wish they could know how glad some of us would be to see an occasional one removed. Take the one at Tower's Corner for example. Coming up Central and into Gorham it is all right, also passing either up or down Middlesex street; but coming up Central to back Central the lantern is most awkwardly placed. It means that a driver must proceed up Central street to a point near the Lowell Trust company, where he must make an abrupt turn to his left, crossing just in front of the bank building; another abrupt turn, this time to his right, and he is finally headed up back Central street. There is no doubt but that this light does good duty in its present position, but surely it could be more conveniently placed for the driver going up back Central street.

Ignorance of the Law

In New York the police court authorities find themselves face to face with a condition the parallel of which may be found here in Lowell. There the foreign population is so large and so varied, that the judges find themselves sitting in judgment on violations of statutes, who, on account of being ignorant of the law, do not always know they are lawbreakers until they have been apprehended by the police. The same condition was illustrated here a short time ago when a foreigner was fined for using a milk bottle as a receptacle for something other than milk. The victim was ignorant of the fact that he was violating a statute, but this of course did not excuse him. In New York the judges believe they have found a solution of the difficulty in having printed in various foreign languages lists of the statutes most commonly violated. These are widely circulated, and already there is a marked falling off in the number of violations of these statutes.

Something for Nothing Scheme

No matter how many times persons have found themselves victimized by the promoters of "something for nothing," still they rush headlong into every new scheme that comes along. Appearances to the contrary, no one has ever yet received something for nothing. We have also proven to ourselves that we pay most for the things that are given to us. How anyone can believe that a firm employing several clerks, using several delivery wagons, and paying heavy rent for a store, can afford to give away presents or premiums is past understanding. They see the promoters of these schemes grow rich, yet they flock to them to get something for nothing. In the words of the humorist, "It can't be done." It is simply another example of "fooling some of the people all the time."

Mayor Curley for Woman Suffrage

Mayor Curley of Boston has declared himself emphatically for suffrage. Whether suffrage for women be in accord with our own opinions or not, we cannot help admiring the man in high position who leaves no doubt in the public mind in regard to his position on the question. It has occurred to me that I have never heard Mayor Murphy's position on the question of woman suffrage declared. He may have expressed himself very emphatically in regard to it, but if so, I missed it and would like to hear the truth on the matter, particularly as I feel keenly on the subject myself.

Cultural vs. Vocational Training

In this day of vocational training, it did my heart good to hear Dr. Murphy, president of Boston university, hold forth last Friday in defense of cultural education. Surely a man of his training, his experience and his position, can speak with authority on the subject of education, and there is none among us who cannot listen with profit to his words. He deprecates industrial education for children in their teens, as it creates class distinctions—dividing young life up into sections, something most unfortunate in a republic like ours. He believes all young people should receive the same education in their teens that they may the better understand each other. He accuses the American people of blindly following the lead of Germany in the matter of education. "Where," he said, "ethics must go, honor must go, everything must go to keep industrial military efficiency."

It has been argued that it is a waste of time and energy for the boy who is not professionally inclined, to follow the study of Latin, Greek, literature, science, and upper mathematics, as given in the ordinary high school. This is not true. Surely the boy who follows a trade, will, in my opinion, make a better tradesman if he can read a good author intelligently, or if he can pick out the constituent elements of a good poem, story or picture, and he will be a happier man, because a world of pleasure and entertainment is his to enjoy, which ever remains unknown to the man who has learned only the use of the rule and square.

Cultural studies develop a person's sense of honor and of chivalry, and from common clay often produce a man. And when I write of culture, I do not mean the "culture" of the German soldier, but rather the culture of Emerson, Washington, Lincoln and Wilson.

FASHION NOTES

From the Originators of Styles — Features of Leading Garments

The present is an interesting season in matters pertaining to dress even while we are laboring under some few disadvantages, for we are making a great many new departures, we are learning a great many wholesome truths and we are altogether facing a new condition. The latest news from Paris assures us that the business of the city is as nearly normal as is possible under the conditions, that there is every effort being made to offset the inevitable strain. It would be well if we on this side of the sea would follow the same example and remember all that there is to encourage and all that there is to discourage.

We are hearing a great deal of cotton manufactures and the exploitation of cotton is being discussed in many ways. While it may be some time before our factories can turn out a few kinds of materials, there are now upon the market exceedingly dainty and exceedingly beautiful silks that can be utilized for many seasonable costumes. It really would not require any self-denial whatsoever to clothe oneself in cotton for many occasions and we all know once the demand is created, the supply will be on hand.

There is being planned an exhibition of American fashions and American designed garments, too, and already we hear of the most beautiful silks that are manufactured under the stars and stripes and so many materials of so many sorts that there seems little cause to cavil. Perhaps if we were shut up within our own boundaries for a little time, it might result in much good but, at this time, there is sufficient intercourse to bring us suggestions from across the sea and, for this present season at least, we are sufficiently familiar with the general tendency to need no further impetus.

As might have been foretold, the circular tunic has dropped to the circular skirt and the pleated tunic to the pleated skirt but that state of affairs in no way interferes with the fact that tunics over narrow skirts remain a favorite style. They are generally becoming, they are admired by the masculine contingent as well as by ourselves and they combine many things to assure their favor. They have grown longer until we see varying lengths from the tunic that

LACE AND FUR ARE CONSPICUOUS IN EVENING GOWNS THIS SEASON—BEAUTIFUL BROCADED SILKS SHOWING METAL THREADS

It is doubtful if we ever have known a season that presented richer or more sumptuous materials designed for evening wear. There are the most wonderfully beautiful brocaded silks, both all silk and those showing metal threads. Plain silks, satins and velvets are to be found in fascinating qualities and colors and lace of every known sort is profusely used while fur trimmings makes a really important feature. For the dance, the short skirt is of course a necessity but for the opera and dinner, the skirt with a narrow train is an interesting one shows only an inch or two of the skirt to the comparatively short one. To be smart, however, there must be flare and the flare grows more and more general. Not infrequently, both the flared and the straight effect are obtained in an evening costume by using transparent material over a heavier one and there is altogether most wonderful variety to be found even in the one idea. Exploited to-day, for example, is a dancing gown of white satin and white silk tulle. The satin makes a rather close and very prettily draped skirt, the folds of which are held at the sides by bunches of artificial flowers. The tulle is of the net, very full wired at the lower edge and finished with a band of silver braid with a fringe of white ostrich feathers below. As a matter of course, the close under skirt is as clearly visible as if the flared effect in the contour. This tunic, by the way, is about two inches shorter than the skirt.

The fringe of ostrich besides emphasizing the flare of the tunic goes to show one of the many uses to which feathers of the sort are being put. We started out with a season promising much for trimming. Undoubtedly a great deal will be used but feathers are being substituted in many instances and the ostrich is converted into trimmings of a great many beautiful sorts.

All sorts of furs are fashionable but the beaver is having great vogue. All the bears, the monkey, all long-haired furs are being used much after the manner of fringe and the fish continues the vogue of last season. Since with fur trimmed coats, the fur collar is not a necessity, the fashion becomes, in a sense, an economy, and many of the newest models show simple chokers and sleeve bands of the fur. The high collar is rapidly gaining vogue and makes a somewhat interesting feature of winter fashions. That it will not be exclusive in this climate is a foregone conclusion. The temperature is variable. We need and draperies are found in the most attractive and graceful form. These two gowns are fairly typical.

The one on the right is made with apron drapery that is caught up at the back in a looped effect and with a bodice that is one of the very newest and prettiest of the season. It suggests the basque idea in the fact that it extends over the skirt and it includes the most gracefully draped sleeves and the V-shaped neck that marks the latest models. The broadest skirt illustrated is one of the new ones with metal threads which in spite of greater warmth one day than another. The coat that is made to be fastened closely up about the throat can not be thrown open at need and while it has a certain smartness of its own and will gain many adherents, it is not likely to become an exclusive fashion. Even in blouse manufactures who cater to the most fashionable have found that there is a decided tendency to open necks and it is not at all unlikely that a compromise will be found in the very pretty neck trimmings that are designed to be worn some with coats and some with gowns.

Some of the very newest of the chemisettes are made with high collars and are buttoned right down the front. These that are integral parts of the costumes are sometimes made of satin and silk but there are separate ones of fine muslin that are charming for wear with many costumes and, while the collars are all high, they show interesting variety in shape and finish. For the street costumes, there are collarettes of velvet and of silk that are extremely becoming and give a very smart touch and, in some instances, there are similar accessories with upstanding ruffles of tulle that make exceedingly attractive frames for the face.

It is almost inevitable that the military suggestion should be found in the newest fashions and high collars and braid trimmings follow as a natural result. The Zouaves have attracted especial notice and immediately we have Zouave jackets. Among the very latest costumes to have arrived from across the sea is one of broadcloth in military blue which shows a narrow underskirt, a long plaited tunic, a wide sash of soft silk and a Zouave jacket richly braided with flat cord and held with small gold buttons. This jacket is finished with a high, truly military collar slightly rolled over at the ends. It is very charming, very attractive and so essentially youthful in effect that it is certain to gain adherents. In this instance, the braid is applied on the outside but one of the newest fashions is for braid or cord applied on the under side of the material, so giving a raised effect, but following the stamped pattern as would be done in the case of the braid on the outside.

Save all pieces of bread, cook advises. The larger pieces will make good toast and the smaller ones will roll into crumbs.

It is a good idea to place near the stove or on the warming oven a crock dish, and into this dish put every small scrap of bread, when you have collected enough roll them and put them into a fruit jar; tie over top of the jar a piece of cheese-cloth. This will keep out the dust and prevent the crumbs from becoming musty.

Cook makes the nicest salad dressing I ever tasted. Here is her recipe for mayonnaise which seldom fails: Have your mixing bowl cold. Mix together a teaspoon of salt, the same of mustard and one-quarter teaspoon of cayenne and paprika.

Beat the yolks of two eggs. Add to seasonings and stir and beat until it is thick. Add slowly four tablespoons of olive oil and lemon juice. Then add oil and lemon juice and vinegar until a cup of all and a tablespoonful of each of the acids has been added. If desired, the white of one egg beaten to a stiff froth, may be added, or half a cup of whipped cream.

Cook is an expert on laundering lingerie. She told me how to do it this morning so I pass it along to you. She says to wash it carefully in the usual way; when "bonedry" dip in fashionable. The girdle that swatches the figure can be either of the same material or of a different one. Velvet on satin would, for example, be handsome or, if liked, any one of the ribbons that are made for the purpose can be substituted for the silk. Long sleeves of thin, transparent material with low or half-low necks are smart and the frills that fall over the hands make a becoming finish. If something heavier than the satin is wanted, the over-blouse, train and girdle could be made of chiffon velvet with the skirt of satin and the drapery, sleeves and trimming of lace just as shown here.

and out several times in a basin of borax water, in the proportion of one large tablespoonful to one quart of hot water, stirring until dissolved. Squeeze (not wring) out as much moisture as possible, roll it smoothly in a Turkish towel for an hour; the article is easier to iron, looks cleaner and keeps fresher longer than when starch is used.

Some potato hints from cook this morning were very welcome to me and I hope you will find them useful. When mashing potatoes or other vegetables, she says, never use cold milk but hot, then they will be light and fluffy.

To get the full nutriment from a potato it should be cooked in the skin, as valuable food salts, lie just inside the covering.

Mashed potatoes, left over, should be packed in a cup or bowl until needed for frying. Another way to use it is to put into a double boiler with some warm milk. It will be quite tasty.

Cook was cleaning the teakettle with vinegar when I went to the kitchen this morning. "I never heard of that," I told her. "Oh, yes, ma'am," she remarked. "Sulphuric is good, too, but one should be very careful to wash the kettle thoroughly after using. Both are fine to remove the lime coating."

In filling the tea kettle in the morning, cook warns against using the water that first flows from the faucet, as this is stale from standing in the metal pipe besides it sometimes contains particles of the lead.

Food cooked with stale water is insipid and unwholesome. Also, do not neglect to empty the tea kettle, she says, before refilling with fresh water. Stale water loses its flavor that is imparted to foods cooked with it.

Cook washed the dishes this morning with milk in place of soap.

Half a cupful of milk put in a dish-tub full of hot water, she says, will serve instead of soap. It softens the water, keeps the hands better, because it will not roughen them like soap, and brightens dishes, cleaning off all grease and leaving no scum in the pan.

When washing china with gilt upon it, she advises against using soda. Rub a little soap on the dishcloth to make a nice lather, then rinse in clear water, is her way.

CAPTURED CANNON SHOWN TO AWAKEN WAR SPIRIT

Photos by American Press Association.

1.—Crowd at London recruiting station. 2.—British regiment marching through London on way to front. 3.—Captured German gun taken to England. 4.—Captured French guns paraded in Berlin. 5.—German war poster—translation, "German war surprise, 1914; our 42 centimeter bomb; Liege, Longwy, Namur, Metz; with God for king and fatherland."

By JOHN J. BREEN.

UNIQUE methods have been adopted by the nations warring in Europe to arouse the patriotism of the people at home. Frequently the news of a victory has been accompanied by a silent witness of a great battle. Captured cannons and flags have figured largely in demonstrations which were calculated not only to raise the drooping spirits of the populace, but to gain new recruits for the army.

One of the most striking and powerful methods was adopted by Great Britain. In the battle of the Marne English soldiers captured many of the Germans' powerful guns. Several of these were mounted on flat cars and shipped to a British base on the continent and later sent across the channel to England. Then they were decorated with signs briefly detailing what they were and hauled through the different cities in Great Britain and Ireland. In many cities and towns the effect was electrical. Thousands cheered and prayed for the success of the British arms, and other thousands made their way to the recruiting stations.

When Berlin was convinced that the powerful guns of the Krupp works had made good and reduced many of the forts, that were regarded as impregnable enterprises, with the sanction of the government, had composite pictures taken showing the big guns and pictures of the devastation they had wrought. These pictures were reproduced on postal cards and sent throughout the country. They made a profound impression on the people, particularly those in the country districts. Those who remained at home were more confident than ever of the ultimate success of the German arms.

Looked For Quick Decision. During the first two months of the great war in Europe it was natural, it was inevitable, that the whole world should watch for and expect battles and campaigns which might be decisive. The reason was simple. The three great conflicts of the nineteenth century which had impressed themselves upon the imagination of mankind had been short and sharp. Napoleon's Waterloo operations lasted barely two weeks. Six weeks measured the extent of the Austro-Prussian war. Four days after the declaration of war in the Franco-Prussian conflict Napoleon III. surrendered and Bismarck was crowned in Metz.

At the outset of the present war, too, all the preliminary operations seemed to promise one more swift, sure, fatal drive of the enemy of France. German mobilization was complete by Aug. 14,

On Aug. 20 German armies stood in Brussels, and three days later broke through the first line of French defense after defeating the allies at Mons and Charleroi. Ten days after the occupation of Brussels, Laon and La Fere the second line of French defense had been pierced and there was no further line of permanent forts between the French capital and a victorious German army.

Now, however, it is becoming more patent that we are no longer to look for a quick decision. Sedans and Waterloos are possible before nations are in arms, before millions of men have taken position in numbers fairly equal along lines equally defensible and sustained by resources in men, in money, in supplies wholly unexhausted and, for immediate operations, inexhaustible.

Such a transition, in popular expectation, in the character of military operation, was wholly discernible both in the north and in the south by the close of the second year of the civil war. Confederate generals who had talked glibly of a speedy capture of Washington, Union politicians and soldiers who had chattered about a swift sweep "on to Richmond," had become silent.

Already there were in either army sound thinkers who recognized that neither side could win by any single victory. The collapse of McClellan's campaign on the Peninsula, the bloody defeat of the Second Manassas, had been promptly followed by the solid stand at Antietam. On the defensive both armies had shown that they could not be destroyed.

Becomes Test of Endurance.

By 1863 the civil war had resolved itself into a frank test of endurance. The north had control of the sea, the advantage of numbers, of wealth, of industrial resources; the south, the strength that comes from a defensive position, a united and determined population and a military prestige still unshaken.

It was General Grant who first clearly recognized the extent of the task of the Union government before the Confederacy could be crushed. It was he who first and frankly adopted the policy of destruction by "attrition." With his coming the civil war ceased to be a splendid and stirring spectacle, a contest in which chivalry, individual gallantry, even collective military superiority played the decisive or the conspicuous role. It became a business, the brutal, grim business of battling to pieces a brave opponent inferior in numbers and resources.

Now between the situation of Germany today and that of the Confederacy in 1863 and 1864 there are parallels which, if they become misreading when followed too far, are still worthy of note. Outnumbered, the Germans already are even with the weakening aid of Austria. German armies can no longer keep equal strength on all fronts in the face of French, Russian, Belgian, British and Serbian armies already in the field, and the balance is bound steadily to turn against them. Just now far Germany's military efficiency will counterbalance the weight of the allies' numbers remains to be seen.

Again, in resources she is already incomparably weaker than her opponents, for the sea is closed to her as it was to the Confederacy. The industrial life of England will continue, just as that of the north did. In capital both England and France are better off than Germany, whose recent rapid development has been on borrowed wealth in no small measure. Her industrial life is now paralyzed by the blockade of all of her ports, of all of her avenues to the neutral world.

If London and Paris cherished ridiculous notions of speedy victory in the days of Belgian battles they are now frankly conceding that a long war is certain. Kitchener is preparing not for the first, but the second year.

Are No Forts Impregnable to German Guns?

Photos by American Press Association.

VIEW OF ANTWERP AND GERMAN "CATERPILLAR" SIEGE GUN.

AFTER Paris, Antwerp was said after three days' bombardment, following the most formidable system of fortifications of any city in the path of the Germans. Yet in the first practical test they proved inadequate for a prolonged resistance. The capture of Antwerp the experience of Belgium the question remains to puzzle the layman why such enormous pains have been taken to build them. Why have both France and Germany placed so great dependence upon them?

Pictures of the demolition at Liege

and Antwerp bear striking testimony to the power of the new 42 centimeter (16.5 inch) siege gun of the German forces. A single projectile demolished utterly walls of re-enforced cement and steel, ripped open steel towers and piled the mass upon the fort's defenders.

This new siege gun has been the surprise of the war. Only a limited number of high German army officials themselves had so much as heard of it. A member of the reichstag, whose name is not given, is quoted as follows:

"The fact that the German army possessed such a gun was as much a surprise to the Germans as to foreigners, for its construction and nature were kept secret, as the situation demanded, so that even in the empire only a limited number knew about it. When the trials were finished and all was ready to begin the construction of the new gun the problem presented itself of making this wonderful work of war without attracting any attention.

"More than fifty officers participated in the preliminary discussion over the preparation of the military budget for the consideration of the budget commission of the reichstag. When the subject of 'arms' was reached the head of this department requested that this part of the budget be not debated at that time. At the close of the session he told me confidentially that a new siege gun was in consideration.

"The request of the general staff for secrecy was observed. Then work began. A number of the guns are already at the front and others are in the arsenals. Six weeks ago, as member of the commission on arms, I was in a gun factory and was informed that any number of tubes and projectiles for the guns can be finished in a very brief time, not to mention the great supply on hand. I asked whether these guns were themselves out quickly and was assured by an expert that there are not enough forts in the world to wear out a single gun."

The German official report on the capture of Antwerp says:

"The first shot was fired on Sept. 28 at the outer line of forts. On Oct. 1 the first forts were taken by assault. The river Nethe was crossed by the German infantry and artillery on Oct. 6 and 7.

"On the 7th Antwerp was notified that a bombardment was imminent, and this was begun at 12:30 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 8. Simultaneously an attack was made on the inner forts.

"On Oct. 9 two of the inner forts were taken. At 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 9 the city of Antwerp was occupied by German infantry without resistance on the part of the Belgians, whose conduct was valiant."

INDIAN PRINCES FIGHTING WITH ALLIES

RULERS of the Indian possessions of England have rushed to her aid in the conflict now raging in Europe. Not only have they offered their fearless troops, but they have also agreed to furnish financial aid. At the outbreak of the war this was the message sent by two princes of India, Colonel Maharajah of Bikaner and Major General Sir Pratap Singh.

"What history does our lord the king emperor desire written? Let us know and our blood will write it." These men are regarded as among the greatest rulers of India both in wealth and following. Both have seen considerable army service and are well known in diplomatic and sporting circles in England.

One of the most enlightened of the native Indian princes is Sawai Madho Singh Bahadur, the maharajah of Jaipur. He is a wise and capable administrator of his dominion of some 15,000 square miles and takes a deep interest in all matters affecting the welfare of the British empire. Aside from what he has contributed in this war he has been princely in his benefactions. He has subscribed 2,000,000 rupees toward the permanent Indian famine fund. He is patriotic, too, from the British point of view, for he donated 100,000 rupees for the Transvaal war fund. When he visited England for the coronation of King Edward he chartered a whole ship, and all eatables and drinking water for the period of his tour were brought from India. He was made an LL. D. of Edinburgh university in 1908.

Securely any Indian nobleman or commoner has so effectively won the admiration of Britons and Indians alike as his highness the Maharajah General Sir Pratap Singh.

It is in the personal aspect of his character that Sir Pratap is most familiar to the outside public, and more especially is he renowned as a sportsman. Horsemanship was his passion in boyhood and it has continued to be his passion ever since. He is nearly seventy years old, having been born in 1845. In his youth he won the Calcutta Derby against some of the best professional jockeys of the day. He made polo the fashion in Rajputana. Sir Pratap was born brave. When barely four years old he gave a remarkable proof of uncommon pluck and daring by boldly seizing a ferocious monkey that had hurt his brothers and carrying on a regular fight with it until he fell exhausted and senseless. At various times he has had accidents at polo, hunting and pigsticking, to say nothing of his wounds received on many a field of battle; but, however severe the pain or suffering caused by such accidents, Sir Pratap has never been known to be deterred from taking part in sports as regularly as ever. In the course of his administration he had several opportunities of showing what iron nerve he possessed. Once he had to suppress a gang of rebel outlaws. Taking a few chosen followers with him, he made a night ride of forty miles and surprised his quarry at early dawn, and in the conflict which ensued between himself and the rebel chieftain his sure and steady aim told completely in his favor. The ambition that he has always cherished is to lead his troops against the enemies of his suzerain and to do fighting.

TOWSER AND DICK

Once upon a time a little lad named Richard—every one called him Dick—had as a playmate a yellow and white dog.

Towser was the dog's name and every day after school Towser and his little master would play in the yard back of Dick's house. One day, just about this time of year when the leaves were all over the ground, Dick told Towser he was going to play. "Hide and go seek," with him. "Woot," said Towser, which meant that he didn't understand how to play but that he would try. "Now you stay here," said Dick and he put Towser in the woodshed and then ran out. Before the dog could get out himself Dick had crawled under some leaves.

Pretty soon the dog came bounding across the yard. Then he stopped short. Where was Dick. He couldn't see him anywhere.

"Here Towser," cried Dick from under the leaves, and when the dog heard but couldn't see him he ran around whining and barking. At last he saw the leaves move, so he ran over and there he found Dick all curled up.

After that Towser knew how to play "Hide and Seek" and he would run around till he found Dick who hid in all sorts of places. But Towser always found him.

Sometime I will tell you how Dick taught Towser to hide so that Dick would have to find him.

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

THE AFTERMATH OF SUMMER

With the passing of summer, beauty parlors in town are thronged with women returning from their holiday haunts, all eager to repair the complexion damages encountered during their vacation.

Facial massage covers a multitude of blotches. Its efficacy is too well known to require praise for eliminating wrinkles, filling in the hollows and restoring tone to the underlying tissues.

Furthermore, it is beneficial alike in removing marks of the sun, sunburn, tan and freckles and in removing discolorations which arise from one cause or another. Massage stimulates the functions of the skin and so provides for a greater outflow of impurities.

Perspiration is a great purifier and the skin is much clearer in summer than in winter on this account.

Massage refines the texture of the skin, beautifies it and imparts a soft velvety glow through its gentle manipulations which may be acquired in no other way.

Therefore you should make it a practice to devote twenty minutes to half hour massaging the face, throat, arms and hands. This work is preferably done at night, for during sleep the muscles are in repose and the benefit gained will last longer.

On close inspection you will observe that a number of fine wrinkles have crept into the complexion during the summer sojourn. These as a rule manifest themselves under the eye, between the eyes and across the forehead. These wrinkles have in a great measure been encouraged by not providing the eyes with proper shade and protection while in the sun.

Where the eyes are weak, squinting is sure to follow and nothing will produce a more flourishing crop of deep lines than this practice of squinting.

Obtaining hard water and strong artificial light tend to dry out the natural oil, leaving the skin dry, harsh and in a prime condition to take wrinkles.

Cucumber creams are highly recommended, as they not only tend to generally beautify the skin, but act in the capacity of a gentle bleach. They render the skin delicately smooth and pinkish in tint.

MACHINE TO DIG POTATOES

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., Nov. 2.—Geo. Kreiger of this city has completed a machine which will considerably lighten the work of the farmer.

Digging potatoes was once one of the farmer's back-breaking tasks. That was in the old days when a fork was used. Now this is all changed. The Grand Rapids man's machine is drawn by a horse, digs the potatoes, cleans them and hoists them into the wagon. Another contrivance will sack the potatoes.

The machine is operated by one man. All he has to do is to drive the horse.

A DELICIOUS TASTE

always means a sweet breath. Ora-Hygen Dental Cream is most delicious. It leaves the cleanest kind of sensation after using. Because it thoroughly purifies the teeth and mouth. It is the result of many years of research by a dentist who knows by actual experience just what is required.

ORA-HYGEN DENTAL CREAM

"The Kind That Saves Teeth"

Is a strongly germicidal and antiseptic and prevents disease from entering the system through the mouth. Prevents tooth decay. Polishes teeth to their natural whiteness. Keeps gum and throat clean. Cannot harden in or out of tube. Lays flat on the brush. All ingredients printed on label. Costs more than other brands you buy. It's a real tooth saver.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN ON ROAD TO LOWELL

Circumstances Indicate That Woman Was Murdered and Her Body Carried to Place Where it Was Found

LAWRENCE, Nov. 2.—The body of a woman was found beside the Reservation road at Andover yesterday, under circumstances that indicate that the woman was murdered and her body carried to the place where it was found.

Evidence of beating. Apparently it had lain where found for several weeks, at least. There was evidence that the woman had been attacked and beaten.

Medical Examiner George W. Dow has not performed an autopsy yet. The road where the body was found is much travelled and runs between West Parish village and Lowell. There are no houses near the place where the body was found; which is near a cemetery.

The Andover police are convinced that the woman was murdered and that the murderer or murderers carried the body to the place and put it behind the stone wall, 60 feet from the road.

The description of the body agrees with that of Katoun Tamons, a Syrian woman of about 35 years, who disappeared from her home at 339 Common street, this city, Oct. 10. At the time she left home she carried a ratting suit case of fancy work that she intended to sell by a house to house canvass in Andover.

The woman's relatives will view the body today. Two boys stumbled upon the body about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon while walking through the fields.

Fred C. Church carried insurance on the building and contents in the name of Michael S. Joskalevich, Lakeview avenue, damaged by fire yesterday morning.

At Thomaston, Maine, on Thursday, the 12th day of November, 1914, commencing promptly at half past eleven o'clock in the forenoon upon the premises of the Thomaston Brick Company. Analysis and tests of the clays prove that the clays carry over 17% of alumina, are very high in silica, that brick made from them shows from 30% to 60% greater crushing strength and from at least 30% to 60% less absorption, their fineness and freedom from salt, petre and lime are a guarantee against discolorations or changes in appearance of their products; they are also remarkably free from foreign matter in any way injurious to the manufacture of brick and pottery, there is not the remotest difficulty in drying and burning at a low temperature. Dry pressed brick from these clays have shown absorption as low as 30%; in wire-cut hard burned brick has not averaged 7%; it is equally good for fireproof hollow brick, tapestry and other fancy brick. The machinery and other personal property is practically new and of the very latest standard type. All the property to be sold is set forth in an illustrated and descriptive catalogue which may be had upon application at the office of the auctioneers, where all inquiries must be made. Freight rates average 47 per thousand less from Thomaston than from other sources of repressed face bricks; all heavy fired labor, 1700 ft. of spur track, 1 mile water frontage, naturally drained clay lands, a box of clay sent express paid upon proper request. ## GERMANS REPULSED AT NIEUPORT AND DIXMUDE

French Official Report Says Allies Have Advantage in Belgium and France—Allies Surround Poelkapelle, Important Point—7,683 German Prisoners Taken—Rousset Says Germans Have Already Made Their Strongest Efforts

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The allied troops, according to official information here, are still determinedly meeting the latest vigorous offensive movement of the Germans in Belgium and in France. To date the French and English assert that the balance of gains is in their favor and they look to see the failure of the German offensive in this section indicated soon by a general and definite withdrawal of the enemy upon the right bank of the Yser. While it is admitted that the allies have not regained all of the lost ground in the valley of the Yser, their known gains in that region give every hope of a general success. In the vicinity of Nieuport and Dixmude the enemy has been repulsed beyond the railroad while the inundation effected between the Yser and the Nieuport-Dixmude line has rendered the ground there so swampy that the German trenches have become uninhabitable. This last fact is noted in the latest Belgian official statement.

Referring to the development on the line from Dixmude to Ypres, the Belgian statement is precise in its announcement that Poelkapelle has been surrounded by the allies. Poelkapelle is an important point, as it is the center of the network of communication of routes and railroads between Dixmude, Ypres, Roulers and Thourout.

The French assert that there is more significance in the announcement that in one week 7,683 German prisoners have been taken than appears on its face. They assert that when such a number can be gathered in it indicates that the German troops are becoming worn out or are suffering from moral depression.

Sanitary measures to avoid a possible epidemic are being taken on a large scale by the French league. Six thousand communités in France which are seeing the ravages of war will be visited sooner or later. Of this number there are 1100 where hygienic measures will be immediately taken.

Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset, the military critic in reviewing the recent operations, declares it is impossible to say how long the war will last and whether Germany still can find enough men to prolong the contest. He believes he is able to affirm, however, that they have already made their strongest efforts.

COUNCILOR HOGAN

RE-ELECTION

HON. JOHN J. HOGAN
Candidate for a second term in 8th Councilor District.

JOHN M. HOGAN, 195 Cypress St.
Secretary Hogan Campaign Committee.

Lowell should stand by a Lowell man.

Lowell needs a representative in the governor's council.

Lowell believes in a second term for a distinguished Lowell citizen.

If you have any political pride in your own city, Mr. Voter, you will help double the vote which was given Hon. John J. Hogan last year.

IT DEPENDS UPON YOU. WHAT DO YOU SAY?

There is every good reason for giving Hon. John J. Hogan, a second term in the governor's council.

A lawyer—of large experience.

A lender—of strong personality.

A man—of broad views. Mr. Hogan was born in Lowell, served his native city in many official capacities, and has made good as councilor during the present year.

CIVIL SERVICE RULES FOR CITY LABORERS

Registration System Installed at City Hall—First-Aid Apparatus at Vocational School—Lawns in Public Thoroughfares

The basement at city hall was the scene of great activity today and more men passed in and out than have been seen in the basement for many months. This was all headed for the headquarters of the registrars of voters; not to register as voters, but as city laborers, for the new system having to do with the registration of all employees and mechanics in the employ of the city was installed today and the registration clerk, Patrick J. Reynolds, was on the job bright and early.

Despite the fact that the modus operandi of the civil service registration system as it applies to city laborers and mechanics has been explained in advertisement and story, seven out of every ten men who called at registration headquarters today, knew nothing whatever about the workings of the system and at least one commissioner doesn't know very much about it, because he sent a man down to register who has been in the employ of his department for the last five years or more.

If a man has been in the employ of the city within the last six months, if only for two days, or one day, he is not required to register. If he has worked for the street department, the street department will have to submit his name to the state registrar of labor in Boston and the state registrar in turn, will send the name to the registration clerk in this city. So that the name of the man in the employ of the city at the present time, or the man who has been in the employ of the city within the last six months will go on record automatically. Only men who have not worked for the city within the last six months and who are desirous of obtaining city employment will have to register and it is a case of first come, first served.

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE

Bad blood is responsible for more ailments than anything else. It causes catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, weak, tired, languid feelings and worse troubles.

THE CHALIFOUX CORNER

Style in Men's Clothing can only be put there by men who have good taste in dress and truly understand how to apply their knowledge. And the number of these is as few, comparatively speaking, as the number of men who can play 18 holes of golf in 70. Style is not obtrusive. But it baffles all who try to imitate it.

OUR SUPERIOR CLOTHING IS MODERATELY PRICED

The renewed assaults of the Germans on the allies' line which have led in the last few days to the most violent fighting of the war are still progressing with fury almost unparalleled but there have been no changes of importance at any point along the 300 mile line of battle. Official reports today from Berlin and Paris agree that the deadlock still prevailed. Here and there minor advantages have been won but in the main the positions are being held on both sides with great tenacity; notwithstanding the bitterness of the fighting and the enormous sacrifices of life. The confidence of Germany as to the ultimate result is reflected in the words of Emperor William.

"Under all circumstances the enemy will be beaten," he said, in addressing one of his regiments.

Allies Make Progress

Berlin states officially that the situation is regarded as the most favorable of some time although it gives no details of the fighting. The French statement is equally hopeful in tone. The allies are said to have made slight progress in various points, including the blood-soaked fields of Flanders in the vicinity of Dixmude.

The German and Austrian forces in the east, compelled to retire before the Russian advances have taken up new positions and a renewal of general fighting is expected.

Turkey, up to now a neutral, is finally involved in the great war. What the allies described as "the last chance" for Turkey to keep out of the struggle by disavowing responsibility for the acts of her Black sea fleet has not been accepted, and the British government today handed his "passports" to the Turkish ambassador, following similar action by Russia. Meanwhile the Turkish fleet continues its acts of aggression.

Bulgaria to Remain Neutral

Bulgaria, faced with the bitter alternative of opposing her former protector, Russia, or fighting with her enemies, Greece and Serbia, if she joins in the war, has decided, according to a message from Sofia to remain neutral.

Heavy fighting has been resumed along the Austro-Serbian border. According to official advices from Vienna, the Austrians crossed the Save and Drina rivers, driving back the enemy and occupied several towns. This is disputed by Serbians, who state that the Austrian attacks were repulsed with heavy losses.

All accounts agree that the loss of life in the fighting of the last fortnight has been tremendous, owing presumably to the fact that the fighting has been largely in the open, exposing large bodies of troops to the deadly work of modern instruments of war. It is related in despatches from British sources that a force of 10,000 Germans, which had all but surrounded a British regiment, was routed with great loss by the unexpected appearance of an armored train whose broadsides from machine guns laid out the dead in piles along both sides of the track.

For Relief of Starving.

The long dispute over the indemnity which the city of Brussels is to pay the Germans has been settled, Berlin reports. The amount is said to have been fixed at $9,000,000. Shortly after the Germans occupied the city, more than two months ago, it was stated unofficially that assessments had been made of $40,000,000 against the city and $90,000,000 against the province of Brabant of which it is the capital.

In New York active preparations were under way to give relief to Belgium's starving people. It was expected that the first relief ship provided for by the Rockefeller Foundation would sail tomorrow.

VICTORY FOR DEMOCRATS

If They Stand Loyally by Their Ticket—J. J. O'Connor Can be Elected to Congress

Democrats of Lowell, The Sun would call your special attention to the necessity of supporting democratic policies and democratic candidates at the polls tomorrow. The splendid democratic administration of President Wilson at Washington will be endorsed and strengthened by a democratic victory in Massachusetts tomorrow.

The reelection of Governor Walsh would be hailed throughout the nation as an endorsement of the Wilson administration; but it is due to the governor himself for his businesslike administration that he be elected by a respectable majority. His administration was one that should appeal to citizens of all parties.

In the congressional contest it is important that the democratic candidate, Lawyer J. Joseph O'Connor, should be elected in order that he may help uphold the hands of President Wilson in the trying times ahead as a result of the war that embroils the entire continent of Europe.

Some democrats say Mr. O'Connor cannot overcome the republican majority in the district; but as the present congressman was elected two years ago by only 1,700 plurality there is certainly a chance for Mr. O'Connor's election. If his party stands by him loyally he will be elected. He has made a very active and apparently effective campaign, assailing Congressman Rogers for voting against the currency bill and other democratic measures of great importance.

ALL SAINTS DAY

Observed in All Catholic Churches Yesterday—
Vespers for the Dead

Yesterday being the feast of All Saints, the services at all the Catholic churches of the city were especially elaborate. The day has always been considered a day of unusual devotion, having been set apart not only to honor all of the saints whose names are on the calendar of the church, but the unnumbered legions of the faithful who, unknown and unrecorded, lived lives of virtue and reaped their reward in eternal happiness. Today is the feast of All Souls. In accordance with the ancient observance masses for the souls in purgatory were celebrated at all the churches early this morning and wax candles were blessed for use in Catholic homes at times of calamity and death.

St. Patrick's
The high mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday was very largely attended. Rev. Timothy P. Callahan was the celebrant, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Joseph A. Curran.

BETTER BABIES

The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast, and taken firm hold of American mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from hysterical pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia D. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for those ailments.

AGED TAX COLLECTOR

Restored To Health By Vinol

Corinth, Miss.—"I am a city tax collector and seventy-four years of age. I was in a weak run-down condition. My druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and in a week noticed considerable improvement, continued its use and now I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and feel much stronger. I consider Vinol a fine tonic to create strength for old people."—J. A. PRICE.

tin who spoke on the feast of All Saints. Fr. Curran related many incidents from the lives of the saints and told of the great good to be derived from reading their lives and following their example. He reminded the congregation that the saints honored by the church were human beings with all the temptations and frailties of human nature and urged the faithful to emulate their example, saying that what was possible to them is possible to all Christians. He explained why the Catholic church is so devoted to its saints, giving a brief sketch of the veneration of the saintly departed from earliest times, and urged on all a special devotion to the saints as one of the greatest aids to virtue.

Last evening at 7 p. m. vespers for the dead were sung by Rev. Fr. Callahan. The choir, under the direction of Organist Michael J. Johnson, sang the responses and also rendered appropriate hymns. The masses this morning were at 8, 9 and 10 o'clock.

Immaculate Conception
Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., sang the high mass yesterday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception and the sermon was preached by Rev. Owen P. McGuire, O. M. I., who spoke on the lives of the saints and of the value of devotion to them as an aid to salvation. As an illustration of the virtues of a Christian life he mentioned saints of every age and degree, referring in particular to the great penitents who rose from sin to great heights of sanctity.

Vesper services were held at 6:30, followed by special vespers for the dead. Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., officiated and the evening sermon on the dead was preached by Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe. Masses this morning were celebrated at 6:30, 8:30 and 10 o'clock.

St. Michael's
The parish mass at St. Michael's yesterday was celebrated by Rev. Denis F. Murphy, and the sermon on the saints was preached by Rev. Francis J. Mullin. Vespers for the dead were sung yesterday afternoon at 3 p. m. Fr. Murphy officiating. The choir sang the responses and appropriate hymns. High mass was celebrated this morning for the souls in purgatory.

St. Patrick's Academy Alumni
The committee having in charge the arrangements for the festival for the union and dinner of St. Patrick's Academy alumni met yesterday morning at the school and discussed with much enthusiasm the plans for the event, now a notable feature of the life and activities of the school. Dr. Richard J. McCluskey, chairman, presided, and Edward J. Plunkett acted as secretary. Dr. McCluskey emphasized the need of cooperation of the alumni with the committee members, saying that this is all that is needed to make the affair an unprecedented success. Sub-committees were appointed, and Dr. McCluskey mentioned his intention of securing some of the most noted speakers in the state for the evening.

St. Peter's
Rev. W. George Mullin celebrated the last mass at St. Peter's yesterday and Rev. Dr. Keleher gave the sermon, referring to the significance of All Saints' day and All Souls' day and exhorting the congregation to pray for the intercession of the saints before the throne of God. This morning a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in observance of All Souls' day. There was a large attendance.

Sacred Heart
The high mass at the church of the Sacred Heart yesterday was celebrated by Rev. James T. McDermott, O. M. I., and Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., preached the sermon on the feast day. The members of the Holy Rosary society attended communion in a body at the 7:30 o'clock mass. The celebrant of the mass was Very Rev. T. Wado Smith, O. M. I.

Last evening vespers for the dead were celebrated by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., and the sermon on "Purgatory" was delivered by Rev. James J. Gallagher, O. M. I., of the Tewksbury novitiate.

Today masses were celebrated at 8, 9 and 10 o'clock. The last one was a solemn high mass for the deceased members of the parish.

On Thursday morning at 8 o'clock a solemn high mass will be celebrated for the deceased members of the Oskate order.

St. Mary's, Collinsville
Besides the special devotion usual to the day, St. Mary's, Collinsville, yesterday celebrated the fifth anniversary of the establishment of the parish. A high mass of thanksgiving was sung by the pastor, Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, who also preached a sermon reviewing the many important activities that have come into being during the last five years. Since coming to Collinsville Fr. Walsh has done wonders in furthering the cause of the church, and St. Mary's has good cause to congratulate itself on its fifth anniversary.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

Delegates From Union
St. J. Bte. Met in Lowell Yesterday

The quarterly meeting of District council, No. 4, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, took place in this city yesterday and a feature of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The delegates numbering about 25 and coming from various cities of the state arrived in Lowell in the forenoon and attended the 11 o'clock mass at St. Louis' church and in the afternoon held a business meeting.

The mass was celebrated by Rev.

MR. PIERRE BROUSSEAU

L. C. Bedard and the delegates were welcomed by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Labossiere, who is chaplain of the council. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Mathieu, a Franciscan monk who is visiting the members of the Third Order of St. Francis in this city.

At the close of the mass the delegates enjoyed dinner and at 2 o'clock they gathered at the Centralville Social club rooms in West Sixth street, where a business meeting was held. Joseph P. Montminy of this city, substitute to the president general, opened the meeting. A list of business was transacted and the election of officers took place with the following result: Seriole Dionne, Lynn, president; Andre Brochu, Amesbury, first vice-president; Joseph Lussier, Lowell, second vice-president; Amodeo Cote, Salem, secretary-treasurer; Alexandre Quinn, Lawrence, master of ceremonies; Pierre A. Brousseau, Lowell, dean; J. L. Daoust, Haverhill, honorary president; Rev. J. B. Labossiere, Lowell, chaplain.

The installation of the new officers took place at the close of the meeting with Joseph P. Montminy acting as installing officer. Among the delegates present were the following: Mathias Caron, Mrs. Georgina Dube, Henri Courtemanche, Henri Ragot, Emile Baril and Alexandre Quinn, Lawrence; J. L. Daoust, Haverhill; Amodeo Cote, Joseph Raymond, Honore Chouinard and Edmund P. Madore, Salem; Wilfrid Surprenant, G. Blodet, and Andre Brochu, Amesbury; Louis L. Plante, Newburyport; S. Dionne and Napoleon Bergeron, Lynn; Joseph Lussier, Miss A. Carufel, Joseph Blon, Adolphe Bouchard, P. A. Brousseau, Joseph Carlier and Ernest Rousseau, Lowell.

CANDIDATE AT AGE OF 74

GOVERNOR BALDWIN OF CONNECTICUT WANTS TO BE UNITED STATES SENATOR

Gov. SIMEON E. BALDWIN

Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut is really one of the wonderful men of the country's political personalities. At the age of 74 he is seeking election as United States senator from his state. If he wins on Nov. 3 he will be 75 years old when he takes his seat in the senate next spring. His achievement in twice leading a democratic ticket to victory in a strong republican state makes it more than possible that he may defeat Senator Frank U. Brundage, republican, who seeks another term. Gov. Baldwin has been chief justice of the Connecticut supreme court of errors and president of the American Bar association.

GREEK DRAMA PRESENTED
Fine Entertainment at Playhouse By Local Greek Talent Assisted By Operatic Singers

The Playhouse was last night the scene of a very large gathering, the occasion being an entertainment under the auspices of the Greek community of this city for the benefit of their parochial school which is now in progress of construction. The program was a real treat for it consisted of operatic numbers by members of the Lombard Opera Co. of Boston and a five-act drama by local Greek talent.

The entire program was as follows:

MIDNIGHT CONFERENCE

TWO LARGE JAPANESE CRUISERS ARE HOVERING OUTSIDE HONOLULU HARBOR

HONOLULU, Nov. 2.—A midnight conference was held between Collector of the Port Franklin and Deputy Collector Shurt during which wireless messages were exchanged with the United States revenue cutter Thetis, patrolling outside the harbor. Collector Franklin appeared perturbed and was uncommunicative as to the cause of the meeting at that unusual hour. Two large Japanese cruisers, the Hizen and the Asama, are hovering outside the harbor near where the Thetis is on duty but whether the conference and the message had to do with them or not could not be learned from any official source.

MADE AT FELS FIBRE FABRIC CO.

East Section Second Floor

THREE years ago we began to feature the "Made in Lowell" idea—emphasizing the fact that merchandise which comes from our own factories and shops should take preference in your purchasing—And now that the "Made in America" thought has been universal all over these United States we are more than ever ready to feature our Spindle City products—Few cities in this country can boast of the diversified industries that we have here—and we believe that there is no other store which would offer like values.

FABRICS, FOOTWEAR, HOSIERY, UNDERWEAR, TOILET ARTICLES, BLANKETS, TOWELS, etc., etc., say nothing of the great number of made up things which "our own factory" contributes to this sale.

All this week Lowell made goods will be featured at this store—and nearly every department holds some offerings of bargain interest to every economical shopper in this section.

GERMANS REPULSED AT NIEUPOORT AND DIXMUDE

French Official Report Says Allies Have Advantage in Belgium and France—Allies Surround Poelkapelle, Important Point—7,683 German Prisoners Taken—Rousset Says Germans Have Already Made Their Strongest Efforts

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The allied troops, according to official information here, are still determinedly meeting the latest vigorous offensive movement of the Germans in Belgium and in France. To date the French and English assert that the balance of gains is in their favor and they look to see the failure of the German offensive in this section indicated soon by a general and definite withdrawal of the enemy upon the right bank of the Yser. While it is admitted that the allies have not regained all of the lost ground in the valley of the Yser, their known gains in that region give every hope of a general success. In the vicinity of Nieuport and Dixmude the enemy has been repulsed beyond the railroad while the foundation affected between the Yser and the Nieuport-Dixmude line has rendered the ground there so swampy that the German trenches have become uninhabitable. This last fact is noted in the latest Belgian official statement.

Referring to the development on the line from Dixmude to Ypres, the Belgian statement is precise in its announcement that Poelkapelle has been surrounded by the allies. Poelkapelle is an important point, as it is the center of the network of communication of routes and railroads between Dixmude, Ypres, Roulers and Thourout.

The French assert that there is more significance in the announcement that in one week 7,683 German prisoners have been taken than appears on its face. They assert that when such a number can be gathered it indicates that the German troops are becoming worn out or are suffering from moral depression. Sanitary measures to avoid a possible epidemic are being taken on a large scale by the French league. Six thousand communes in France which are seeing the ravages of war will be visited sooner or later. Of this number there are 1100 where hygienic measures will be immediately taken. Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset, the military critic in reviewing the recent operations, declares it is impossible to say how long the war will last and whether Germany still can find enough men to prolong the contest. He believes he is able to affirm, however, that they have already made their strongest effort.

NISH, SERBIA, REPORTS VICTORIES WITH OPPONENTS LOSING HEAVILY

At this hour they attacked but were repulsed by our troops. Our counter attack developed into violent hand-to-hand combat in which the enemy, sustaining heavy losses was forced to fall back in disorder, leaving three officers and about 300 men on the field. The enemy delivered another attack on our positions in the evening but was again forced to retreat with heavy loss. Nothing of importance has occurred on the remainder of the front.

Congregational Churches Hold Union Services at First Church

Calvary Baptist Church Has Anniversary; Man from India at Forum

In the auditorium of the First Congregational church, last night, was held the first in a series of union evangelistic services. The other churches joining in the union services were the Kirk Street, First Trinitarian, High Street and Elliot churches.

The sermon of the evening was preached by Rev. C. A. Lincoln, pastor of the Kirk Street Congregational church, who answered the question: "Does God Ever Give a Man Up?" He took his text from Isaiah 43:8, "A bruised reed shall not break and the smoking flax shall he not quench." He said in part:

"Does God ever give a man up? This is not an uncommon question. We have all wondered in our hearts whether or not we could sink so low in sin that God would ever give us up, and we have asked ourselves the same question relative to persons whom we knew. This is the answer: Man may give God up, if he dare, but God is not responsible."

There is not much hope in the world for a bruised man until Jesus Christ comes and gets hold of him with a firm grip and strengthens his life. He takes the bruised reed and makes the man into a man who shall write anew the story of Christ. He straightens them up and makes them row for the Lord. Jesus Christ stands by the man who is down.

There are many illustrations I can quote from the Bible to illustrate the attitude of Christ. You have read of the prodigal son. Have you ever thought that the day following the one which he came back, his father was especially tender? The son felt that he had no right there, after spending his inheritance, but his father made it plain that the son was there because the father loved him. That is the way Jesus Christ treats the smoking flax.

Let us consider the practical application in our own lives. Many of us do not feel that our light is burning brightly. We realize we have many imperfections. But Christ will not quench the burning flax, but shall lead us into perfect day.

Calvary Baptist Church The fifth anniversary of the dedication of the Calvary Baptist church in Liberty street, cor. Hastings, was observed yesterday with large congregations attending both morning and evening services.

In the morning Rev. Asa Reed Dills, the pastor, summarized the work accomplished in the five years. When the present edifice was dedicated there were 223 enrolled members.

TURKISH WARSHIPS BOMBARD SEAPORTS

Sebastopol, Theodosia and Anapa Attacked—Turkish Ambassador to Great Britain Handed His Passports—Turks Also Bombard British Vessel

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—The newspapers report that the cruisers Goecken and Breslau and four Turkish torpedo-boats bombarded the shore near Sebastopol yesterday morning, shelling the railroad and docks. The Russian shore batteries replied.

The warships disappeared along the Crimean shore to the eastward after inflicting trivial damage.

Theodosia, on the Crimean coast 100 miles northeast of Sebastopol, also suffered a bombardment on Saturday when a Russian cruiser sailed close enough to throw thirty shells into the city.

News has been received at the foreign office that the Russian ambassador has left Constantinople but the Turkish minister has not yet received his passports or instructions from Constantinople.

BRITISH VESSEL IGGITED AND SCUTTLED DURING BOMBARDMENT

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A despatch to the Times from Petrograd, dated Sunday, says that a British vessel, the Frederick, was ignited and scuttled during the bombardment of Novorossiysk. The Turks also wantonly bombarded Anapa, a Russian seaport of the Black sea at the western extremity of the Caucasus range.

while the church rolls today show a total of 430 members.

Financially, the church has experienced a similar growth. In five years the current expenses have increased from $2000 to $4000 a year. Five years ago the sum of $2750 was raised for all purposes, whereas the present year shows $5500 raised. Five years ago for benevolent purposes, $300 was paid. The present year shows $800 paid. The sum of $5000 has been paid on the church debt.

Man From India At the Social Forum meeting in Grace church, Sunday night, Rustum Mustunjir, a native of India, spoke on "The Awakening of the East," which he said will prove itself of much greater significance than did the awakening of the west. The east is crowding into decades, what the west took centuries to accomplish.

The speaker told of the great work that England has done in India and in Egypt.

"In India," he said, "there has been a reaction in the right direction. Certain men who thought to retard the progress of British civilization have seen their mistake since the war broke out, and India is loyal to Great Britain in this great crisis. Already she has sent nearly 70,000 Indian soldiers to fight the battle of the British empire, and 700 Indian princes have volunteered their services, while gold that was hidden away on temple tops and under ground, has been sent to Great Britain's aid, because it is felt that the interests of Great Britain and of India are one. It is not, as has been said, because the Indians look upon King George as divine, but because they find that England stands for freedom, for the preservation of the rights of small states.

St. Paul's M. E. Church At the morning service at St. Paul's M. E. church in Hurd street a large congregation received communion, 13 new members were baptized and 23 were received into full membership.

Elliot Congregational Church At the Sunday morning service at the Elliot Congregational church the pastor's subject was, "The Red Road."

Every man and woman, he said, who enters success, travels the red road of self denial and sacrifice and subordinates every trivial thing for one great purpose and end. Young men in Europe are now being called upon to sacrifice life, home and happiness for the success of nations and if they refuse to heed the call to go to battle, they suffer the condemnation of their fellow-men. These men are now making the red roads of the nations with their life blood. Should we not be willing to give up as much for Jesus Christ?"

LIQUOR CAUSED DEATH

THREE MEN DIED SUDDENLY IN BRISTOL, VT.—THREE OTHERS ARE ILL

BRISTOL, Vt., Nov. 2.—The sudden death yesterday of three men and the illness of three others led to the arrest last night of D. A. Bisbee, proprietor of a drug store. According to the officials the deaths were due to the effects of liquor obtained at the store. The dead are Fred O'Bryan and Samuel King of Bristol, and Edward Wakefield of Warren.

An autopsy was held last night under the direction of Dr. B. H. Stone, director of the state laboratory of hygiene, and Dr. Whitney of Burlington, assisted by local physicians. A quantity of liquor seized at the drug store was turned over to Dr. Stone and will be analyzed at the state laboratory to determine the nature of the alcohol supposed to be contained in it. It is expected that Bisbee will be given a hearing after the report of the autopsy is submitted.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN ON ROAD TO LOWELL

Circumstances Indicate That Woman Was Murdered and Her Body Carried to Place Where it Was Found

LAWRENCE, Nov. 2.—The body of a woman was found beside the Reservation road at Andover yesterday, under circumstances that indicate that the woman was murdered and her body carried to the place where it was found.

Evidence of Beating Apparently it had lain where found for several weeks, at least. There was evidence that the woman had been attacked and beaten.

Medical Examiner George W. Dow has not performed an autopsy yet. The road where the body was found is much traveled and runs between West Parish village and Lowell. There are no houses near the place where the body was found, which is near a cemetery.

The Andover police are convinced that the woman was murdered and that the murderer or murderers carried the body to the place and put it behind the stone wall, 60 feet from the road.

The description of the body agrees with that of Katoun Tamons, a Syrian woman of about 30 years, who disappeared from her home at 339 Common street, this city, Oct. 10. At the time she left home she carried a rattan suitcase of fancy work that she intended to sell by a house to house canvass in Andover.

The woman's relatives will view the body today. Two boys stumbled upon the body about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon while walking through the fields.

Fred C. Church carried insurance on the building and contents in the name of Michael E. Joskilev, Lakeview avenue, damaged by fire yesterday morning.

HARVARD 7, MICHIGAN 0

Crimson Defeated the Western Eleven in Great Battle at Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 2.—West met East Saturday when the University of Michigan football eleven clashed with the Harvard team at the Harvard stadium.

The Harvard yard began filling up several hours before the game began and many of the clubs and students threw open their doors to the visitors. Special lunches were also served and, outside in Harvard square, restaurants did a rushing business. The day proved cooler than was anticipated and a stiff northwest breeze swept down the Charles river, striking the tall walls of the stadium, added around the structure and made the catching of punts unusually difficult.

There was plenty of sunshine, however, and early comers on the stadium, many of whom brought their lunches, watched the white terraces fill with hovers of Maroon and Blue and crimson flags.

Both from the players and spectators' viewpoints the day was ideal for the sport.

The lineup:

Michigan	Harvard
Benton lb	Smith re
Reinart lb	Trumbull re
McLellan lb	Willington re
Raynsford lb	Waller re
Watson re	Weston lb
Cochran re	Parsons lb
Blair re	Coolidge lb
Hughitt lb	Logan lb
Maulbetsch lb	Hardwick lb
Lyons lb	Bradlee lb
Splawn lb	Francis lb

Ideal Day For Football

Aside from a stiff wind that swept out of the northeast, excellent conditions prevailed for opening of the game. The sky was almost cloudless and the rays of the sun tempered the chill of the miniature gale. The playing turf, freshly tilled with five yard marks, was dry and fast.

Capt. Vost of Michigan came on the field about an hour before the game and tested the peculiar air swirls and eddies by tossing bits of paper up and watching the course of their flight.

The crowds filed into the stadium rapidly in the first half hour previous to the play and the vast tiers of seats filled until it appeared that close to thirty thousand spectators would be present when the ball was kicked off.

Michigan's supporters, distinguished by large yellow chrysanthemums and blue ribbon rosettes, occupied several sections on the north side of the field. The Wolverine band in blue uniforms with bright yellow linings led the cheering and singing to which the Harvard contingent across the field replied, each university cheering in turn for the other.

Capt. Brickley on Field

The Harvard squad came on the gridiron at 2:15. Two full eleven practiced punting, drop kicking and catching the ball while Capt. Brickley, in street clothes, followed the preliminary warm-up of his men from the center of the field. Both cheering squads gave the "varsity yell" for the Harvard leader, who three weeks ago today was operated on for appendicitis.

Michigan was first to run on the field. The players were greeted by demonstrative cheers from the Blue and Maroon. Harvard followed the lead, cheering loudly from the stands. The opening cheering stands cheered their own teams and then those of their antagonists.

Captain Raynsford of Michigan and Acting Captain Trumbull of Harvard then shook hands and the coin was flipped for choice of sides.

Michigan won the toss and decided to kick the ball when the wind.

FIRST PERIOD

Withington kicked off to Splawn on Michigan's ten yard line. The ball was run back 20 yards. A plunge through center gained four yards. Lyons added four more. Maulbetsch made a first down on Michigan's 45-yard line. Splawn was thrown without gain on a plunge into center. Maulbetsch plunged through left tackle to Harvard's 45-yard line. Splawn made another first down on Harvard's 41 yard line. Hughtitt lost a yard round right end and Maulbetsch could not gain. After 25 yards made in eight rushes, the Harvard defense stiffened against Michigan's plunge. Harvard kicked high to Harvard's 30-yard line, where on an off-side kick the ball went to Harvard on her 15-yard line. On the first rush Harvard dashed around left end for six yards.

Francis punted to Hughtitt on Michigan's 41 yard line. There the ball stayed. On the first rush Splawn lost five yards but Harvard was off side and lost five yards. Hughtitt went through center for five yards. Maulbetsch dived through for a first down on Harvard's 33 yard line. Lyons made five more through right tackle. Hughtitt added three more on a fake kick. On a drive into center Splawn carried the ball to the 23 yard line. It was another first down for Michigan. On the first play Michigan was off side and the ball went back to the 23 yard line. The Harvard line stiffened and Hughtitt could not get in. Hughtitt was again thrown without gain. Up to this point both sides had played old-fashioned football, Michigan doing most of the rushing. On a fake forward pass Maulbetsch planted the ball on Harvard's 11 yard line. Two yards were then made at center. Maulbetsch carried it to Harvard's four yard line. It was the fourth down on Harvard's four yard line with two yards to gain. In the next rush Splawn was thrown for a loss. The ball went to Harvard on downs. On the next play Harvard was off side and sent back to her one yard line. Harvard punted to Harvard's 42 yard line. Hughtitt was thrown without gain. Score end of first period: Harvard 0, Michigan 0.

Summary of First Period

The play during the first period was entirely in Harvard's territory, except the initial kick-off. Using straight football tactics, Michigan twice came within striking distance of the Harvard line but lacked the scoring punch. The play was painfully slow by both teams. The Harvard line seemed unable to check Michigan's rushes and the Wolverine backs picked their openings with uncanny skill. Michigan made five first downs to none for Harvard. Each team punted twice and each team was penalized 20 yards.

SECOND PERIOD

At the outset of the second period Michigan was penalized 20 yards. Splawn then kicked to Harvard on Harvard's 13 yard line. The ball was run back 10 yards. On the first Harvard play Bradlee made three yards. Harvard then kicked to Hughtitt on Michigan's 15 yard line. The ball was muffed but recovered. Splawn could not gain on a rush. Maulbetsch made a yard through center. Splawn then kicked to the center of the field. The ball was run back five yards. On the first rush Bradlee made five yards through center. Harvard added three more. The ball was on Michigan's 36 yard line. Then Wallace was injured and the game delayed. Wallace covered but was soon taken out, being replaced by Bigelow. Bradlee made a first down on Michigan's 30 yard line. Harvard was thrown for a loss of a yard. Another plunge at center was thwarted by Michigan. On a well executed forward pass Bradlee kicked to Smith's 33 yard line. Francis in a plunge through center took the ball to Michigan's nine yard line. It was third down with half a yard to gain. Francis made a first down on Michigan's seven yard line. Then he gathered in more. On the next play Harvard ran through the Michigan team for the first score. There was no one near him and he practically walked over the line. Harvard kicked the goal. On resuming play Splawn kicked off over the Harvard goal line. It was Harvard's ball on the 20 yard line.

On a fake kick Harvard made nine yards, but Harvard lost five yards for offside play. The ball was on the crimson's 15-yard line. Harvard then kicked to Hughtitt on Michigan's 27 yard line. The ball was muffed but recovered. On a fake forward pass formation Maulbetsch made eight yards. Michigan tried a forward pass, but Logan intercepted it on Harvard's 32-yard line. The ball was then downed in the field and there was no runback. Hughtitt made two yards into center. Maulbetsch dived through for six yards and made a first down on Michigan's 40-yard line. The Harvard line held firm on the next rush and there was no gain. Hughtitt muffed a pass but recovered the ball. Splawn could not gain and it was fourth down with ten yards to gain. Splawn kicked off to bounds on Harvard's 22 yard line. Harvard lost a yard on a fake kick play. Francis punted to the center of the field, where the ball went to Michigan. Maulbetsch on a wide spread formation made five yards through center. Harvard got the ball in the center of the field on a Michigan fumble.

Time was called as Harvard was starting a rush. Score end of second period: Harvard 7, Michigan 0.

Summary of Second Period

Harvard opened an aggressive attack at the beginning of the second period and with the wind at her back soon scored a touchdown and goal. The initial score of the game came in 11 rushes in which the Crimson team by a clever exhibition of delayed passing and converted ball tactics practically rattled the Michigan line. During the march up the field Harvard used one forward pass which, perfectly executed, gained a trifling over 20 yards. Aside from this one attempt at open football, the score was made by straight line rushes and end runs. The Wolverine team failed to show as advantageously on defense as it did on its offensive operations during the first

1. TURKISH CAVALRY ON THE MARCH. 2. TYPE OF TURKISH INFANTRY.

Turkey has cast her lot with Germany and Austria in the world war. Her hostile act in firing upon Theodosia, a Russian seaport in the Black sea, indicated that she had at last prepared to strike at the czar's possessions. period. The Michigan ends were boxed and huge holes opened in the line between tackle and tackle. During the second period Harvard made three first downs to Michigan's one and, after scoring, fell back on defensive play, punting six times to Michigan's two. Each team used the forward pass once, Michigan's being intercepted by Logan while Harvard's was successful. Michigan lost 20 yards in penalties to Harvard's five.

THIRD PERIOD

There was no change on either team when they lined up for the third period. Splawn kicked off to Bradlee on Harvard's ten yard line. The ball was run back to the 35 yard line. Harvard kicked to Bradlee on Michigan's 30-yard line. There was no runback. Bradlee made six yards through center. Francis added two more. Harvard kicked to Michigan's 20 yard line, where the ball was declared dead. On the first rush Lyons made two yards. Maulbetsch could not gain through left tackle. Splawn kicked to Bradlee on Harvard's 41 yard line. Hughtitt tackled and there was no runback.

On a long run around left end Harvard made a scant yard. Bradlee equipped through for three yards. Francis kicked to Michigan's 30 yard line. The ball was again declared dead. Lyons made a half a yard into center. Another plunge into center by Lyons was without gain. Splawn kicked to Logan on Harvard's 25 yard line. The ball was run back 11 yards.

On a fake kick Bradlee made five yards. Harvard could not gain on a plunge into center. Francis kicked but the ball was brought back. The ball went to Michigan on Harvard's 42 yard line for tripping following the punt. Lyons made a yard on a plunge at center. Four more were gained by Lyons. Maulbetsch went through for two yards more. It was fourth down with less than a yard to gain. Maulbetsch made a first down on Harvard's 27 yard line. Lyons squirmed through but Michigan was penalized 15 yards for holding. Maulbetsch regained five yards. This put the ball on Harvard's 35 yard line. Benton was injured. He refused to leave the lineup and play was resumed. Maulbetsch made four yards. On a fake forward pass Maulbetsch was thrown for a loss. Splawn kicked off to Harvard's 28-yard line. Harvard then placed it on the 32-yard line. Francis kicked to Harvard's 42-yard line. Hochim replaced Watson. Rehm is a 250 pounder. Harvard went into center for five yards. He immediately made two more outside tackles. The game ended here. Final score: Harvard 7, Michigan 0.

FOURTH PERIOD

At the outset of the final period, Michigan was penalized 15 yards and then lost the ball in the center of the field on a fumble. Harvard could not gain an inch on rushing. Francis then kicked out of bounds on Michigan's 30-yard line. On the first rush Trumbull was hurt.

Splawn kicked to Bradlee on Harvard's 30-yard line. There was no runback. Bradlee made six yards through center. Francis added two more. Harvard kicked to Michigan's 19 yard line where the ball was declared dead. Splawn kicked to Logan on Harvard's 15 yard line. The ball was run back to Michigan's 16 yard line. On a plunge through center, Bradlee made two more yards.

At this point C. Coolidge replaced Smith, Harvard's right end. Harvard threw a pretty forward pass to Coolidge on Michigan's 30-yard line. Bradlee could not gain at center. Francis plunged into center for four yards. Harvard lost five yards for offside play. Harvard, in attempting a forward pass was thrown back for a loss. Harvard deliberately threw a forward pass outside of Michigan's eight yard line. The officials declared it an uncompleted forward pass and the ball went to Michigan on the 30-yard line. Splawn kicked to Harvard's 15-yard line. Harvard made eight yards around right end. Francis went through a big hole in the center for 15 yards. Harvard made a yard at center. Francis added three yards more, also through center. Harvard kicked to Michigan's 15-yard line, but the ball bounced back to the 25-yard line. Michigan fumbled on the first play but recovered the ball. Splawn kicked to Harvard's 28-yard line. Harvard then placed it on the 32-yard line. Francis kicked to Harvard's 42-yard line. Hochim replaced Watson. Rehm is a 250 pounder. Harvard went into center for five yards. He immediately made two more outside tackles. The game ended here. Final score: Harvard 7, Michigan 0.

LOWELL TAG DAY

Letter of Appreciation From the Red Cross Nat'l Headquarters

The following letters of acknowledgment and appreciation of the splendid results of Red Cross Tag day in this city are of general interest:

American Red Cross, National Headquarters, 1624 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., Oct. 29, 1914.

Miss Ruth Burke, 216, Nesmith Street, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Miss Burke—Pardon the delay in answering your kind letter of Oct. 25th, but the work has been overwhelming in this office.

I congratulate you, your assistants and all Lowell, on the splendid work that was done in raising, by the Tag day, $450 for the war relief work.

The Red Cross has sent 171 surgeons and nurses to Europe, is sending shortly 13 more on an urgent appeal from Serbia. It has sent surgical equipments and vast quantities of hospital supplies. Every few days more supplies are being sent. These vast quantities of drugs were sent to Russia and a partial equipment for a little American hospital established at Petrograd. Last week some supplies went to France; next week before our surgeons and nurses sail for Serbia, a large quantity of hospital supplies and drugs will be sent there also surgical equipments, operating tables, etc. On the 5th of November supplies are going to Germany, both for the German Red Cross and for the American hospital at Munich.

You may have noted last week $25,000 was sent to the American ambulance, Paris; $10,000 for the American hospital in England; $10,000 for the American hospital at Munich; $10,000 to Berlin, to use at the hospitals where the American units are in Germany; and $10,000 to the American ambassador at Vienna, Austria for the hospital where the American units are in Austria and Hungary. The American Red Cross has also sent to the International Red Cross, Vienna, $50,000, to help maintain the bureau of prisoners of the sick and wounded prisoners to their families, transmitting letters, etc. I thought the people of Lowell would like to know that the generous contributions for Red Cross relief work can be put to such good purposes as these. Again with thanks to the people of Lowell and others that so generously cooperated in this work.

Yours sincerely,
Mabel T. Boardman.

Treasurer's Letter

44 State St., Boston.
October 22, 1914.

John F. Sawyer, Esq., care Union National Bank, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir—I have received your letter of Oct. 21st, enclosing cheque for my order as treasurer of the American Red Cross, Massachusetts branch, for $450.

Thank you very much indeed for sending so large a subscription. I am sure that the Washington authorities will be very much pleased with the results that the ladies of Lowell have accomplished.

I may extend my appreciation for this work to the ladies on the committee through you.

Yours very truly,
F. E. Higginson, Jr.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Committee of Masonic Order in California Brands Alleged Oath as a Pernicious Lie

In view of certain false charges made for political purposes against the Knights of Columbus, the following article from the Boston Pilot is of considerable interest not only to members of the order, but to many non-members who had no means of knowing whether the charges were true or false:

A conspicuous feature of the Columbus day exercises of Los Angeles, Cal. council, K. of C., was a report submitted by Judge Paul J. McCormick (state deputy of the order in California), agent the findings of a committee of representative Masons who, at his solicitation, had investigated the ceremonial and obligations of the Knights of Columbus and found them both wholly unobjectionable in all their details.

Leading up to the reading of that committee's signed statement, Judge McCormick explained that, because of the wide circulation of a so-called "Knights of Columbus oath," and especially because the alleged "oath" had found its way into the columns of the "Southwestern Freemason," he had placed the entire ritual and obligations of the Knights in the hands of a committee of Masons.

As it was represented that the Knights were actively, though secretly, urging an uprising against Masons and Protestants, because bound by oath to do so, the judge felt it necessary to take this step. He said:

Judge McCormick Acts
"As state deputy of this order in California, as a member of it, and as a loyal American Catholic citizen, I could not pass by these vile falsehoods and slanderous statements. After securing permission from the highest of our order, I submitted its ritual together with its pledges to a committee of Masonic authorities here for them to determine the falsity or truth of these misrepresentations."

The findings of the committee were next read, and the mass of the representative citizens who signed them were greeted with ringing applause.

Committee's Report

"We hereby certify that by authority of the highest officer of the Knights of Columbus in the state of California, who acted under instructions from the supreme officers of the order in the United States, we were furnished a complete copy of all the work, ceremonies and pledges used by the order, and that we carefully read, discussed and examined the same.

"We found that while the order is in a sense a secret association, it is not an oathbound organization and that its ceremonies are comprised in four degrees, which are intended to teach and inculcate principles that its members are bound to observe at the foundation of every great religion and every great civilization."

"Our examination of these ceremonies and obligations was made primarily for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a certain alleged oath of the Knights of Columbus, which has been printed and widely circulated, was in fact used by the order, and whether, if it was not used, any oath obligation or pledge was used which was or would be offensive to Protestants or Masons, or those who are engaged in circulating a document of peculiar viciousness and wickedness."

"We find that neither the alleged oath nor any oath or pledge bearing the remotest resemblance thereto in matter, manner, spirit or purpose, is used or forms a part of the ceremonies of any degree of the Knights of Columbus."

Invention of Venomous Mind

"The alleged oath is scurrilous, wicked and libelous and must be the invention of an impious and venomous mind. We find that the order of the Knights of Columbus, as shown by its rituals, is dedicated to the Catholic religion, charity and patriotism."

"There is no propaganda proposed or taught against Protestants or Masons or persons not of Catholic faith. Indeed, Protestants and Masons are not referred to directly or indirectly in the ceremonies and pledges. The ceremonial of the order teaches a high and noble patriotism, instills a love of country, inculcates a reverence for law and order, urges conscientious and unselfish performance of civic duty, and holds up to the constitution of our country as the richest and most precious possession of a knight of the order."

No Objectionable Thing Found

"We can find nothing in the entire ceremonial of the order that to our minds could be objected to by any person."

"MOTLEY HEVES FLINT, 33d Degree Past Grand Master of Masons of California."

"DANA REID WELLS, 32d Degree Past Grand Master of Masons of California."

"JAMES RHODES HERVEY, 33d Degree Past Master and Master of Scottish Rite Lodge."

"SAMUEL E. BURKE, 32d Degree, Past Master and Inspector of Masons of District."

THE GOLDEN WEDDING

The 60th wedding anniversary of Col. and Mrs. Frederick Neal Dow of Portland was observed recently at their home on Congress street. The invitations for the reception having been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond Eaton and Mr. and Mrs. William Colby Eaton. Col. and Mrs. Dow were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. William Hammond Eaton and Mr. and Mrs. William Colby Eaton, members of their immediate family. The grand children, Miss Katherine Maynard Dow and Master Neal Dow, children of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dow, and Miss Annette Hammond Eaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Eaton, were also among the party.

Col. Dow is the founder and first president of the Portland Evening Express and Sunday Telegram. He is also a member of the United States National Bank, and what is more important still he is the son of the late Gen. Neal Dow, whose fame as an advocate of temperance was worldwide.

The anniversary was particularly noteworthy because Col. Dow is the fourth successive member of his family to have enjoyed a half century of wedded life. He is the grand son of his father and his great-grandfather and his great-grandfather in turn having celebrated their golden weddings.

Col. Dow's residence was built in 1824 by his father, Gen. Neal Dow, who lived there after his marriage until his death. Gen. Dow's library has been preserved intact and with additions by Col. Dow. It now numbers some 2500 volumes. Upon the sideboard in the dining room is a silver tea service of the finest workmanship presented to Gen. Dow in 1854 by a group of prominent Pennsylvanians. The presentation speech having been made by Hon. William D. Kelly, so long a member of congress from the Keystone state. Gen. Dow's silver pitcher which was given to Gen. Dow in the preceding year during a trip to New Jersey, and this was presented in behalf of his fellow citizens by Rev. Theodore L. Gayler.

"The anniversary proved a very brilliant and delightful one and, besides the many who called, hosts of friends by gifts or letters extended their most cordial felicitations to Col. and Mrs. Dow."

UNFAIRNESS TO WALSH

The statement made by Senator Edward Fisher and published in Saturday's issue of The Sun commands the respect and attention of all the voters of Lowell who are lovers of truth. The unassailable record of its author, his reputation for veracity and honorable dealing, his legislative achievements and his well known dislike of political hypocrisy give it a force which twenty campaign speeches cannot equal. Furthermore, the declaration of Senator Fisher that it was made "in order that justice may be done to all" recommends it to the attention of the fair-minded men of all parties who demand that a man be attacked, if at all, in the open and not stabbed in the back.

The Sun has heretofore called attention to the mendacity of the accusations made against His Excellency and to their rampant unfairness. Candidate McCall, in speaking of the Walsh administration in this city, accused the chief executive of extravagance—studiously omitting to mention that if the last legislature was extravagant, the responsibility rests on those who controlled it—the republicans. He did, however, accuse the governor of boosting the salary of his private secretary, Judge Meany, and declared that, in this, Governor Walsh gave had example to the legislature—a legislature, by the way, which would not be disposed to follow the example of the governor for good or evil and whose extravagance in many cases the governor strove to restrain.

Mr. McCall deliberately told this to the people of Lowell, but he failed to give the facts. Senator Fisher tells the facts, and in a way that must carry conviction to the most ardent republican in the city who is honest in his judgment. At the outset, the senator says that though "no member of the legislature fought harder or more consistently against salary raises and undue expenditures" than he did, he supported the bill to increase this salary. He then gives many good reasons why $4000 a year is not excessive, but this is not the particular point at issue, viz.: the injustice and unfairness of those who accuse Gov. Walsh of extravagance.

That the matter of the secretary's salary is comparatively slight does not matter. Where grave accusations are not obtainable, slight things must be exaggerated. Nevertheless it does not seem right that Mr. McCall or any other aspirant to Governor Walsh's present office should accuse him of anything for which the responsibility rests almost wholly on the republicans. Senator Fisher deserves the thanks not only of democrats but of the honorable men of all parties for coming out to tell the truth and expose the falsity of republican charges.

Incidentally, Senator Fisher says that for years the governors of Massachusetts have been wont to pay their secretaries partly out of their own pockets. As the governors have generally been men of unusual wealth, this has been easily done. Governor Walsh is not in a financial position to pay his secretary personally and, instead of being censured, he should be commended for meeting a salary problem so honestly. Even those who accuse him of boosting the salary did not call $4000 a year excessive. One air bubble has been punctured. A campaign lie has been nailed, and the facts vindicate Governor Walsh fully. Vote for him, not only as an expression of confidence in his administration but as a rebuke to those who have attacked him so grossly, so persistently and so unfairly.

This is but one sample of the arguments against the governor; but the only reason why the republicans want him ousted is, that he is a democrat. The only reason why they favor McCall is that he is a republican.

THE PUBLIC MARKET

The voters of Lowell will be called upon tomorrow to decide whether this city shall require or rent suitable structures for a public market, and we are to assume that on the answer will depend whether Lowell will have such a market in the near future or not. It may be that even an affirmative vote might be followed by the inactivity shown in the public hall, the contagious hospital, the high school, and many other matters, but this does not affect the principle of the public market. The point for the voters to decide is whether such a market is desirable in Lowell or whether it is impractical.

At the meeting held over a year ago relative to this same subject, the farmers of the vicinity seemed to favor the project. The argument published by the Lowell board of trade and purporting to speak for the farmer also favors it. There is certainly something wrong when farmers of Dracut, Tewksbury, and other towns just across the line transport their goods to Boston and sell to wholesalers, who in turn sell the produce to Lowell retailers. But whether the public market would furnish any remedy for this is largely problematical.

At the best, the public market cannot serve the entire city, because people will not put themselves out to do their own transporting. If such a market be located in a very populous neighborhood it might be the means of attracting a brisk trade in direct buying and selling, but to benefit the entire city, markets would have to be established in the various sections or in the chief transportation centers. The market may be a blessing, and Lowell may be one of those cities to avail of it to the full, but no one can vote on it intelligently who does not understand its inherent limitations.

Charles Sumner Bird, commenting on the Boston public market a few days ago condemned it owing to the fact that it tends to eliminate the retailer instead of the wholesaler. On this phase of the matter the public will be little interested. Those who wish to make a nickel go a long way and those who favor old-fashioned buying would find the public market advisable—that is, the ideal public market. Only experience can prove whether Lowell wants such a market. Think it over in all its phases before you vote.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

The various candidates may have differed on many fine points but they all agreed on the fact that a large vote is desirable. The time will come when the successful aspirant of tomorrow, the defeated candidate and all the voters will have passed away from the world of politics and business, but Massachusetts will still be governed by a man chosen by the citizens of the future. The war in Europe should be an incentive to us to assert your prerogative as well as to perform your duty which is to turn out tomorrow and vote for the candidate of your choice. No matter whether you are personally indifferent to the fortunes of all the men on the various party tickets. If you are an American citizen who realizes what it means, you will go to the polls tomorrow and vote. It is especially desirable that you vote the democratic ticket, but if you cannot do so conscientiously, vote anyhow.

We suggest the democratic ticket because in a large national sense the democratic party is the party of reform, not merely promised future reform but demonstrated reform. No other party of late years has made such large promises and has kept them. From the top to the bottom it is permeated with the spirit of its great leader, Pres. Woodrow Wilson, who has written his name large in American history and in doing it has fulfilled his public pledges and kept America out of the hell of world war. In appealing for your vote, we only repeat the request of that same great president who asks that you give him practical support by electing members of his party to office.

We also ask your vote for the democratic party because it is the party of Governor Walsh, a chief executive who, under peculiar difficulties has had your interest at heart and who has served you well. Do not be misled by false attacks on him but vote fairly and squarely as a broad and public-spirited citizen. Vote also for Lieut.-Gov. Barry, his accomplished and active co-worker, and for the other men on the democratic ticket.

A SING-SING CHAUFFEUR

Governor Glynn did the proper thing in promptly discharging the warden of Sing Sing prison after some revelations of the brand of justice administered by him. The specific charge was that a bank wrecker of some means was hired as the warden's chauffeur, having driven him on long journeys and sometimes having been left alone in New York and elsewhere for hours at a time. This was during the time that the banker was supposed to be doing hard labor in Sing Sing. The warden did not attempt to defend his use of the banker-chauffeur, merely saying that he chose him for the honorable position because he appeared to be a gentleman. Gilbert and Sullivan in their palmiest days never conceived a better burlesque on justice than this incident which has too many humorous features to be condemned as it deserves. Sing-Sing officials learn very slowly; this is by no means the first revelation of laxity in its administration, though it is one of the most picturesque.

ONLY TESTED METHODS

Dr. Murlin's advice before the Middlesex County Teachers' association in Tremont Temple, that only proved methods of education should be introduced into the schools, comes appropriately at a time when faddists advocate teaching everything up to sex consciousness. "We cannot afford to experiment with material so precious as childhood," he said, and wisely. The greatest men in our history and in all histories were men trained in the sound fundamentals of education and under systems that respected home and school discipline. There has been a danger of late years that the pendulum was about to swing in the other direction. If Dr. Murlin's advice is indicative of a realization of danger ahead, it is gratifying indeed. Let us have the tried and true educational methods that have given us clever and noble men and women.

SEEN AND HEARD

HE WAS ON ALL RIGHT!

City Girl—How savagely that bull looks at me!
Farmer—It's your red parasol, miss.
City Girl—I knew it was a little out of style, but I didn't think a bull would notice it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

NOT NEEDED

Two college students were arraigned before the magistrate, charged with hurling the low spots in the road in their motor car.
"Have you a lawyer?" asked the magistrate.
"We're not going to have any lawyer," answered the elder of the students. "We've decided to tell the truth."

MILITARY OFFENSE

During the annual maneuvers of the British Territorials a private was riding one day in a train with his uniform coat unbuttoned. This caused a sergeant to say:
"Hutson up that coat! Haven't you got any sense of military decency?"
But here a gentleman on the left interfered, saying to the sergeant:
"How dare you give commands with a cigar in your mouth? I am Major Fitzhugh Calbraith."

At this point an elderly gentleman with a white mustache leaned over and murmured in the major's ear.
"Breuster Fairfax is sorry to remind you, sir, that to scold a sergeant in the presence of a private is a military offense hard to overlook."

FAMILIAR REASONING

In a certain home missionary movement every participant was to contribute $1 that she had earned herself by hard work. The night of the collection of the dollars came, and various and droll were the stories of earning and money. One woman had shopped for a week, another had made doughnuts, another had secured newspaper subscriptions, and so on.
The chairman turned to a handsome woman in the front row.

"Now, madam, it is your turn," he said. "How did you earn your dollar?"
"I got it from my husband," she answered.
"Oh," said he. "From your husband? There was no hard work about that!"
The woman smiled faintly.

REAL FALL WEATHER

"You may put it in your pipe and smoke it," says a weather wise man, "that we are to settle down to some real fall weather now. Oh, yes, we'll get some good warm days probably, but for the most part, the general run of weather will be such as to make you at least think of your coat. If you do not have it with you. The nights will be of such a kind, too, that you will not be sleeping in the outdoor porch with not more than a sheet over you. Rather you will need some extra blankets even when you are safely housed indoors. The janitors from now on until the robins put in their first appearance will have all the work they want to do and the householder might just as well get ready to sift the ashes just as well for he will soon have to start the boiler. I am going to make a prediction, and that is that on Thanksgiving day we shall have skating on some of the ponds if not on all of them." There is something to put down in your notebook. If it doesn't come true, then you can put down this weather-wise gentleman as one of the usual variety of weather prognosticators. If it does come true, then give him credit, at least as being a good guesser."

JUDGMENT

Somewhere, above this war of hate,
God broods upon his throne;
He scans the running sands of Fate,
And sees the end—alone.

Somewhere, above these stricken lands,
Almighty God looks down;
Perhaps with ruthless, guiding hands,
Perhaps with angry frown.

Whether He planned this scourge of flame,
No man today can tell;
These things creep upon his name,
To bless their shot and shell.

Whether behind this drama dark
God moves, or devils lurk,
Swinging his scythe in widening arc,
The Reaper is at work.

We sicken at the awful mast,
Youth slaughtered, genius slain,
Mercy forgotten, pity lost,
Blood soaking hill and plain.

But some day those who rule these lands
Shall face God's Judgment throne
With naked hearts and reddened hands,
Unguarded and alone.

With those who died and those who wept
These things shall answer God,
For plans and ends no man can sweep,
For ruin spread abroad.

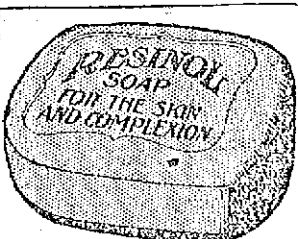

His voice shall give them their reward
For all eternal time,
Forgiveness if he desired the sword,
Or His curse for a godless crime.
—Chicago Herald.

CASCARETS FOR YOUR BOWELS IF HEADACHY, SICK

Tonight! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Put aside—just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oils or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and leave no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Severe Cold, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

LORD FISHER POPULAR

Admiral LORD FISHER.

Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, now first sea lord of the English admiralty, has been admiral of the British fleet since 1905. He was born in 1841 and entered the British naval service when 13 years old, working his way up through all the grades. When the British channel fleet was reorganized in 1897 Fisher had a serious difference with Lord Charles Beresford regarding its composition. Both the public and members of parliament took sides in the controversy, and ultimately Lord Charles Beresford was forced out of the fleet. Lord Fisher is 73 years old. His appointment to succeed Prince Louis of Battenberg, who resigned, is popular.

J. E. CONANT & CO.'S SALE

DISPOSES OF LUZERNE KNITTING COMPANY AT WEST PITTSFORD, PA. FOR SUM OF $21,000

The sale of the property of the Luzerne Knitting mills at West Pittsford, Pennsylvania, went forward Thursday as advertised. The sale began promptly at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and was fully completed at half-past two. The real estate was purchased locally by J. M. Anderson, acting as attorney, for the sum of $14,500 and the taxes and insurance. The machinery and mechanical equipment were broadcast to purchasers from as far west as Michigan, from as far south as North Carolina, and from as far north as Connecticut and from very much of the intervening territory. While the total sale was only about $21,000 against an assessed valuation of $25,000, it by no means shows the success of the spirit and activity of the sale.

WHO WANTS TO SELL

By the direction of the post office department, a directory of those who desire to sell butter, eggs, and general produce, shipping it direct to consumers by parcel post will be printed and distributed by the Lawrence post office to persons who wish or would be likely to make use thereof.

Those who have farm produce for sale and desire to be included in this list may send their names and addresses (legibly written) stating what articles they can supply.

Address Michael F. Cronin, Postmaster, Lawrence, Mass.

WARREN CLUB PARTY

PRESENTED PRESIDENT, FARRELL. TOKEN OF ESTEEM—HALLOWEEN PARTY ENJOYED

A delightful Halloween party was held at the Warren club rooms in the Old Fellows building in Middlesex street Saturday evening with all the characteristic witches astride brooms, ghosts, goblins and other Halloween spirits in attendance. There were many guests present, including friends from North Cambridge, Dorchester, Boston, Haverhill, Nashua and Reading. The rooms were elaborately decorated with pumpkins, faces, Jack-o'-lanterns and other designs from which beamed the var-colored lights.

But the occasion, aside from merely making merry on Halloween had a much more significant meaning, and after the opening of the evening's festivities with selections by Broderick's union orchestra, Mr. John Farrell, who recently resigned as president of the club was presented a handsome traveling bag as a testimonial of appreciation of services well rendered and of esteem by the members of the club. Mr. Frank Finnerty, made the presentation speech, and in a few well chosen words expressed the sentiment of the donors in a most fitting manner. Mr. Farrell, had entered into the spirit of the occasion, blissfully ignorant of the surprise awaiting him, but managed to express his heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift.

MR. JOHN FARRELL President

Immediately following the presentation, a delightful musical program was carried out, with Mr. Thomas Dowd, one of Lowell's leading musicians at the piano, and many guests, a violin solo by Mr. Edward Brown was well received. Mr. Thomas Baxter pleased with the song, "Just a Little Love." Mr. William McCarthy gave several pleasing selections on the piano, while the reading, "Asleep at the Switch," by Frank O'Brien, was highly appreciated. Mr. Franklin Williams won applause with "Would You Take Me Back Again," and Mr. Fred Smith, acting president of the club favored with a few remarks.

The gathering then sat down to a sumptuous collation prepared by Caterer Dick Talbot and many guests, and varied favors were passed around as mementos of the occasion. The dance hall was next visited and general dancing to the strains of Broderick's orchestra was continued till midnight.

The responsible for the success of the affair were as follows: Fred Smith, general manager; Frank Finnerty, assistant general manager; Edmund Preston, floor director; Louis Talbot, chief aid; aids, members and guests.

STATE NURSES' ASSOCIATION

Held its Fall Meeting at Colonial Hall Last Saturday Afternoon—Reports of Officers and Committee Were Made

The Massachusetts State Nurses' association held its annual fall meeting in Colonial hall, Palmer street, Saturday afternoon. The meeting was called to order shortly after 3 o'clock, after which Rev. A. C. Perrin of the High Street Congregational church gave an invocation. Miss Sara A. Rowen, superintendent of the Lowell General hospital, delivered an address of welcome which was responded to by the president, Miss Mary Riddle, R. N., of Newton Lower Falls. Reports of officers and committee were followed by speaking on various topics of special interest to the profession. Miss Emma M. Nichols spoke on "The Red Cross Nursing Service." Dr. W. P. Powers, secretary of the Massachusetts state board of nurse registration, gave some timely information on legislation and matters pertaining thereto, and the closing remarks were by Miss Linda Richards, the first graduate nurse in the United States.

LIEUT. GEN. CHAFFEE DEAD

Former Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army Rose From the Ranks—Wounded in Three Battles

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 2.—Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee, (retired), former chief of staff of the United States army, died at his home here yesterday of typhoid pneumonia. His body will be taken to Washington, leaving Tuesday, for interment in Arlington National cemetery.

After his retirement, General Chaffee was appointed head of the Los Angeles water board. Later he accepted the presidency of an insurance company, but retired from business affairs a few months ago.

Wounded in Three Battles

Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee rose from a private to the command of the United States army. He never saw the inside of West Point except as a visitor, but he was one of the greatest fighters that ever led Uncle Sam's troops.

When he finally came to the office of the chief of staff in Washington, he brought with him the scars of three bullet wounds, received at Chickamauga, Gettysburg and Santiago, and an unsurpassed record for personal prowess in the campaign and on the battlefield.

Few modern generals entrusted with the command of large military affairs have ever seen so much real bloodshed as he.

His most famous achievements as a field commander were the planning and execution of the attack on the stone fort of El Caney in the Cuban campaign, and the leading of the American troops in the capture of Vicksburg at the time of the Boxer uprising.

In the death of General Chaffee the army loses one of its most spectacular figures. Starting as a cavalry trooper, and later winning laurels as an Indian fighter, his conduct on the fieldways favored of the showy dare-devilry of the cowboy.

His most famous exhibition of this was when he dashed out before his men at El Caney in the thick of the Spanish fire, and waved his hat to encourage them in the charge. More than one of his steps in rank was one of his reckless bravery in leading a cavalry charge.

But he combined with this characteristic remarkable cunning in the presence of the enemy. In the west he won the name of the "slough" because, it is said, he was never ambushed, or successfully tricked by the Indians in his many campaigns against them.

General Chaffee enlisted in the Sixth cavalry in 1861, and served as a private and non-commissioned officer till 1863, when he was made second lieutenant. He took part in more than 50 engagements in the Civil war, being present at Appomattox in 1865.

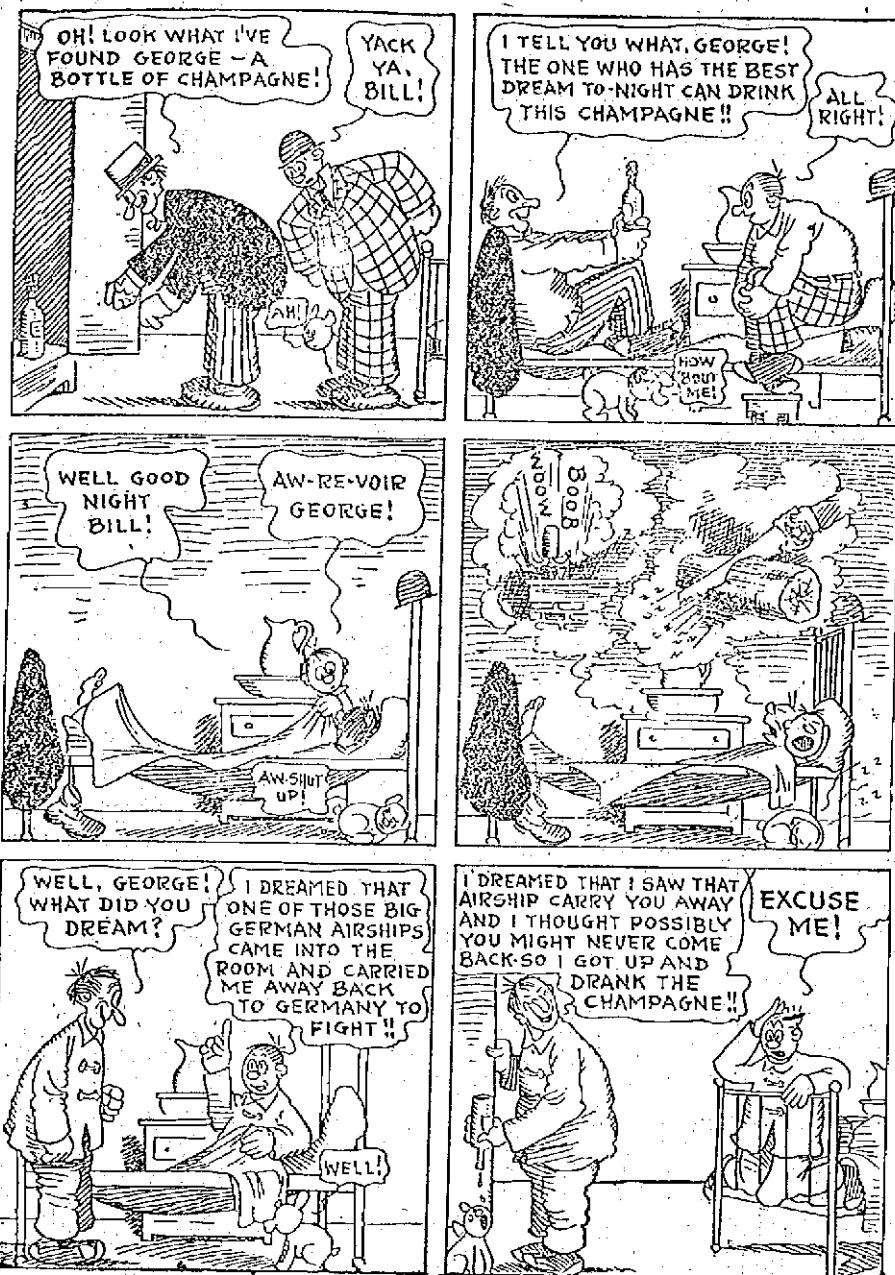

After the war he went with his regiment to Texas. For more than 30 years he served constantly in the west. He was made a captain in 1867 and a major in 1868. He had previously been brevetted major in 1863 for his services in the battle of Point Creek, Texas, against the Comanche Indians, receiving further brevets for gallantry for leading a cavalry charge over rough and precipitous bluffs on the Red river in 1874, and for his part in the action at Big Dry Wash, Arizona, in 1884.

When the Spanish war broke out he was made first brigadier and then major-general of volunteers, and took command of one of the divisions that went to capture Santiago. After that campaign he returned to Cuba as chief of staff for Generals Brooke and Wood.

Later he commanded the China expedition and then the American forces in the Philippines, coming home to wind up his service as lieutenant-general and chief of staff. He retired Feb. 1, 1906.

EXCUSE ME

OIL MILLIONS FOR THE EUROPEAN WAR VICTIMS

Rockefeller Foundation Will Start Relief Ship From Rotterdam Tomorrow—Loaded With Food for Belgians

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Rockefeller Foundation has determined to employ its immense resources for the relief of non-combatants in the countries afflicted by the war and stands ready to give "millions of dollars, if necessary," for the purpose.

This was announced last night by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., president of the foundation.

In pursuance of this philanthropy the foundation will send a commission to Europe in a few days to report first hand as to how, when and where aid can be rendered most effectively. At a cost of $275,000 it already has chartered a ship and loaded it with 1000 tons of provisions for the relief of the starving Belgians.

This action is taken, Mr. Rockefeller says, "as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

The ship is the Massapequa, the largest neutral vessel now in New York harbor. She will sail Tuesday morning direct for Rotterdam, with a certification from the British consul at New York that its cargo is destined for the use of Belgian non-combatants only, and should not be delayed in transit. The supplies are consigned to the American consul at Rotterdam, and will be distributed by the Belgian relief commission.

Mr. Rockefeller has been in communication with Ambassador Page at London, and makes public a cablegram, in which the ambassador describes "the dire need of the Belgians, and says that it will require a million dollars a month for seven or eight months to prevent starvation."

"In fact," the ambassador said, "many will starve now before food can reach them." He added that the British government forbids the export of food, and that none can be bought on the continent.

It was in response to this urgent message and a similar one from H. C. Hoover of the American relief committee in London that the foundation decided to send a relief ship "at the earliest possible moment."

Work "Absolutely Neutral"

Mr. Rockefeller makes clear in his announcement that whatever steps are taken by the foundation in the administration of its relief work "will be absolutely neutral."

The commission of investigation will be headed by William H. Allen, director-general of the International health commission, and will visit the several countries affected by the war.

The announcement follows: "It having become clear that one of the most terrible and appalling effects of the war will fall upon the non-combatants—those most innocent of any part in the cause—the Rockefeller foundation has determined to exert itself to the extent, if necessary, of millions of dollars for the relief of non-combatants in the various countries involved."

"This action is taken as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely, to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

"I have written the American ambassador in London that we foresee the probability that large resources will be very much needed for rehabilitation, at a time when the resources now being drawn upon for immediate relief will be, perhaps, very nearly exhausted. Under the circumstances, we feel the need of further advice."

Commission to Europe

"In order to obtain expert opinion as to the time, place and means of rendering aid most effectively, the foundation has arranged to send to Europe within the next few days a commission which shall visit the countries affected and advise us first hand. The chairman of the commission will be William H. Allen, director-general of the International health commission, whose successful experience in organizing the campaign against hookworm disease in various parts of the world peculiarly fits him for the task. We are also seeking to enlist the co-operation of one or two others experienced in the administration of relief to those in need."

The sending of such a mission will not render unnecessary the efforts of other agencies of relief, for the need is widespread and millions of people are suffering. All steps which the Rockefeller foundation takes will, of course, be absolutely neutral.

"To avoid delay and to provide relief at the earliest possible moment for the suffering people of Belgium, the foundation has chartered the largest neutral ship available in New York harbor and purchased a full cargo of supplies to be despatched immediately."

"This action will but supplement the public spirited efforts of the Belgian relief committee of which Mr. Robert W. DeForest is chairman. The necessity is vital and worthy of the heartiest support as indicated by the following cablegrams which in reply to inquiries, we have received from Mr. Page, the American ambassador at London:

Belgians Starving

"Belgians on verge of starvation. I emphatically regard it most opportune to help. I have never known such a case of need. Committee to distribute food consists of prominent Americans here and influential Belgians in Belgium and American minister and consuls in Belgium, all under my direction. British government forbids export of food and no food can be bought on continent. Help needed is food, and clothing for women and children."

"It will require a million dollars a month for seven or eight months to prevent starvation. In fact, many will starve now before food can reach them. No food can be bought and exported from any country in Europe. Every dollar you choose to give will save or prolong a human life. If you can give it quickly enough. No other time will come in any land when there can be greater need. Do not send money. Buy six parts wheat, two parts rice two parts beans, and ship in neutral ships consigned to American consul at Rotterdam. Inform me when you ship and I will arrange the diplomatic requirements for landing for transit to Belgium, and for distributions in small quantities by the commission of relief, which, as a means of reaching all the people, have taken over all grocery stores."

"Immediately upon receiving these messages the Rockefeller Foundation enlisted the cooperation of the shipping department of the Standard Oil company of New York in securing the vessel, and at the same time gladly availed itself of the voluntary services of Mr. Lionel Hagen, a Belgian, now resident in New York, and member of the Belgian relief committee. In purchasing the cargo, the foundation encountered considerable difficulty in finding a capacious vessel, and the pressure upon the market for foodstuffs was such that it was impossible to comply exactly with Ambassador Page's suggestion as to proportions. To fill and despatch the ship called for an expenditure of $750,000."

Ship Sails Tuesday

"On next Tuesday morning, therefore, the Massapequa of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship company will sail direct to Rotterdam, Holland, laden with 4000 tons of supplies consigned to the American consul."

"The cargo will consist of: "25,000 barrels of flour, "14,000 packets (100 pounds each) of rice, "3000 bags (200 pounds each) of beans, "1000 boxes (100 pounds each) of bacon."

"The British consul has kindly agreed to certify that these supplies are absolutely for the aid of non-combatants and should not be delayed in transit."

"The extraordinary need in Belgium is further indicated by the following cablegram received from H. C. Hoover of the American relief committee in London:

Need Five Millions Monthly

"Have received reports from members of our commission, from the American minister in Brussels and from local officials that within three weeks the last vestige of foodstuffs in Belgium will have been exhausted and the entire population of over 7,000,000 people will be faced with starvation. The minimum supply of foodstuffs required amounts to about 20,000 tons of cereal per month, together with bacon and lard. The minimum monthly expenditure required is from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000, of which some part returnable through sales. It therefore appears the problem of feeding the people of Belgium transcends other Belgian relief. The one function of Americans in Belgian relief is the purchase and despatch of food. We have expanded every dollar that we have received in the purchase and despatch of foodstuffs already and it will take all the funds we can raise here to take care of the emergency pending arrival of stuffs from America."

"It is obvious that no philanthropic exertion will be too great to relieve the acute suffering of those victims of the war who are innocent of any participation in it."

Ins $100,000,000

"The Rockefeller Foundation, which was incorporated by congress last year, and to which John D. Rockefeller gave $100,000,000, has for its announced purposes the prevention and relief of suffering, the advancement of civilization by the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge, and the promotion of all elements of human progress by eleemosynary and philanthropic means."

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get Liquid Arvon, at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

HOT FIGHT IN VERMONT

CHARLES A. PROUTY SEEKING TO DEFEAT SENATOR WILLIAM P. DILLINGHAM

Charles A. Prouty is the progressive, democratic and prohibitionist candidate for United States senator from Vermont. He is seeking to wrest the seat away from Senator William P. Dillingham, republican, who has been in the upper branch of congress since 1903. Mr. Prouty is former interstate commerce commissioner and is a republican. He tried first for the republican nomination, but failed to get it. Senator Dillingham winning. Then Mr. Prouty accepted the progressive and prohibitionist nominations. The democratic nomination came to him when Charles D. Watson, who had been chosen by the state convention, withdrew. The Vermont fight is among the hottest waged by progressives and democrats to oust an old republican senator.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES

GHOSTS, GOBLINS, SPOOKS AND WITCHES AT Y. W. C. A. PARTIES IN CHURCH VESTRIES

There was one great big time at the Y. W. C. A. Saturday night. It was a Halloween party and there was no end to the long line of ghosts and goblins. Of course they weren't real ghosts, or spooks, or goblins, but they looked the part and it gave one the "cold creeps" to listen to their weird moanings. Each guest, as she appeared costumed and masked, was grabbed by a white spook, who escorted her through the mazes and terrors of "Spook Alley" to the gymnasium floor. Here, at $30, the grand march formed, with Ruth Choate and Lillian Walker, as gnomes, leading, and the scene was a very remarkable one. The gymnasium had been decorated with cornstalks and leaves, pumpkins and black and orange streamers by a group of the house girls under the chairmanship of Cornelia King. The program was in charge of Mrs. Henderson, representing the Riverbrook club; the refreshments were

FIRE ON LAKEVIEW AVE.

TENANTS DRIVEN INTO STREET EARLY YESTERDAY MORNING—CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

Fire which started in the store of a large block on Lakeview avenue, near Coburn street, shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning, drove the occupants of the tenement above into the street allied in what clothing they could reach in a moment's notice. Fortunately no one was injured and after the firemen had worked for over an hour extinguishing the flames, the tenants returned to their sleeping quarters.

The cause of the blaze could not be learned. A passerby discovered smoke pouring from the building at 120 o'clock and he immediately sounded an alarm from box 62, corner of Lakeview avenue and Coburn street. Upon the arrival of the department several lines of hose were put into use and for nearly an hour water was poured onto the building from all sides. The store and parts of the block were practically gutted when the firemen finished their work, the damage being heavy. The building is owned by Mr. Jurgenson.

Box 521 yesterday afternoon was for a brush fire in Pine street. No damage.

Brush fires were also reported yesterday in the vicinity of the Hunting club, Sayles street and at High street, near Fort Hill park.

Dr. Martin Grove Brumbaugh, republican candidate for governor in Pennsylvania, is one of the foremost men of that state. Born in 1862 he took up teaching and became the superintendent of schools of Huntingdon county, that state, at the age of 23. He studied law, but never practiced. He was appointed commissioner of education in Porto Rico in 1900 by President McKinley. He is a member of the state board of education in Pennsylvania and superintendent of schools of Philadelphia. He is opposed by Vance C. McCormick, democrat, both of whom want the position now held by Governor Tener, president of the National Baseball league.

LADY LOOKABOUT

Should any farmer so far forget the traditions of his sires, as to be up late and in the city at night, I wager that more than one looks with longing eyes on these beautiful lanterns that decorate the street corners. I wish they could know how glad some of us would be to see an occasional one removed. Take the one at Tower's Corner for example. Coming up Central and into Greenham it is all right; also passing either up or down Middlesex street; but, coming up Central to back Central the lantern is most awkwardly placed. It means that a driver must proceed up Central street to a point near the Lowell Trust company, where he must make an abrupt turn to his left, crossing just in front of the bank building; another abrupt turn, this time to his right, and he is finally headed up back Central street. There is no doubt but that this light does good duty in its present position, but surely it could be more conveniently placed for the driver going up back Central street.

Ignorance of the Law

In New York the police court authorities find themselves face to face with a condition the parallel of which may be found here in Lowell. There the foreign population is so large and so varied, that the judges find themselves sitting in judgment on violators of statutes, who, on account of being ignorant of the law, do not always know they are lawbreakers until they have been apprehended by the police. The same condition was illustrated here a short time ago when a foreigner was fined for using a milk bottle as a receptacle for something other than milk. The victim was ignorant of the fact that he was violating a statute, but this of course did not excuse him. In New York the judges believe they have found a solution of the difficulty in having printed in various foreign languages lists of the statutes most commonly violated. These are widely circulated, and already there is a marked falling off in the number of violations of these statutes.

Something for Nothing Scheme

No matter how many times persons have found themselves victimized by the promoters of "something for nothing," still they rush headlong into every new scheme that comes along. Appearances to the contrary, no one has ever yet received something for nothing. We have also proven to ourselves that we pay most for the things that are given to us. How anyone can believe that a firm employing several clerks, using several delivery wagons, and paying heavy rent for a store, can afford to give away presents or premiums is past understanding. They see their promoters of these stores grow rich, yet they flock to them to get something for nothing. In the words of the humorist, "It can't be done"; it is simply another example of "fooling some of the people all the time."

Mayor Curley for Woman Suffrage

Mayor Curley of Boston has declared himself emphatically for suffrage. Whether suffrage for women be in accord with our own opinions or not, we cannot help admiring the man in high position who leaves no doubt in the public mind in regard to his position on the question. It has occurred to me that I have never heard Mayor Murphy's position on the question of woman suffrage defined. He may have expressed himself very emphatically in regard to it, but if so, I missed it and would like to hear the truth on the matter, particularly as I feel keenly on the subject myself.

Cultural vs. Vocational Training

In this day of vocational training, it did my heart good to hear Dr. Murlin, president of Boston University, hold forth last Friday in defense of cultural education. Surely a man of his training, his experience and his position, can speak with authority on the subject of education, and there is none among us who cannot listen with profit to his words.

He deplores industrial education for children in their teens, as it creates class distinctions—dividing young life up into sections, something most unfortunate in a republic like ours. He believes all young people should receive the same education in their teens that they may the better understand each other. He accuses the American people of blindly following the lead of Germany in the matter of education. "Where," he said, "ethics must go, honor must go, everything must go to keep industrial military efficiency."

It has been argued that it is a waste of time and energy for the boy who is not professionally inclined, to follow the study of Latin, Greek, literature, science, and upper mathematics, as given in the ordinary high school. This is not true. Surely the boy who follows a trade, will in my opinion, make a better tradesman if he can read a good author intelligently, or if he can pick out the constituent elements of a good poem, story or picture, and he will be a happier man, because a world of pleasure and entertainment is his to enjoy, which ever remains unknown to the man who has learned only the use of the rule and square.

Cultural studies develop a person's sense of honor and of chivalry, and from common clay often produce a man. And when I write of culture, I do not mean the "kultur" of the German soldier, but rather the culture of Emerson, Washington, Lincoln and Wilson.

FASHION NOTES

From the Originators of Styles — Features of Leading Garments

The present is an interesting season in matters pertaining to dress even while we are laboring under some few disadvantages, for we are making a great many new departures, we are learning a great many wholesome truths and we are altogether facing a new condition. The latest news from Paris assures us that the business of the city is as nearly normal as is possible under the conditions, that there is every effort being made to offset the inevitable strain. It would be well if we on this side of the sea would follow the same example and remember all that there is to encourage and all that there is that is good.

We are hearing a great deal of cotton manufactures and the exploitation of cotton is being discussed in many ways. While it may be some time before our factories can turn out the kinds of materials we are now upon the market, exceedingly dainty and exceedingly beautiful ones that can be utilized for many seasons, it really would not require any self-denial whatsoever to clothe oneself in cotton for many occasions and we all know once the demand is created, the supply will be on hand.

There is being planned an exhibition of American fashions and American designed garments, too, and already we hear of the most wonderful silks that are manufactured under the stars and stripes and so many materials of so many sorts that there seems little cause to cavil. Perhaps if we were shut within our own boundaries for a little time, it might result in much good, but at this time there is a recent intercourse to bring us suggestions from across the sea and, for this present season at least, we are sufficiently familiar with the general tendency to need no further impetus.

As might have been foretold, the circular tunic has dropped to the plaited skirt but that statement in no way interferes with the fact that tunics over narrow skirts remain a favorite style. They are generally becoming, they are admired by the masculine contingent as well as by ourselves and they combine many things to assure their favor. They have grown longer until we see varying lengths from the tunic that shows only an inch or two of the skirt to the comparatively short, one. To the smart, however, there must be flare and the flare grows more and more general. Not infrequently, both the flared and the straight effect are obtained in an evening costume by using transparent material over a heavier one and there is altogether most wonderful variety to be found even in the one idea. Exploited today, for example, is a flaring gown of white satin and white silk tulle. The tulle makes a rather close and very prettily draped skirt, the folds of which are held at the sides by bunches of artificial flowers. The tunic is of the net, very full wired at the lower edge and finished with a band of silver braid with a fringe of white ostrich feathers below. As a matter of course, the close under skirt is as clearly visible as if the tulle were not used yet there is the flared effect in the contour. The tunic, by the way, is about two inches shorter than the skirt.

The fringe of ostrich besides emphasizing the flare of the tunic goes to show one of the many uses to which feathers of the sort are being put. We started out with a season promising much for trimming. Undoubtedly a great deal will be used but feathers are being substituted in many instances and the ostrich is converted into trimmings of a great many beautiful sorts.

All sorts of furs are fashionable but the beaver is having great vogue. All the bear, the monkey, all long-haired furs are being used much after the manner of fringe and the stitch continues the vogue of last season. Since with fur trimmed coats, the fur collar is not a necessity, the fashion becomes, in a sense, an economy, and many of the newest models show simple chokers and sleeve bands of the fur. The high collar is rapidly gaining vogue and makes a somewhat interesting feature of winter fashions. That it will not be exclusive in this climate is a foregone conclusion. The temperature is variable. We need and draperies are found in the most attractive and graceful form. These two gowns are fairly typical. The one on the right is made with apron drapery that is caught up at the back in a looped effect and with a bodice that is one of the very newest and prettiest of the season. It suggests the basque idea in the fact that it extends over the skirt and it includes the most gracefully draped sleeves and the V-shaped neck that marks the latest models. The brocade silk illustrated is one of the new ones with metal threads which in spite of that fact is as soft and easy to drape as charmeuse satin itself. The second costume combines one of the new satin crepes with lace and the skirt is made with an apron drapery that allows very charming and attractive use of the artificial flowers that are so well liked for trimming. In the small view, this same gown is shown with short skirt and long sleeves. Treated in that way, it can be utilized for the afternoon dance and made of lace, of chiffon, of net or of any material that is soft and becoming. Silk tulle with an edge of fur makes a handsome effect and is greater warmth one day than another. The coat that is made to be fastened closely up about the throat can not be thrown open at need and, while it has a certain smartness of its own and will gain many adherents, it is not likely to become an exclusive fashion. Even in blouses manufacturers who cater to the most fashionable have found that there is a decided tendency to open necks and it is not at all unlikely that a compromise will be found in the very pretty neck trimmings that are designed to be worn some with coats and some with gowns.

Some of the very newest of the chemisettes are made with high collars and are buttoned right down the front. Those that are integral parts of the costumes are sometimes made of satin and silk but there are separate ones of fine muslin that are charming for wear with many costumes and, while the collars are all high, they show interesting variety in shape and finish. For the street costumes, there are collarettes of velvet and of silk that are extremely becoming and give a very smart touch and, in some instances, there are similar accessories with upstanding ruffles of tulle that make exceedingly attractive frames for the face.

It is almost inevitable that the military suggestion should be found in the newest fashions and high collars and braid trimmings follow as a natural result. The Zouaves have attracted especial notice and immediately we have Zouave jackets. Among the very latest costumes to have arrived from across the sea is one of brocade in military blue which shows a narrow underskirt, a long plaited tunic, a wide girdle of soft silk and a Zouave jacket richly braided with flat cord and held with small gold buttons. This jacket is finished with a high, truly military collar slightly rolled over at the ends. It is very charming, very attractive and so essentially youthful in effect that it is certain to gain adherents. In this instance, the braid is applied on the outside but one of the newest fancies is for braid or cord applied on the under side of the material, so giving a raised effect, but following the stamped pattern as would be done in the case of the braid on the outside.

Save all pieces of bread, cook advises. The larger pieces will make good toast and the smaller ones will roll into crumbs. It is a good idea to place near the stove or on the warming oven a covered dish, and into this dish put every small scrap of bread, when you have collected enough roll them and put them into a fruit jar; the oven top of the fruit jar a piece of cheesecloth. This will keep out the dust and prevent the crumbs from becoming musty.

Cook makes the nicest salad dressing I ever tasted. Here is her rule for mayonnaise which seldom fails. Have your mixing bowl cold. Mix together a teaspoon of salt, the same of mustard and one-quarter teaspoon of cayenne and paprika.

Beat the yolks of two eggs. Add to seasonings and stir and beat until it is thick. Add slowly four tablespoonfuls of olive oil and lemon juice. Then add oil and lemon juice and vinegar until a cup of all and a tablespoonful of each of the acids has been added. If desired, the white of one egg beaten to a stiff froth, may be added, or half a cup of whipped cream.

Cook is an expert on laundering lingerie. She told me how to do it this morning so I pass it along to you. She says to wash it carefully in the usual way; when "boned" dip in and out several times in a basin of borax water, in the proportion of one large tablespoonful to one quart of hot water, stirring until dissolved. Squeeze (not wring) out as much moisture as possible, roll it smoothly in a Turkish towel for an hour; the article is easier to iron, looks cleaner.

er and keeps fresher longer than when starch is used.
This is particularly satisfactory for infants' clothing. Borax makes Irish lace "just right."

Some potato hints from cook this morning were very welcome to me and I hope you will find them useful. When mashing potatoes or other vegetables, she says, never use cold milk but hot, then they will be light and fluffy.

To get the full nutriment from a potato it should be cooked in the skin, as valuable food salts, lie just inside the covering.

Mashed potatoes, left over, should be packed in a cup or bowl until needed for frying. Another way to use it is to put into a double boiler with some warm milk. It will be quite tasty.

Cook was cleaning the teakettle with vinegar when I went to the kitchen this morning. "I never heard of that," I told her. "Oh, yes, ma'am," she remarked. "Sulphuric is good, too, but one should be very careful to wash the kettle thoroughly after using. Both are fine to remove the lime coating."

In filling the tea kettle in the morning, cook warns against using the water that first flows from the faucet, as this is stale from standing in the metal pipe besides it sometimes contains particles of the lead.

Food cooked with stale water is insipid and unwholesome. Also, do not neglect to empty the tea kettle, she says, before refilling with fresh water. Stale water loses its flavor that is imparted to foods cooked with it.

Cook washed the dishes this morning with milk in place of soap.

Half a cupful of milk put in a dish-tub full of hot water, she says, will serve instead of soap. It softens the water, keeps the hands better, because it will not roughen them like soap, and brightens dishes, cleaning off all grease and leaving no scum in the pan.

When washing china with gilt upon it, she advises against using soda. Rub a little soap on the dishcloth to make a nice lather, then rinse in clear water, is her way.

CAPTURED CANNON SHOWN TO AWAKEN WAR SPIRIT

Photos by American Press Association.

1.—Crowd at London recruiting station. 2.—British regiment marching through London on way to front. 3.—Captured German gun taken to England. 4.—Captured French guns paraded in Berlin. 5.—German war poster—translation, "German war surprise, 1914; our 42 centimeter bomb; Liege, Longwy, Namur, Maubeuge; with God for king and fatherland."

By JOHN J. BREEN.

UNIQUE methods have been adopted by the nations warring in Europe to arouse the patriotism of the people at home. Frequently the news of a victory has been accompanied by a silent witness of a great battle. Captured cannons and flags have figured largely in demonstrations which were calculated not only to raise the drooping spirits of the populace, but to gain new recruits for the army.

One of the most striking and powerful methods was adopted by Great Britain. In the battle of the Marne English soldiers captured many of the Germans' powerful guns. Several of these were mounted on flat cars and shipped to a British base on the continent and later sent across the channel to England. Then they were decorated with signs briefly detailing what they were and hauled through the different cities in Great Britain and Ireland. In many cities and towns the effect was electrical. Thousands cheered and prayed for the success of the British arms, and other thousands made their way to the recruiting stations.

When Berlin was convinced that the powerful guns of the Krupp works had made good and reduced many of the forts that were regarded as impregnable enterprises merchants, with the sanction of the government, had composite pictures taken showing the big guns and pictures of the devastation they had wrought. These pictures were reproduced on postal cards and sent throughout the country. They made a profound impression on the people, particularly those in the country districts. Those who remained at home were more confident than ever of the ultimate success of the German arms.

Looked For Quick Decision. During the first two months of the great war in Europe it was natural, it was inevitable, that the whole world should watch for and expect battles and campaigns which might be decisive. The reason was simple. The three great conflicts of the nineteenth century which had impressed themselves upon the imagination of mankind had been short and sharp. Napoleon's Waterloo operations lasted barely two weeks. Six weeks measured the extent of the Austro-Prussian war. Forty-four days after the declaration of war in the Franco-Prussian conflict Napoleon III. surrendered and Bismarck was immured in Metz.

At the outset of the present war, too, all the preliminary operations seemed to promise one more swift, sure, fatal drive of the enemy of France. German mobilization was complete by Aug. 14.

On Aug. 20 German armies stood in Brussels, and three days later broke through the first line of French defenses after defeating the allies at Mons and Charleroi. Ten days after the occupation of Brussels, Liege and La Fere the second line of French defense had been pierced and there was no further line of permanent forts between the French capital and a victorious German army.

Now, however, it is becoming more patent that we are no longer to look for a quick decision. Soldiers and warriors are possible before nations are in arms, before millions of men have taken position in numbers fairly equal along lines equally defensible and sustained by resources in men, in money, in supplies wholly unexhausted and, for immediate operations, inexhaustible.

Such a transition, in popular expectation, in the character of military operation, was wholly discernible both in the north and in the south by the close of the second year of the civil war. Confederate generals who had talked glibly of a speedy capture of Washington, Union politicians and soldiers who had chattered about a swift sweep "on to Richmond," had become silent.

Already there were in either army sound thinkers who recognized that neither side could win by any single victory. The collapse of McClellan's campaign on the Peninsula, the bloody defeat of the Second Manassas, had been promptly followed by the solid stand at Antietam. On the defensive both armies had shown that they could not be destroyed.

Becomes Test of Endurance. By 1863 the civil war had resolved itself into a frank test of endurance. The north had control of the sea, the advantage of numbers, of wealth, of industrial resources; the south, the strength that comes from a defensive position, a united and determined population and a military prestige still unshaken.

It was General Grant who first clearly recognized the extent of the task of the Union government before the Confederacy could be crushed. It was he who first and frankly adopted the policy of destruction by "attrition." With his coming the civil war ceased to be a splendid and stirring spectacle, a contest in which chivalry, individual gallantry, even collective military superiority played the decisive or the conspicuous role. It became a business, the brutal, grim business of battering to pieces a brave opponent inferior in numbers and resources.

Now between the situation of Germany today and that of the Confederacy in 1862 and 1863 there are parallels which, if they become misleading when followed too far, are still worthy of note. Outnumbered, the Germans already are even with the weakening aid of Austria. German armies can no longer keep equal strength on all fronts in the face of French, Russian, Belgian, British and Serbian armies already in the field, and the balance is bound steadily to turn against them. Just how far Germany's military efficiency will counterbalance the weight of the allies' numbers remains to be seen.

Again, in resources she is already incomparably weaker than her opponents, for the sea is closed to her as it was to the Confederacy. The industrial life of England will continue, just as that of the north did. In capital both England and France are better off than Germany, whose recent rapid development has been on borrowed wealth in no small measure. Her industrial life is now paralyzed by the blockade of all of her ports, of all of her avenues to the neutral world.

If London and Paris cherished ridiculous notions of speedy victory in the days of Heligoland battles they are now frankly conceding that a long war is certain. Kitchener is preparing not for the first, but the second year.

Are No Forts Impregnable to German Guns?

Photos by American Press Association.

VIEW OF ANTWERP AND GERMAN "CATERPILLAR" SIEGE GUN.

AFTER Paris, Antwerp was said after three days' bombardment, following the swift reduction of Liege, has strengthened the impression that the strongest forts are virtually helpless against the fire of heavy siege guns. Yet in the first practical test they proved inadequate for a prolonged resistance. The capture of Antwerp after the experience of Belgium the question remains to puzzle the layman why such enormous palisade have been taken to build them. Why have both France and Germany placed so great dependence upon them? Pictures of the demolition at Liege and Antwerp bear striking testimony to the power of the new 42 centimeter (16.5 inch) siege gun of the German forces. A single projectile demolished utterly walls of re-enforced cement and steel, ripped open steel towers and piled the mass upon the fort's defenders.

This new siege gun has been the surprise of the war. Only a limited number of high German army officials themselves had so much as heard of it. A member of the reichstag, whose name is not given, is quoted as follows:

"The fact that the German army possessed such a gun was as much a surprise to the Germans as to foreigners, for its construction and nature were kept secret, as the situation demanded, so that even in the empire only a limited number knew about it. When the trials were finished and all was ready to begin the construction of the new gun the problem presented itself of making this wonderful work of war without attracting any attention."

More than fifty officers participated in the preliminary discussion over the preparation of the military budget for the consideration of the budget committee of the reichstag. When the subject of 'arms' was reached the head of this department requested that this part of the budget be not debated at that time. At the close of the session he told me confidentially that a new siege gun was in consideration.

"The request of the general staff for secrecy was observed. Then work began. A number of the guns are already at the front and others are in the arsenals. Six weeks ago, as member of the commission on arms, I was in a gun factory and was informed that any number of tubes and projectiles for the guns can be finished in a very brief time, not to mention the great supply on hand. I asked whether these guns were themselves out quickly and was assured by an expert that there are not enough forts in the world to wear out a single gun."

"The German official report on the capture of Antwerp says: 'The first shot was fired on Sept. 28 at the outer line of forts. On Oct. 1 the first forts were taken by assault. The river Nethe was crossed by the German infantry and artillery on Oct. 6 and 7.'

"On the 7th Antwerp was notified that a bombardment was imminent, and this was begun at 12:30 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 8. Simultaneously an attack was made on the inner forts."

"On Oct. 9 two of the inner forts were taken. At 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 9 the city of Antwerp was occupied by German infantry without resistance on the part of the Belgians, whose conduct was valiant."

INDIAN PRINCES FIGHTING WITH ALLIES

RULERS of the Indian possessions of England have rushed to her aid in the conflict now raging in Europe. Not only have they offered their fearless troops, but they have also agreed to furnish financial aid. At the outbreak of the war this was the message sent by two princes of India, Colonel Maharajah of Bikaner and Major General Sir Pratap Singh.

"What history does our lord the king emperor desire written? Let us know and our blood will write it." These men are regarded as among the greatest rulers of India both in wealth and following. Both have seen considerable army service and are well known in diplomatic and sporting circles in England.

One of the most enlightened of the native Indian princes is Sewai Madho Singh Bahadur, the maharajah of Jaipur. He is a wise and capable administrator of his dominion of some 15,000 square miles and takes a deep interest in all matters affecting the welfare of the British empire. Aside from what he has contributed in this war he has been princely in his benefactions. He subscribed 2,000,000 rupees toward the permanent Indian famine fund. He is patriotic, too, from the British point of view, for he donated 100,000 rupees for the Transvaal war fund. When he visited England for the coronation of King Edward he chartered a whole ship and all eatables and drinking water for the period of his tour were brought from India. He was made an LL. D. of Edinburgh university in 1908.

Scarcely any Indian nobleman or commoner has so effectively won the admiration of Britons and Indians alike as his highness the Maharajah General Sir Pratap Singh.

It is in the personal aspect of his character that Sir Pratap is most familiar to the outside public, and more especially is he renowned as a sportsman. Horsemanship was his passion in boyhood, and it has continued to be his passion ever since. He is nearly seventy years old, having been born in 1846. In his youth he won the Calcutta Derby against some of the best professional jockeys of the day. He made polo the fashion in Rajputana. Sir Pratap was born brave. When barely four years old he gave a remarkable proof of uncommon pluck and daring by boldly seizing a ferocious monkey that had hurt his brothers and carrying on a regular fight with it until he fell exhausted and senseless. At various times he has had accidents at polo, hunting and pigsticking, to say nothing of his wounds received on many a field of battle; but, however severe the pain or suffering caused by such accidents, Sir Pratap has never been known to be deterred from taking part in sports as regularly as ever. In the course of his administration he had several opportunities of showing what iron nerve he possessed. Once he had to suppress a gang of rebel outlaws. Taking a few chosen followers with him, he made a night ride of forty miles and surprised his quarry at early dawn, and in the conflict which ensued between himself and the rebel chieftain his sure and steady aim told completely in his favor. The ambition that he has always cherished is to lead his troops against the enemies of his suzerain and to die fighting.

Lowell Boy Scored Two Touchdowns for Colby Saturday

University of Maine Defeated by Score of 14 to 0

EDDIE CRAWLEY

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 2.—Expecting to meet a one-man team, because of the brilliancy of Capt. Fraser, University of Maine went down to defeat 14 to 0, Saturday before the 11 men in Colby's lineup.

With play after play massed against him, Fraser of Colby added to his previous laurels in withstanding the attacks.

Cawley proved to be a hard-fighting fullback and went across the line for two touchdowns. The first was in the second period. With the ball on Maine's 25-yard line, Fraser threw a forward pass to Cawley, who rushed it behind the line.

In the third period, Colby punted and Dacey recovered the ball. Fraser took it to Maine's five-yard line. Then Lowmyer, who has not appeared previously this season, took the ball within a foot of the goal, from which point Cawley carried the ball over. Fraser kicked both goals.

Maine made her strongest stand in the third period, after Colby's second touch-down. Taking Colby's punt, Bernheim took the ball back to Maine's 22-yard line and forced the Blue back across the field. Ruffner, Kriger and Kirk were the chief performers in this yard line work.

The ball was on Colby's 30-yard line when Fraser threw a forward pass to Cawley, who held the ball up. Just before the game closed, with the teams in the middle of the field.

TEXTILE LOST NATICK HIGH WON

Local Team Beaten by the Cushing Academy Eleven Defeated Lowell High by Score of 6 to 2 in Interesting Game

The Lowell Textile school football team was defeated Saturday afternoon by the Cushing academy eleven at Ashburnham, by the score of 33 to 0. Four of Textile's crack players were absent on account of injuries. The missing men were O'Brien, Coleman, Barnes and Hockmeyer, who are now on the hospital list.

The absence of the aforementioned quartet from the Lowell lineup was very evident during the first period of play, the score at the end of that time being 26 to 0. In the last half the Textile men made some defense and offered a game defense, fighting hard until the final whistle was blown.

The star performer of the day was Lynch, the academy right half back, who continually tore through Lowell's line for long gains. Captain Lano and Sawyer, left guard, played well for Textile, while Godell showed good work at fullback.

The lineup and summary follows:

MATRIMONIAL

James J. Hanson and Miss Esther D. C. Fuller were married Saturday, the ceremony being performed at the parsonage of the Gorham Street P. M. church by the pastor, Rev. N. W. Matthews. The witnesses were Miss Helen Hanson and Carl Johnson and James Rose.

LESSARD-JETTE

At 7 o'clock this morning at a private nuptial mass celebrated in the chapel of St. Joseph's rectory, George Joseph Lessard and Miss Marie Jette were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Julien Racette, O. M. I. The witnesses were Marcel Lessard and Seraphin Jette, fathers of the bridegroom and bride respectively. The bride wore white crepe de chine and she carried a bouquet of roses. At the close of the ceremony the bride party, headed by the bride, proceeded to the home of the bridegroom's parents, 52 Elm street, where a wedding dinner was served. This evening the couple will be tendered a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 429 Moody street. Present at the wedding are relatives from Manchester, N. H. and other cities.

U. S. STEAMER RELEASED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Standard Oil steamer Floridia detained at Stornaway, Scotland, by British authorities, has been released and has proceeded to Copenhagen. The British embassy today notified the state department that this had been done after the Danish government had given assurances that her cargo of illuminating oil would not be re-exported into Germany.

WANT A GAME

The Indian Thirde want a game with any 15 pound football team in the city. Answer through this column.

The Natick high school squad journeyed to Lowell Saturday afternoon and succeeded in defeating the local high eleven by the score of 6 to 2. The battle was staged at Spaulding park and although the weather was ideal for football but few followers of the local eleven turned out to witness the contest.

The playing of Howard, right half-back for the visiting aggregation, was by far the feature of the game. Selton did his best to make a substantial gain when offered the ball, and although the opposing guins of the Lowell boys were centered on him at all times they were unable to check his vicious onslaughts.

Amos, the academy running back, also played well for the visitors. For Lowell, Linton, Roane and Lynch proved to be the most consistent ground gainers. Linton went through the line time and again for long gains, and he seemed to be the only man whose work the Natick boys could not check.

Roane's work at quarterback was exceptionally good, and after Richardson went out of the game in the third period, his long punting took the ball out of dangerous territory many times.

"Roundy" also showed on the tackling and worked hard to win the material in the Lowell maohum wasn't there and consequently his good work went for naught. Lynch at fullback played a hard game, but was unable to penetrate the stonewall defense of the visitors who had their siege guns conveniently placed at every attacking point.

Natick won the game in the second period when Amos sprinted through the mass of Lowell players for a 35-yard run and scored the only touch-down of the game.

Lowell made its score on a blocked kick when the ball was within 12 yards of the Natick goal. The ball was blocked by Lynch and bounded in back of the goal posts for a safety.

Preceding the big game, the Lowell high freshmen and Bartlett grammar school engaged in battle, and the freshmen were victorious by a 19 to 6 score.

INDIANS FIRST AND SECOND WON

The Indians first team of this city defeated the children state team Saturday afternoon by a score of 7 to 0. The Indians were supposed to have met the Port Banks eleven, but as this aggregation was unable to make its appearance, the Dorchester team was secured at the eleventh hour. Fully 500 spectators witnessed the game. Donnellan scored a touchdown and also kicked the goal.

The Indian second team and the Red Sox eleven of Manchester engaged in a battle preceding the big game and the former bunch of athletes succeeded in winning handily. The score was 26 to 0. The Indian second team is one of the classiest aggregations in the state, at their weight and have yet to be scored upon. Toy referred to the "kids" game and Frank "Roundy" Roane officiated in the big contest.

PUT IT OVER KELLY'S HIGH ROLLERS ON ALLEYS SATURDAY NIGHT—OTHER GAMES

The crumbling away of three hundred and six pins by "Charley" Foster was in a large measure responsible for the decisive defeat which Foster's Frisky Five handed to Kelly's High Rollers when the Courier-Citizen employees faced one another at the freighter's alleys Saturday evening. The "309" is a record among the newspaper boxers. It being attained with an 81, 111, 111 delivery. Another feature which drew the largest assortment of onlookers to Frisky Five—High Rollers alleys was the "rainbow swirl," a new curve coming from the hand of the boxer, the Kellys. Clyde Gray was the high roller of the High Rollers, revealing as potent a touch with the pins as he has with the ivories.

W. C. Bailey of Colebrook, N. H. Failed to Return—He is Wanted by His Wife

One of the most peculiar cases of a husband disappearing from home that has been brought to the attention of the local police for some time was made known today when Supt. Welch received a letter from a Mrs. William C. Bailey of Colebrook, N. H., asking him to attempt to learn the whereabouts of her husband, a middle-aged man. The investigation of the police showed that a man by that name passed through this city on the night of Oct. 17, but has not been seen here since.

It will be recalled that early on the evening of October 17, a large touring car, owned by a man who gave his name as William C. Bailey, crashed through the gates of the Wamecet station and barely escaped being struck by a Lowell bound train. At the time of the accident the owner of the machine stated that the fog was so heavy that he could not see his way.

In a Boston paper of the following morning it was published that Bailey had been seriously injured in the collision and had been taken to the hospital. The wife of Mr. Bailey read the article and after failing to locate her husband in any of the local hospitals wrote to Supt. Welch, requesting him to visit the institutions in this vicinity and learn if the man was badly hurt.

The chief looked into the matter this forenoon and ascertained that Bailey was not injured in the accident. Neither was he treated by Dr. Larabee. The doctor said that he never saw the victim of the accident, but learned from the gate-tender that the owner of the machine was not injured, although he had a very narrow escape. One time he was ripped from his seat, but this was immediately repaired and the man continued on his way toward Boston. His car bore a N. H. registration number and he gave his address as Bethlehem, N. H. Since then no trace of him has been found.

In her letter to the local police, Mrs. Bailey said that her husband was accompanied by a chauffeur and Westford died yesterday at the Lowell hospital, after a long illness, at the age of 65 years. Deceased was 45 years of age and was a member of the Methodist church, secretary-treasurer of the Lowell Y. M. C. A., and a member of the Unitarian church. She is survived by a husband, three sons, Marden, a student at Tufts college; Morton and Gordon, and a daughter, Marie, a student at the Boston university; also a mother in Cambridge.

HARRINGTON—The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Harrington took place this morning at 9 o'clock from her home, 491 Gorham street, and was largely attended. High mass of requiem was sung at St. Peter's church at 9:45 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. Among the local tributes were a large pillow embroidered "Husband and Father" from the family, and offerings from Robert Navier, the Clark family, Miss Della Gallagher, Harry Kershaw and Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong. The bearers were four sons and two sons-in-law of the deceased, Messrs. John, Frank, Edward and Bernard Harrington, Edmund Harrington, and Charles Harrington. The funeral was in charge of Undertakers C. H. Molloy & Sons.

THE TOLL OF DEATH GREAT ON BOTH SIDES

Fiercest Fighting of War at Nieuport and Ypres—Renewal of Fighting Between Main Forces of Russia and Austro-German Armies in Poland

BERLIN, Nov. 2.—(Via London).—Official reports from the western front show little change in the situation in northern France and in Belgium, but events in Poland would appear to be shaping themselves for a renewal of the fighting between the main forces of Russia and the Austro-German armies.

In addressing the Bruckenburg regiment in France recently, at a point behind the front, Emperor William closed his speech with these words: "When the war is finished we should see each other again. Under all circumstances the enemy will be beaten."

This information is conveyed in a letter received in Berlin from the front.

Letters from the front reaching Berlin, describing the fighting at Nieuport and Ypres state it is probably the fiercest of the war. The Germans forced their way southward by repeated night attacks. The toll of death was great on both sides.

The fighting in Poland has not recommenced but in Galicia, according to special despatches, events would appear to be approaching a decisive moment. A despatch received here from Cracow says the Russians have been thrown back across the river San and ejected from Leslask, whence the Austrians pursued them for the distance of four miles. An Austrian report declares merely that the Austrian forces in Central Galicia have retained all the captured positions to the north and east of Turka, near Stry-Sambor; to the east of Przemyśl and on the lower San river. They repulsed an attack near Disce. The Russians losing many prisoners. A Russian column composed of infantry, cavalry and artillery has been defeated to the north of Kuty on the frontier of Bukovina and Galicia.

"The exploits of the Turkish fleet which bombarded Odessa and Sebastopol and destroyed two Russian warships, 15 transports and several oil tanks, excited unbounded enthusiasm here. An impartial newspaper of Madrid, reports that there is dangerous unrest in Algeria. The natives have refused to enter the military service and have killed French policemen."

"The Echo d'Algeria, a semi-official newspaper published in Sofia, declares that the relations between Bulgaria and Turkey are in excellent shape. Both countries remember the lessons of 1912-13. The secretary of the king of Bulgaria has gone to Constantinople to confer with leading Turkish statesmen."

"The press declares that the British statement of Oct. 27 saying that the governments of the powers in the triple entente have resolved shortly to effect a settlement of the very strained relations between the Italian states, proves that Turkey is not guilty for the outbreak of hostilities in the near east."

"The German government has organized a civil administration in the French mining districts of Longwy and Briey, where there are coal pits valued at $45,000,000."

"The Dagblad published at Stockholm, Sweden, declares in a despatch from Petrograd that the Russian sanitary service is lacking in hospital requisites, such as bandages for the dressing of wounds. Some of the Russian hospitals look like slaughter houses, this paper says."

"The Bulgarian minister at Rome has declared in an interview that a close understanding exists between Bulgaria and Turkey."

"The University of Bonn has conferred the honorary degree of doctor on Herr Von Grupp and Herr Hagenstein. The latter is president of the Imperial bank and the degree was given him on account of Germany's splendid financial preparations for the war."

"Hostile quarrels have broken out at Danzig between English and French prisoners of war. As a result it became necessary to move the Englishmen, among them Col. Grey, into another camp."

Battles on the Sand Dunes Along Belgian Coast Still Dragging on With Painful Monotony—Allies Reoccupy Lille and are Creeping Nearer Ostend

LONDON, Nov. 2.—War has not been formally declared on Turkey but the withdrawal from Constantinople of the ambassadors of the Triple Entente powers is regarded in London as being equivalent to a signal for hostilities which Turkey has anticipated by a naval raid in the Black sea and by a reported land expedition which is said to have penetrated into Egypt.

Evidence accumulates that Turkey intends to proclaim a holy war. Ample measures, it is certain, have been taken by Great Britain and Russia against this probability and it is evident that the first trouble is expected to arise in Egypt, where, it is said, the khedive intends to ask Great Britain for an explanation of her attitude toward Turkey.

Berlin claims that Turkey was forced to throw in her lot with Germany because the Porte recognized that an entente victory would mean the destruction of the Turkish empire with Constantinople, Armenia and Turkey going to Russia; Arabia to England and Syria to France. On the other hand in the event of the defeat of the Triple Entente nations Turkey was to be guaranteed territorially to be given back in reconquering the Caucasus and Egypt and be given perhaps something more.

The usual charges and denials are being made as to the responsibility for the first attack in the Black Sea but these are issued chiefly for consumption by the neutral countries, since the inevitability of the conflict was recognized by both sides.

The principal actors are not greatly concerned which nation fired the opening shot.

The battles on the sand dunes along the Belgian coast still are dragging on with painful monotony. Advances by either side are only for short distances and are made at fearful cost. Further east the allies claim to have penetrated to the north and to the east of Lille, which is believed to have been reoccupied by the allied troops.

Other reports assert that the allies are daily creeping nearer to Ostend, which even now hardly can be said to be occupied in a military sense but as long as the Germans hold the river the town does not need any considerable force to retain it.

Another unconfirmed special report also states that a large German force was cut off from the main army when a Belgian bicycle corps blew up a bridge and that many thousands of the invaders surrendered.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
The celebrated Fridkowsky troupe of Russian dancers and singers will prove the top line attraction at the B. F. Keith Theatre this week. Coming direct from the Palace theatre, New York, where they have made a tremendous impression, they will appear with all their special surprises and wealth of splendidly embroidered Russian costumes.

Basilev Fridkowsky, the leader of this troupe, comes from one of the aristocratic families of the empire as a boy, he was noted for his wonderful agility. The Russians probably do more dancing than any other people in the world. The troupe has been seen in competition at all the fairs in Little Russia. In all it drew forth victoriously, and then was crowned for the dancing contest at the national fair at Nijni Novgorod. Here were assembled the dancing troupes from Russia and Siberia and in one of the most wonderful contests of the world the Fridkowsky troupe was second, while a Siberian troupe, exclusively of women, was awarded first place. Having the expert recommendation of the most distinguished men in the empire as backer, these two troupes set out on tours of Europe. Last summer, fortunately enough, they concluded these tours and entered negotiations with American managers. The Fridkowsky troupe have traveled exclusively in the east, while the Siberian dancers are in the west.

The exhibition to be given at the Keith Theatre this week will consist of all the points of Russian peasant dancing. In reality it is a system of athletic sports to very rapid music. On and on the dancers go, ever faster and faster, until they are almost in a state of exhaustion at the end of the dance. There is no rest to the whole which makes one of the most picturesque acts imaginable. During the dancing wild, weird music is sung by the women. This act is a novelty, and it will draw much attention.

Andrew Kelley, the man with a bagpipe, is an Irish comedian who just tells stories, but tells them laughably. Kelley does not sing a note, and he dances. He walks on wearing an immaculate frock coat, stops in the center of the stage and begins to reel off his choicest collection of jokes. On and on he never broad, but they hold the very essence of Irishman humor. In conclusion he tells Scotch stories with a pronounced Lowland burr.

"After the Wedding," a charming little comedy by Lawrence Grant, will be brought forward by Edward Parrell & Company. It is a likeable little affair, thoroughly well acted. Port and Truly are a man and a dog, who have a comedy skit of their own, and Tom and Edith Almond are singers, dancers and musicians. Oregon, Spencer, a dainty singing contralto, will give here very latest numbers, and the bill will open with Dorezo & Laude. In a comedy revolving pole act. The Harist Song News Picture, which has a lot of new war views, will close the performance.

Good seats for all performances may be obtained in advance at the box office. Phone 28.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Frances Shannon, Sam A. McHARRY, William B. Freeman, Sadie Galloupe, Eugene Desmond, Joseph Thayer, Frances Agnew, May B. Hurst and all the other members of the Merrimack Square Theatre who will commence a week's engagement of "The Masked Wrestler," one of the best of its kind. In "Captain Alvarez" we see an American soldier of fortune in South America, who goes through a most astounding series of adventures in order to win and wed a beautiful daughter of Argentine Republic. It is sensational, and dramatic, and the story is one that will live long in the memory of those who witness it. "The Masked Wrestler" will bring another all-star bill, with Frances X. Bushman in "The Special Officer," another two part of "The Masked Wrestler," the Swamp Fox," a specially added attraction, besides a big program of new dramas and comedies.

THE OWL THEATRE
In presenting Maclay Arbuckle in "The County Chairman," Henry W. Savage offers one of America's most famous comedy dramas of love and politics. The sensational run of this play in New York, Chicago and the bigger centres still remains fresh in the memory of all theatregoers, and in the memory of the famous story is told, as the oral stage does not offer the same opportunity that the great outdoor and indoor material used by photographers. The play is a blending of quaint characterizations and wholesome romance. It deals with the political campaign for office of prosecuting attorney, with a tender love story running through the structural web. All the action occurs in the fictitious town of Antioch, but the principle of the drama applies equally to Chicago or New York for one town of politics, like that of nature, makes the whole world kin. The original cast in part has been retained for this production. Five Mutual movies will be shown in the afternoon.

W. P. Swann, whose good work was so highly commented upon in the stage production, will be seen in his role of Sam Hinton, which he renders in an inimitable way. Sincerity of purpose marks the whole production, and you will surely approve of this high class offering. As usual, besides the feature, five Mutual movies will complete an elaborate program. "A Blotted Page" is a good two-act drama of society and business. "A Tude Awakening," a drama, "A Mother's Influence," a drama, and "Gentleman of Nerve," a funnyphone tickler comedy, will complete the entire performance. Wonderful prices.

plete the entire performance. Wonderful prices.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

"Francis X. Bushman week"—is an apt name for the week of Nov. 1st, at the Royal theatre. Two great features—war dramas—have been secured besides a Francis X. Bushman feature on each new change of program. Today and tomorrow, "Victory of War," a spectacular and up-to-the-minute military drama in four parts, is the extra attraction. There is not a dull moment throughout the entire production, and every detail is closely attended to. The plot is most sensational, while heart interest is also sustained. Francis X. Bushman will be starred in "A Splendid Dishonor," a two act drama, that will appeal to all lovers of clean acting and clever photo-play writing. Wednesday and Thursday, "Captain Alvarez," a most sensational war drama in six parts by the Vilagard company, will be presented, besides the Francis X. Bushman feature, which will introduce him in "The Masked Wrestler," one of the best of its kind. In "Captain Alvarez" we see an American soldier of fortune in South America, who goes through a most astounding series of adventures in order to win and wed a beautiful daughter of Argentine Republic. It is sensational, and dramatic, and the story is one that will live long in the memory of those who witness it. "The Masked Wrestler" will bring another all-star bill, with Frances X. Bushman in "The Special Officer," another two part of "The Masked Wrestler," the Swamp Fox," a specially added attraction, besides a big program of new dramas and comedies.

WOMAN WAS MURDERED
ANDOVER, Nov. 2.—After performing an autopsy today on the body of the woman found in the Indian hedge yesterday afternoon, Medical Examiner George W. Dow of Lawrence announced that death had been caused by a fractured skull, the result of a blow by some blunt instrument, presumably a stone.

The police as yet have no clue to the murder. State Officer Fred F. Ryan began work on the case today. The body has not yet been positively identified but the police are of the opinion that it is that of Mrs. Kateam Tanous, a Syrian peddler, who has been missing from home in Lawrence since October 10.

The body was identified this noon by a brother as that of Mrs. Kateam Tanous. The police are inclined to the belief that robbery was the motive for the crime.

TRAFFIC RULES CRITICIZED

The secretary of the board of trade, John H. Murphy, has received many complaints by telephone against the proposed traffic rules, which were prepared by the board and which are now in the hands of the municipal council. It seems that a number of business men object to certain parts of the rules, especially those dealing with Merrimack square. However, it is believed the council will hold a hearing before adopting the rules and all will be given an opportunity to file their objections with the proper authorities.

PATTERSON RUBBER CO.

Factory Is Now Running Full Force Despite Slog—No Change to be Expected

Although the Patterson Rubber Co. was sold at auction last Saturday, it is not believed any change will be effected in the running of the plant. The shop is running full blast today and indications point to the continuing of business.

APPOINTED BY PRES. WILSON

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—George W. Anderson, a former member of the public service commission, assumed his new position as United States district attorney today. He succeeded Asa P. French, who had held the office for eight years. Mr. Anderson was appointed in October by President Wilson.

THE Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE

Miss Mary McCabe, of the Hamilton Manufacturing company, it is understood will enter the millinery business in the near future.

Miss Julian Guiney of the Stirling mills has returned after spending the last three months with relatives in Los Angeles, California.

Mr. Michael O'Shea of the Mass. mills will organize a federal bowling team at the plant and will try to arrange games with the leading teams in the city.

Arthur Flanders of the United States Cartridge company journeyed to Dunstable Saturday on a hunting expedition and managed to secure a pheasant and a partridge.

Mr. Morton Walker, head window trimmer at the J. L. Chalfoux store, is being congratulated on his successful managing of the Halloween party held last Friday evening.

The Leather Workers' union will hold a smoke talk in Trades & Labor hall in Middle street tonight. Prominent speakers have been secured and will address the gathering.

The Loomfixers' union will meet in Carpenters' hall in the Rutels building. Business of much importance will come up for transaction and all members are earnestly requested to attend.

John Shields, employed at the Hamilton Manufacturing company, who took the government examinations recently, stands well up on the list issued by Postmaster Crowley last Saturday.

Philippe O. Bergeron, a former member of the A. G. Pollard Employees Mutual Benefit Assn. and a graduate of the Life Conservatory of Music, will be a guest of honor at the banquet and theatre party to be held Thursday evening.

A meeting of the A. G. Pollard Employees Mutual Benefit association will be held in the shoe department Tuesday at 6 p. m. Election of officers will take place at the meeting and the annual business will come up for transaction. The annual banquet and theatre party will be held on Thursday evening and indications point to its being a grand success. J. Paul Doherty is secretary of the committee on arrangements.

Men Who Hold Responsible Positions
James Lawlor has been appointed superintendent of dyeing and finishing at the Arlington mills, Lawrence. He has been connected with the Stirling mills, Lowell, and the Assabet mills of the American Woolen company in Maynard.

Thomas J. Hannigan has been selected by the New Bedford branch of the National Association of Engineers as its representative at the annual convention to be held in Milwaukee, Wis., the week commencing Sept. 12. Mr. Hannigan is the master mechanic of the Soule mill.

M. G. Morrill, formerly of Kankakee, Ill., is now superintendent of the Fort Dunham mills, Brattleboro, Vt., having succeeded William Worsnop in that capacity.

D. D. Royce is no longer connected with the Great Falls Woolen Co., Somersworth, N. H., as superintendent, as he has severed his connection with the concern.

C. E. Riley of Boston, prominent in mill machinery and cotton mills circles, has gone abroad and will be away several months.

A. J. Cooper, the president of the Cooper Manufacturing Co., knit goods, Bennington, Vt., has consented to have his name mentioned as progressive candidate for governor of Vermont. He was urged to make the fight by progressives from all over the state.

John Stewart of Waterville, Me., has taken up his duties as foreman of the Berkeley mills on July 13. Mr. Stewart succeeds John F. Gray, who was recently advanced to the position of superintendent of the company.

Frank H. Appel has assumed his duties as superintendent of the Warrenton Woolen Co., Torrington, Conn., to which he was lately appointed.

David Bingham has been promoted from second hand of the quilling room at the Arlington mills, Lawrence, to the superintendency of the same department. He succeeds to the position left vacant by the resignation of James Connolly.

Young Corporal Had Remarkable Escape—Thrilling Tales Told of English and Belgians

LONDON, Oct. 22, by mail.—Many narrow escapes and deeds of wonderful bravery have been made by the injured British and Belgian soldiers now recovering in English hospitals.

A young lance corporal of the King's Royal Rifles, who is recovering from a bullet wound in his knee owes his life to a crucifix which he picked up in an empty house where he was billeted. A strange impulse compelled him to pick up the crucifix and put it in his haversack.

During an engagement a few days later many of the corporal's comrades were killed by bullets which were almost spent. The young corporal was hit in the knee and later found when taken to a hospital that one of the spent bullets had also passed completely through his knapsack, but had been deflected from his body by the crucifix, which he carried in his haversack.

Private W. Hinton of the First East Lancashire Regiment, who was the luckiest man in the army, he was hit by three bullets within a minute without serious injury. One bullet flattened five rounds of ammunition in his belt. Another smashed the magazine of his rifle and a third passed through his cap.

A letter from one of the royal engineers describes the remarkable pluck of Lieutenant R. Pottinger of Tadmort, Pottlanger and his section were attempting to blow up a bridge under fire. They laid the charge and the section retired. Lieutenant Pottinger and a sapper remained behind to light the fuse. The charge did not explode. The sapper then fired 10 rounds of ammunition at the charge without success.

Pottinger then said: "I'll make the thing go off." He shook hands with the sapper and walked to the bridge. There he put the muzzle of his revolver into the charge and fired six cartridges. Even then the charge did not go off and the men had to flee, leaving the bridge intact. If the charge had gone off the young Lieutenant would have disappeared completely, but the approaching Germans would have been robbed of an easy entry into the allies' territory.

One of the officers on the ill-fated Grosby which was sunk by the German submarines was severely injured on the head, had both his legs broken and his feet crushed as he was thrown into the air by the explosion. His body was sucked under the water by the sinking cruiser, but he was picked up by one of the rescue ships.

Twenty-four hours afterward the injured officer regained consciousness and his first words were: "Are you down there?"

A sergeant of the line was made adjutant for his coolness and bravery in one of the engagements in Lorraine. With three men the sergeant went across an open field to attract the fire of the Germans so the colonel could tell where the enemy's trenches were and what their probable attack was. A hail of bullets was directed at the four men. They made their way to a small farmhouse where they climbed up on the roof and from the shelter of a chimney began firing at the Germans. All were the independence of the four soldiers the Germans directed one of their batteries on the house and razed it.

"My smartest patrol leader is gone," the colonel remarked, as he saw the building crumble. The three privates were no more, but the little sergeant was still there, standing across the field toward his command. When the sergeant arrived breathless at headquarters the colonel asked with mock severity why he did not stay to continue the fight.

"Sorry sir, but the pigs knocked my house down," was the reply.

EDMOND COSTELLO DEAD

POPULAR RESIDENT OF NORTH BILLERICA PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY

The many Lowell friends of Edmond Costello will regret to hear of his death which occurred yesterday at his home, 40 Talbot street, North Billerica. He had sustained a shock several years ago, but enjoyed fairly good health until the past week when he had another attack which proved fatal.

Mr. Costello was a most estimable character whose good nature, kindness and charity had endeared him to all who knew him. He was for a great many years a member of Court Merrimack, F. of A., and of the Matthew Temperance Institute of North Billerica. For many years he had been treasurer of the United Irish League in Lowell and devoted much of his time for years to the cause, always honest, faithful and devoted to the work. When the home rule bill was passed, he expressed his great satisfaction, as if it were a matter personal to himself. He leaves two sons, Edward H. and William Costello; four daughters, Bridget, Mrs. John H. Mahoney, Mrs. Joseph Gannon and Mrs. John R. Walsh; two brothers, John of Natick and Thomas in Ireland; also one sister, Mrs. Bridget Black of Ireland.

POSTOFFICE EMPLOYEES

CARRIERS AND CLERKS HELD EX-JOBABLE SOURCE SATURDAY EVENING

The letter carriers and clerks thoroughly enjoyed themselves at their "good old fashioned source," at Old Fellows building on Middlesex street, Saturday evening. Having had many good times in the past, this affair proved to be the best ever, almost every carrier and clerk being present.

The party was held in the large assembly hall, where Pres. Geo. L. Hunt, who was chairman of the entertainment committee, showed good judgment in selecting the talent for the evening's festivities. The first number on the program was an overture by the Letter Carriers' orchestra, composed of John, Dillon, Thomas Coulter, Amedee LeBrun and Geo. Smith, who have been under the guidance of Prof. R. L. Meier of Boston. All being first class musicians, they gave many up-to-date selections. The other numbers were: Solo, "Let Bygones be Bygones," John P. Roane; comic recitations, Andrew Rourke; violin selections, Prof. Ed. Brown; solo, "Faint of Dreams," Wm. Baxter; solo, Harry Lauder's "Wee Wee Wee Au Doria," Austin Carey; solo, selection from "Carmen," David P. Martin; solo, "The Old Oak Tree," Fred Campbell; solo, "Maidland, Dave Mahoney; solo, "Long Way to Tipperary," James E. Donnell.

The hit of the evening was a duet entitled "Cut Off," by Fred Campbell and David A. Mahoney. Edward Costello, of Lawrence, vice president of the Postal Clerks' association, spoke on the plan of retirement.

Postmaster Robert J. Crowley was called upon for a speech. Although only in office a short time he has shown by his remarks that he is as well informed on postal affairs, as if he were in office for twenty years. He thanked the carriers and clerks for inviting him to be present and also thanked them for performing their duties in the best possible manner, stating that his "boys" stand second to none in New England. He asked that courtesy and kindness be extended to every patron on their routes. He said he was pleased to see the feeling of good fellowship existing among the carriers and clerks and hoped it would continue so. He also asked them to co-operate with him in improving the service. At the close of his remarks the applause testified to the appreciation of his sentiments.

Chas. Holden and Wm. Whiston gave an exhibition in latest up-to-date dancing.

The accompanist for the evening was Geo. Smith.

MARCHAND A Winner

Republican Candidate for Senator 8th Middlesex District

He is a native of Lowell and a product of her public schools; has served with distinction in the Lowell City Council and the Massachusetts Legislature.

WHAT HE HAS DONE

As a representative, Mr. Marchand voted for:
The eight hour bill for cities and towns.
The nine in 11 hours bill for street railway employees.
The 64 hour bill for mill employees.
The workmen's compensation bill.
He introduced the horse drawn vehicle light bill and carried it through, and the bill for a naturalization court for Lowell.
He assisted materially in the passage of the corporation tax bill, thereby bringing thousands of dollars to Lowell.

WHAT HE WILL DO

IF ELECTED TO THE SENATE, MR. MARCHAND WILL

Introduce a bill to REPAIR THE LOWELL END OF FIRST STREET, which requires legislative action.
Introduce an AMENDMENT TO THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT, providing the wages of the injured to go on from the date of the injury instead of two weeks later, as at present.
Introduce a bill providing that a portion of the automobile tax now going to the highway commission in its entirety, BE DIVIDED AMONG THE CITIES AND TOWNS.

Mr. Marchand after serving two terms in the legislature gracefully stood aside to permit others to have the honor and if elected senator will not attempt to make the position a life-job.

Which Ticket Should You Vote Next Tuesday, and Why?

BY GOVERNOR DAVID I. WALSH

I have been asked to give the reasons why I should be elected governor of Massachusetts and why the democratic candidates should be elected.

The record made by the democratic administration under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson in Washington and the record made by the democratic administration in this Commonwealth furnish the basis for our claim of popular support upon Tuesday next.

The accomplishments of the administration of President Wilson and of my own administration, which hereafter I shall enumerate in part, are entitled to the support of the electorate of Massachusetts because what we have done has not been merely the work of public officials but the records which we have made should be accredited to our political party, for after all is said and done we have only sought to make the principles and policies of the democratic party effective in the national and state government. We have both been the instruments of these policies which have tended to make a government of the people consistent with the fundamental principles in which the democratic party believes. Therefore, all democratic candidates in this election are entitled to the benefits of this record.

Personally I am content to be judged upon my work and I welcome a verdict of the people based upon a consideration of my public service. In the contest which is now practically ended, the democratic party has been showing specific things accomplished, while our opponents have only vaguely criticized and denounced what they know have been effective reforms.

The promises I made to the people of Massachusetts as a candidate for governor I have kept. I have sought to do what in my judgment was fair and honorable and just to every citizen, high or low.

While always willing to listen to the opinion and judgment of others who differed with me on political policies and principles, I have kept faith with the political principles I espoused when a candidate for public office. In my mind has been the thought, in my heart the purpose, and in my action the strength to make it plain to every citizen that I was governor in fact, as well as in name, and responsible to no one but all the people under my oath of office.

Over 200 appointments have been made by me, and not even my bitterest opponent has accused me of naming any man unworthy or unfit for the public service. In my messages to the legislature, I made over 50 specific recommendations; I signed 755 acts and 160 resolves, and vetoed 14 bills, all of which vetoes the legislature sustained. No man in Massachusetts, not even my most active opponent, has criticized my judgment in these matters except in a few trivial instances.

My administration has kept the state with an unusually large number of difficult and trying problems, particularly the intricate and complicated railroad question, and the unexpected situation that developed at the time of the conflagration at Salem, in providing relief and funds for the people of that city. My efforts in these two matters have not been criticized in any particular during this campaign, and it is to be especially noted that there has not been even the slightest hint of dissatisfaction at my handling of the railroad problem with its many ramifications.

My administration reorganized more departments of the state government than any other in many years, viz. the state board of health, the state board of insanity, the commission on economy and efficiency and the directors of the port of Boston.

My administration has insisted and demanded that indifference and inefficiency in the public service be ended and that all well-paid public servants be obliged to give their undivided time and attention to their duties, thus taking the first step in the system which has grown up in too many instances in Massachusetts of high-salaried officials making the public business secondary to their own private affairs.

My administration has established for the first time in Massachusetts the policy of giving to the minority in this state a representative in the executive branches of the government. I have stood for the principle that because the chief executive of the Commonwealth happened to be of one political party this did not justify him in making appointments to the public service to deny representation to the minority parties.

My administration has made the workmen's compensation act, in fact as well as in purpose, a law that fairly and justly compensates injured employees rather than a law pretending to provide insurance against accidents to injured employees, but in reality giving greater benefits to the insurance companies.

My administration has taken the first steps necessary to remove the inequalities and injustices existing under the present taxation system in Massachusetts.

My administration has made more useful and effective the service of the one board in the state which more than any other agency can lessen the burden of taxation and promote efficient government, viz. the commission on economy and efficiency. In order that the recommendations of this board should be free from partisanship and that their suggestions to the legislature should have force in insisting on efficient management of our state departments and reducing to a minimum extravagance and waste in the distribution of public funds, I have made that board non-partisan by naming one representative of each of the three leading parties to perform these duties. Herein, to my mind, lies the potency of such a board.

My administration has promoted and encouraged the conservation of our natural resources by providing for state-owned forests and by establishing a fire hazard commission to reduce the tremendous loss of life and property caused by careless and accidental fires.

My administration has given the people more effective and more extensive powers in the regulating of public service corporations; cooperated with the efforts to amend the constitution to enable the government to help people of small means to acquire their homes; accomplished means for providing for rural credits and making the lending of money on farm property on more liberal terms.

My administration has kept the state tax below the estimate made by the retiring republican state auditor and has pointed the way to several means of increasing the revenues of the state in the future.

My administration has given to the people the right to determine in what manner their primary elections shall be conducted, restoring to them the opportunity to demand a secret ballot if they desire it.

In a word—for space will not permit the enumerating of many other accomplishments which have been presented on the public platform during this campaign—my administration has been concerned about promoting an efficient, economic government for the business problems of the state, and special consideration has been given to those problems, the correct solution of which would contribute in a most direct way to the happiness and prosperity of all our people.

MALCOLM J. LOGAN,
Broadway, Boston, Mass.

The Truth

J. JOSEPH O'CONNOR, Candidate for Congress

I am making this fight against great corporations, powerful moneyed interests and special privileges—ALONE.

I have sought neither factions nor leaders—but have tried to present to the great rank and file the ISSUES of this campaign fairly and squarely.

NO EVASION on the issue of the Currency Measure has marked my campaign.

NO DECEIT on my stand for uplifting the conditions of the wage-earner.

NO REFUSAL to meet the issue of nation-wide prohibition face to face, and

NO FEAR to openly and unalterably subscribe to the administration of President Wilson.

If you believe that I have honestly met every important issue of this fight and that the doctrine I preach, "EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY" is vital to the interest of the country, then I ask you to stand by President Wilson and endorse my candidacy

COUNCILOR HOGAN

FOR RE-ELECTION

Lowell should stand by a Lowell man.

Lowell needs a representative in the governor's council.

Lowell believes in a second term for a distinguished Lowell citizen.

If you have any political pride in your own city, my voter, you will help double the vote which was given Hon. John J. Hogan last year.

IT DEPENDS UPON YOU, WHAT DO YOU SAY?

There is every good reason for giving Hon. John J. Hogan a second term in the governor's council.

A lawyer—of large experience.

A leader—of strong personality.

A man—of broad views.

Mr. Hogan was born in Lowell, served his native city in many official capacities, and has made good as councillor during the present year.

LOSS OF LIFE HAS BEEN TREMENDOUS

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Although four days have passed since Turkish warships ran amuck in the Black sea, neither Russia nor Great Britain had, up to noon today, so far as was known in London, opened the offensive or even informally declared war. The British press as a whole treats the situation as having reached a stage permitting no about-face by the government of the sultan. Thus, while the struggle in France and Belgium, remains undecided, Germany and Austria have at last acquired their first and only ally barring the rebellion of the Boers in South Africa and the area of the fighting in the great war, after many days of hostilities, has spread over the borders of Asia into Egypt.

Along the battle line in the western arena, from the Swiss frontier to the Belgian coast, there has been no decisively important change in territory for the past fortnight, although there has been a slow advance of the extreme allied left through the sand dunes and across the canals of West Flanders.

All reports seem to agree that the tide of battle in this section is flowing against the Germans but it is felt in London that it will take some time yet to decide whether they must abandon their attempt to reach Calais, to accomplish which they already paid so dearly. The retreat so often predicted and even anticipated by the newspapers of the allied countries had not set in today, although the allies were reported as within a short walk of Ostend, the taking of which as the first city on the sea was hailed in Berlin only a few days ago as a stroke of the first strategic importance.

The fighting in the vicinity of Ostend on the south side apparently waged throughout Sunday. St. Louis was disturbed all day by the thunder of guns while from the battle front German wounded moved back in the direction of Bruges. The fact that the allies apparently have been gaining consistently so near the coast line indicates to British observers how valuable have been the services of the warships which hold their positions in spite of the presence of German submarines.

Assuming that Turkey's casting in of her lot with Germany is an accomplished fact, the British press admits that the dangers Gaoben and Breslau are a serious menace, as Russia has nothing to compare with them in speed and equipment. As to the Turkish army, however formidable it is in size, the opinion is expressed here that it will not be an efficient fighting machine under modern conditions which require the latest types of arms.

Turkey, it is argued in London, will endeavor to accomplish three things: First the invasion of Egypt; second, the blockading of the Suez canal; and third, the stirring up of a holy war among the seventy million Mohammedans in India as well as among these religiousists in Egypt. It is this last contingency that Great Britain regards with the most concern.

The week is likely to see the crystallization of sentiment in Italy and the Balkan states in one way or another as regards Turkey's advance into the conflict. Italy, according to the British point of view is at the cross-roads now and is hesitating. None of the Balkan states has as yet taken any step.

German papers announce officially that all the coast of Asiatic Turkey has been blockaded by mines, thus spreading to the east the danger which is confronting shipping in the west.

London is awaiting with interest the outcome of the courtmartial of the alleged German spy, Karl Hans Lody, which was resumed this afternoon.

PRINCIPAL FEATURES OF TODAY'S WAR NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

The renewed assaults of the Germans on the allies line which have led in the last few days to the most violent fighting of the war are still progressing with fury almost unparalleled but there have been no changes of importance at any point along the 400 mile line of battle. Official reports today from Berlin and Paris agree that the deadlock still prevails. Here and there minor advantages have been won but in the main the positions are being held on both sides with great tenacity notwithstanding the bitterness of the fighting and the enormous sacrifices of life. The confidence of Germany as to the ultimate result is reflected in the words of Emperor William.

"Under all circumstances the enemy will be beaten," he said, in addressing one of his regiments.

Allies Make Progress
Berlin states officially that the situation is regarded as the most favorable.

Third Edition INDICTMENTS AGAINST 20 NEW HAVEN MEN

Criminal Indictments Returned
Against 21 Past and Present Directors Including Rockefeller and Late J. P. Morgan

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Twenty directors or former directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, among them some of the foremost financiers, railroad builders and promoters of industrial enterprises in the United States, were indicted by the federal grand jury here today, charged with criminal violation of the Sherman law.

They include William Rockefeller, the Standard Oil millionaire; George F. Baker, rated in recent years next to the late J. P. Morgan as the leading financial power of Wall street; Theodore N. Vall, the head of the American Telegraph & Telephone Co.; Lewis Cass Ledyard, one of the country's best known attorneys, and T. De Witt Cuyler, prominent as financier and railroad director.

The late J. P. Morgan himself, financial sponsor for the New Haven road, and for many other great enterprises, is named in the indictment as a conspirator, as well as more than a score of other men whose names are familiar in finance.

Never in the history of the United States have so many men of equal prominence faced the possibility of imprisonment. If convicted, they may be sent to jail for one year, though the law provides a $5000 fine as alternative.

Both penalties may be inflicted in the discretion of the court. The 20 directors and Edward D. Robbins, former general counsel for the New Haven who was also indicted, are accused of

MAN WAS KILLED

Jos. Goulet Fell From Wagon and Was Run Over

Joseph Goulet, aged 55 years, and residing on the Dunstable road in North Chelmsford was killed in an accident which occurred a short distance from his home this afternoon.

As far as could be learned Mr. Goulet was driving a wagon, loaded with stones, when he fell off the seat to the ground, the wheels of the wagon crushing his chest. The man was removed in haste to St. John's hospital, where he died shortly after his arrival.

MARTIAL LAW

Is Proclaimed Throughout Egypt by Great Britain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Martial law was proclaimed today by Great Britain throughout Egypt. An official notification by the British charge d'affaires at Cairo was delivered to American diplomatic agents there. On orders from London, the commander-in-chief of the British forces took command of the general situation with orders to suppress all outbreaks.

SWALLOWED GASOLINE
Two-year-old Frances Haywood, who resides with her parents at the Puritan house, corner of Moody and Prince streets, is at the Lowell hospital suffering from the effects of a dose of gasoline which she swallowed this afternoon. The child was playing about the house when she came across a bottle of gasoline used for cleaning purposes, and before the receptacle could be taken from her she had drunk a mouthful. The ambulance removed her to the hospital, where it was reported she would probably recover.

ALFRED BOOTH DEAD
LONDON, Nov. 2.—The death was announced today in London of Alfred Booth, head of the "Booth" line of steamships.

SMALL GRASS FIRE
At 1:45 o'clock this afternoon a portion of the fire department was called to a field in the rear of O'Hearn's barn where a grass fire was in progress. The damage was slight.

ALL SAINTS DAY

Observed in All Catholic Churches Yesterday—Vespers for the Dead

Yesterday being the feast of All Saints, the services at all the Catholic churches of the city were especially elaborate. The day has always been considered a day of unusual devotion, having been set apart not only to honor all of the saints whose names are on the calendar of the church, but the remembered legions of the faithful who, unknown and unrecorded, lived lives of virtue and reaped their reward in eternal happiness. Today is the feast of All Souls. In accordance with the ancient observance, masses for the souls in purgatory were celebrated in all the churches early this morning and wax candles were blessed for use in Catholic homes at times of calamity and death.

St. Patrick's
The high mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday was very largely attended. Rev. Timothy P. Callahan was the celebrant, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Joseph A. Curran.

BETTER BABIES

The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast and taken form both of American mothers. How many mothers how much the health of the mother influences the health of the child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.

AGED TAX COLLECTOR

Restored To Health By Vinol

Lowell, Mass.—I am a city tax collector and seventy-four years of age. I was in a weak, run-down condition. My druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and in a week noticed considerable improvement. I continued its use and now I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and feel much stronger. I consider Vinol a fine tonic to create strength for old people.—J. A. PRICE.

We guarantee Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, for all run-down, weak and debilitated conditions.

tin who spoke on the feast of All Saints. Fr. Curran related many incidents from the lives of the saints and told of the great good to be derived from reading their lives and following their example. He reminded the congregation that the saints honored by the church were human beings with all the temptations and frailties of human nature and he urged the faithful to emulate their example, saying that what was possible to them is possible to all Christians. He explained why the Catholic church is so devoted to its saints, giving a brief sketch of the veneration of the saints, departed from earliest times, and urged on all a special devotion to the saints as one of the greatest aids to virtue.

Last evening at 7 p. m. vespers for the dead were sung by Rev. Fr. Callahan. The choir, under the direction of Organist Michael J. Johnson, sang the responses and also rendered appropriate hymns. The masses this morning were at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock.

Immaculate Conception
Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., sang the high mass yesterday at the church of the Immaculate Conception and the sermon was preached by Rev. Francis J. Mullin, O. M. I., who spoke on the lives of the saints and of the value of devotion to them as an aid to salvation. As an illustration of the virtues of a Christian life he mentioned saints of every age and degree, referring in particular to the great penitents who rose from sin to the heights of sanctity.

Vesper services were held at 6:30, followed by special vespers for the dead. Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., officiated and the evening sermon on the dead was preached by Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe. Masses this morning were celebrated at 5:30, 6:30 and 8 o'clock.

St. Michael's
The parish mass at St. Michael's yesterday was celebrated by Rev. Dennis P. Murphy, and the sermon on the saints was preached by Rev. Francis J. Mullin. Vespers for the dead were sung yesterday afternoon at 6 p. m. by Rev. Murphy officiating. The choir sang the responses and appropriate hymns. High mass was celebrated this morning for the souls in purgatory.

St. Patrick's Academy Alumni
The committee having in charge the arrangements for the forthcoming reunion and dinner of St. Patrick's Academy alumni met yesterday morning at the school and discussed with much enthusiasm the plans for the event, now a notable feature of the life and activities of the school. Dr. Richard J. McCarthy, chairman, presided, and Edward J. Flannery acted as secretary. Dr. McCarthy emphasized the need of cooperation of the alumni with the committee members, saying that this is all that is needed to make the affair an unprecedented success. Sub-committees were appointed and Dr. McCarthy mentioned his intention of securing some of the most noted speakers in the state for the evening.

St. Peter's
Rev. W. George Mullin celebrated the high mass at St. Peter's yesterday and Rev. Dr. Mullin gave the sermon, briefly referring to the significance of All Saints' day and All Souls' day and exhorting the congregation to pray for the intercession of the saints before the throne of God. This morning a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in observance of All Souls' day. There was a large attendance.

Sacred Heart
The high mass at the church of the Sacred Heart yesterday was celebrated by Rev. James T. McDermod, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., preached the sermon on the feast day. The members of the Holy Rosary society attended communion in a body at the 7:30 o'clock mass. The celebrant of the mass was Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I.

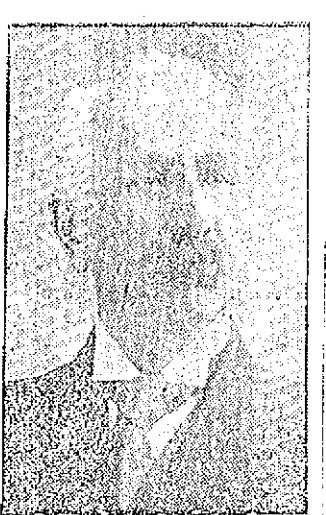

St. Mary's, Collinsville
Besides the special devotions usual today, St. Mary's, Collinsville, yesterday celebrated the feast of All Saints at the establishment of the parish. A high mass of thanksgiving was sung by the pastor, Rev. Thomas A. Walsh, who also preached a sermon reviewing the many important activities that have come into being during the last five years. Since coming to Collinsville St. Mary's has done wonders in furthering the cause of the church and St. Mary's has good cause to congratulate itself on its fifth anniversary.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

Delegates From Union St. J. Bte. Met in Lowell Yesterday

The quarterly meeting of District Council No. 4, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amrique, took place in this city yesterday and a feature of the meeting was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The delegates numbering about 25 and coming from various cities of the state arrived in Lowell in the forenoon and attended the 11 o'clock mass at St. Louis church and in the afternoon held a business meeting.

The mass was celebrated by Rev.

MR. PIERRE BROUSSEAU

L. C. Belard and the delegates were welcomed by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Labossiere, who is chaplain of the council. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Mathieu, a Franciscan monk who is visiting the members of the Third Order of St. Francis in this city.

At the close of the mass the delegates enjoyed dinner and at 2 o'clock they gathered at the Contraville Social club rooms in West Sixth street, where a business meeting was held. Joseph P. Montminy of this city, substitute to the president general, opened the meeting. A list of business was transacted and the election of officers took place with the following result: Serle Dienne, Lynn, president; Andre Brochu, Amherst, first vice-president; Joseph Lussier, Lowell, second vice-president; Amodeo Cote, Salem, secretary-treasurer; Alexandre Quinn, Lawrence, master of ceremonies; Pierre A. Brousseau, Lowell, dean; J. L. Daoust, Haverhill, honorary president; Rev. J. E. Labossiere, Lowell, chaplain.

Among the delegates present were the following: Mathias Caron, Mrs. Georgiana Dube, Henri Coutemarche, Henri Ragot, Emile Baril and Alexandre Quinn, Lawrence; J. L. Daoust, Haverhill; Amodeo Cote, Joseph Raymond, Honore Chouinard and Edmund P. Madore, Salem; William Surprenant, G. Blouin and Andre Frensch, Amherst; Louis J. Plante, Newburyport; S. Dienne and Napoleon Bergeron, Lynn; Joseph Lussier, Miss A. Carufel, Joseph Blouin, Adolphe Ronchard, P. A. Brousseau, Joseph Carrier and Ernest Brousseau, Lowell.

CANDIDATE AT AGE OF 74

GOVERNOR BALDWIN OF CONNECTICUT WANTS TO BE UNITED STATES SENATOR

Gov. SIMEON E. BALDWIN

Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut is really one of the wonderful men of the country's political personalities. At the age of 74 he is seeking election as United States senator from his state. If he wins on Nov. 3 he will be 75 years old when he takes his seat in the senate next spring. His achievement in twice leading a democratic ticket to victory in a strong republican state makes it more than possible that he may defeat Senator Frank R. Brandegee, republican, who seeks another term. Gov. Baldwin has been chief justice of the Connecticut supreme court of errors and president of the American Bar association.

INJURIES FATAL

Clarence Lesuer Dies as Result of Accident at Mann School

Clarence E. Lesuer, who was injured by an explosion in the basement of the Mann school in Broadway, on Friday afternoon, Oct. 23, died yesterday morning at the Lowell hospital. Mr. Lesuer lost his right hand in the explosion and he was badly burned about the head, face and body. Hopes for his recovery, however, were entertained until Friday when delirium set in and on Saturday the doctors said recovery was impossible. He was teacher of automobile repairing in the vocational school and it was while repairing an automobile that the fatal accident occurred. He was very popular among his associates and the boys whom he taught. He was always genial, kind and accommodating. Mr. Lesuer was born in this city and was the only son of Joseph E. and Lila B. Lesuer. He was educated in the public schools and was graduated from the Lincoln grammar and the high school. He also attended Worcester Polytechnic Institute, where he studied mechanical and electrical engineering.

GREEK DRAMA PRESENTED
Fine Entertainment at Playhouse By Local Greek Talent Assisted By Operatic Singers
The Playhouse was last night the scene of a very large gathering, the occasion being an entertainment under the auspices of the Greek community of this city for the benefit of their parochial school which is now in progress of construction. The program was a real treat for it consisted of operatic numbers by members of the Lombard Opera Co. of Boston and a five-act drama by local Greek talent.
The entire program was as follows:
"Air de Fleur" from "Cavalleria Rusticana," A. Symacopoulos, the famous Greek tenor; selection from "Il Trovatore," Miss Elsa de Marki; "Love and Music" from "Pascia," Miss Eugenie Manetti; "Musetta" from "Boheme," Miss Bessie Morton; "Miserere," Miss de Marki, Mr. Symacopoulos. The closing number of the first part was the song "I Believed," by Mr. Symacopoulos.
Several numbers were given in part two by the same artists and the evening closed with a delightful five-act drama entitled "The Turkish Girl" and piano selections by Mrs. D. J. Generale, a talented pianist of this city. The Helene Military band of this city, N. Grogan, leader, rendered delightful music during the evening. The proceeds of the evening were very substantial and will help defray the expenses of remodeling the Plunkett residence for a parochial school.

HONOLULU, Nov. 2.—A midnight conference was held between Collector of the Fort Franklin and Deputy Collector Sharp during which wireless messages were exchanged with the United States revenue cutter Thetis, patrolling outside the harbor.
Collector Franklin appeared perturbed and was uncommunicative as to the cause of the meeting at this unusual hour. Two large Japanese cruisers, the Hizen and the Asama, are hovering outside the harbor near where the Thetis is on duty but whether the conference and the message had to do with them or not could not be learned from any official source.

THREE years ago we began to feature the "Made in Lowell" idea—emphasizing the fact that merchandise which comes from our own factories and shops should take preference in your purchasing—And now that the "Made in America" thought has been universal all over these United States we are more than ever ready to feature our Spindle City products—Few cities in this country can boast of the diversified industries that we have here—and we believe that there is no other store which would offer like values.

FABRICS, FOOTWEAR, HOSIERY, UNDERWEAR, TOILET ARTICLES, BLANKETS, TOWELS, etc., etc., say nothing of the great number of made up things which "our own factory" contributes to this sale.

All this week Lowell made goods will be featured at this store—and nearly every department holds some offerings of bargain interest to every economical shopper in this section.

GERMANS REPULSED AT NIEUPORT AND DIXMUDE

French Official Report Says Allies Have Advantage in Belgium and France—Allies Surround Poelkapelle, Important Point—7,683 German Prisoners Taken—Rousset Says Germans Have Already Made Their Strongest Efforts

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The allied troops, according to official information here, are still determinedly meeting the latest vigorous offensive movement of the Germans in Belgium and in France. To date the French and English assert that the balance of gains is in their favor and they look to see the failure of the German offensive in this section indicated soon by a general and definite withdrawal of the enemy upon the right bank of the Yser. While it is admitted that the allies have not regained all of the lost ground in the valley of the Yser, their known gains in that region give every hope of a general success. In the vicinity of Nieuport and Dixmude the enemy has been repulsed beyond the railroad while the foundation effected between the Yser and the Nieuport-Dixmude line has rendered the ground there so swampy that the German trenches have become uninhabitable. This last fact is noted in the latest Belgian official statement.

Referring to the development on the line from Dixmude to Ypres, the Belgian statement is precise in its announcement that Poelkapelle has been surrounded by the allies. Poelkapelle is an important point, as it is the center of the network of communication of routes and railroads between Dixmude, Ypres, Roulers and Thourout.

The French assert that there is more significance in the announcement that in one week 7,583 German prisoners have been taken than appears on its face. They assert that when such a number can be gathered in it indicates that the German troops are becoming worn out or are suffering from moral depression.

Sanitary measures to avoid a possible epidemic are being taken on a large scale by the French league. Six thousand communes in France which are seeing the ravages of war will be visited sooner or later. Of this number there are 1100 where hygienic measures will be immediately taken.

Lieutenant-Colonel Rousset, the military critic in reviewing the recent operations, declares it is impossible to say how long the war will last and whether Germany still can find enough men to prolong the contest. He believes he is able to affirm, however, that they have already made their strongest efforts.

VIENNA CLAIMS THAT AUSTRIANS DEFEATED SERBIANS NEAR ROVINE

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A dispatch to Reuters' Telegram Co. from Amsterdam gives the following Austrian despatch received there from Vienna:

There is not much hope in the world for a bruised man until Jesus Christ comes and gets hold of him with a firm grip and strengthens his life. He takes the bruised man and makes them into men which shall give away the story of Christ. He straightens them up and makes them free for the Lord. Jesus Christ stands by the man who is down.

There are many illustrations I can quote from the Bible to illustrate this attitude of Christ. You have read of the prodigal son. Have you ever thought that the day following the one on which he came back, his father was especially tender? The son felt that he had no right there after spending his inheritance, but his father made it plain that the son was there because the father loved him. That is the way Jesus Christ treats the smoking flax.

Let us consider the practical application in our own lives. Many of us do not feel that our light is burning brightly. We realize we have many imperfections. But Christ will not quench the burning flax, but shall lead us into perfect day.

Calvary Baptist Church

The fifth anniversary of the dedication of the Calvary Baptist church in Liberty street, cor. Haslins, was observed yesterday with large congregations attending both morning and evening services.

TURKISH WARSHIPS BOMBARD SEAPORTS

Sebastopol, Theodosia and Anapa Attacked—Turkish Ambassador to Great Britain Handed His Passports—Turks Also Bombard British Vessel

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—The newspapers report that the cruisers Goeben and Breslau and four Turkish torpedo-boats bombarded the shore near Sebastopol yesterday morning, shelling the railroad and docks. The Russian shore batteries replied.

The warships disappeared along the Crimean shore to the eastward after inflicting trivial damage.

Theodosia, on the Crimean coast 100 miles northeast of Sebastopol, also suffered a bombardment on Saturday when a Turkish cruiser sailed close enough to throw thirty shells into the city.

News has been received at the foreign office that the Russian ambassador has left Constantinople but the Turkish minister has not yet received his passports or instructions from Constantinople.

Nothing of importance has occurred on the remainder of the front.

BRITISH VESSEL IGNITED AND SCUTTLED DURING BOMBARDMENT

LONDON, Nov. 2.—A despatch to the Times from Petrograd, dated Sunday, says that a British vessel, the Frederick, was ignited and scuttled during the bombardment of Novorossiysk. The Turks also wantonly bombarded Anapa, a Russian seaport of the Black sea at the western extremity of the Caucasus range.

Five years ago the sum of $2700 was raised for all purposes, whereas the present year shows $5000 raised. Five years ago for benevolent purposes, $200 was paid. The present year shows $300 paid. The sum of $4000 has been paid on the church debt.

Man From India

At the Social Forum meeting in Grace church, Sunday night, Rustomnustun, a native of India, spoke on "The Awakening of the East," which he said will prove itself of much greater significance than did the awakening of the west. The east is crowding into decades, what the west took centuries to accomplish.

The speaker told of the great work that England has done in India and in Egypt.

"In India," he said, "there has been a reaction in the right direction. Certain men who thought to retard the progress of British civilization have seen their mistake since the war broke out, and India is loyal to Great Britain in this great crisis. Already she has sent nearly 70,000 Indian soldiers to fight the battles of the British empire, and 500 Indian princes have volunteered their services; while paid that was hidden away on temple tops and under ground, has been sent to Great Britain's aid, because it is felt that the interests of Great Britain and of India are one. It is not, as has been said, because the Indians look upon King George as divine, but because they find that England stands for freedom, for the preservation of the rights of small states.

St. Paul's M. E. Church

At the morning service at St. Paul's M. E. church in Hurd street a large congregation received communion, 15 new members were baptized and 25 were received into full membership.

Elliot Congregational Church

At the Sunday morning service at the Elliot Congregational church, the pastor's subject was, "The Red Road." Every man and woman, he said, who tastes success, travels the red road of self denial and sacrifice and subordinates every trivial thing for a noble purpose and end. Young men in Europe are now being called upon to sacrifice life, home and happiness for the success of nations and if they refuse to heed the call to go to battle, they suffer the condemnation of their fellow-men. These men are now making the red roads of the nations with their life blood. Should we not be willing to give up as much for Jesus Christ?

Young men in Europe are now being called upon to sacrifice life, home and happiness for the success of nations and if they refuse to heed the call to go to battle, they suffer the condemnation of their fellow-men. These men are now making the red roads of the nations with their life blood. Should we not be willing to give up as much for Jesus Christ?

FIND BODY OF WOMAN ON ROAD TO LOWELL

Circumstances Indicate That Woman Was Murdered and Her Body Carried to Place Where it Was Found

LAWRENCE, Nov. 2.—The body of a woman was found beside the Reservation road at Andover yesterday, under circumstances that indicate that the woman was murdered and her body carried to the place where it was found.

Evidence of Denting

Apparently it had lain, where found for several weeks, at least. There was evidence that the woman had been attacked and beaten.

Medical Examiner George W. Dow has not performed an autopsy yet.

The road where the body was found is much travelled and runs between West Parish village and Lowell. There are no houses near the place where the body was found, which is near a cemetery.

The Andover police are convinced that the woman was murdered and that the murderer or murderers carried the body to the place and put it behind the stone wall, 80 feet from the road.

The description of the body agrees with that of Katoun Tamons, a Syrian woman of about 50 years, who disappeared from her home at 593 Common street, this city, Oct. 10. At the time she left home she carried a rattan suitcase of fancy work that she intended to sell by a house-to-house canvass in Andover.

The woman's relatives will view the body today. Two boys stumbled upon the body about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon while walking through the fields.

Fred C. Church carried insurance on the building and contents in the name of Michael S. Joskiewicz, Lakeview avenue, damaged by fire yesterday morning.

James P. Ramsey, of this city, was elected secretary of the Massachusetts Probation Officers association at a meeting held in Boston and Edward H. Slattery was elected to serve on the board of directors.

Miss Helen B. M. Choate, of 21 A street, has been elected president of the freshman class at Boston university. Miss Choate was a Carney medal scholar of the Lowell high school class of 1914.

Again in Eruption—Copious Flow of Lava and Columns of Smoke

NAPLES, via Rome, Nov. 2.—Mt. Vesuvius is again in eruption and the inhabitants in its vicinity have become greatly alarmed. On Sunday special prayers were made and processions of people went to favored shrines, as a repetition of the disaster of 1906 is feared.

The activity of the volcano first manifested itself by deep detonations and rumblings. This was followed by gigantic columns of smoke and soon thereafter an abundant eruption of lava began.

The last serious eruption of Mt. Vesuvius occurred in the spring of 1906. Several villages were destroyed and the property loss was estimated at $30,000,000. About 500 persons were killed and 50,000 were rendered homeless. Many nations, especially the United States, sent aid to the sufferers.

There have been several eruptions since 1906, but all were of a minor character and no serious loss resulted.

BOARD OF TRADE

To Hold First of Series of Meetings Wednesday Evening—Prominent Men Will Give Interesting Addresses

The first of a series of meetings for members of the board of trade will be held on Wednesday evening of this week at Colonial hall, Palmer street. A buffet luncheon will be served from 12.30 to 2.30 p. m. The meeting will begin at 7.15 o'clock. The speakers of the evening will be Edwin D. Mead, director in chief of the world's peace foundation, who will have for his topic, "War and Peace in 1914." No person in America today is better qualified to speak on this topic, than Mr. Mead, and his address is bound to be interesting and instructive.

Roger W. Babson, chief economic engineer of the Babson statistical organization, which furnishes reports to business concerns on fundamental business conditions of the country, will talk about business conditions and prospects. The meeting will be intensely interesting, dealing with the subjects, war, peace and business and the attendance of every member is desired.

HUNTING STORIES

Hunters are telling wonderful stories of their pleasant hunting experiences and those of them who have close to the truth line confess that while they had several "good shots" they did not succeed in getting any birds. The authorities are quite well satisfied that not more than 10 per cent. of the hunters succeeded in killing pheasants so that the danger of extermination is not very great.

It was stated today that two dogs were the victims of inexperienced hunters in the vicinity of Robbins hill, Chelmsford, Saturday. The dogs raised some birds but the hunters, in their hurry and confusion, shot the dogs instead of the birds. One of the dogs was so seriously wounded that it was deemed advisable to kill him outright. The other dog was painfully but not seriously injured.

TO WORK AMONG LEPROS—LECTURED IN THIS DIOCESE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Through the Catholic Foreign Mission Society at Maryknoll, N. Y., comes the announcement that Rev. Fr. L. J. Conrady, a missionary who gave many years of his life to work among the lepers, is dead. Fr. Conrady visited this city several years ago, and preached in many of the churches in this diocese.

The announcement from the foreign mission society states:

"The acting superior of the vicariate of Canton, China, writes us that Fr. Conrady, the friend of the lepers, died Aug. 25."

Many Catholics in this country will remember the zealous priest, who some years ago was here gathering alms for his noble work.

Fr. Conrady lacked the graciousness of heart of many missionaries, but his zeal was unflagging and his purpose unswerving. He lived for the souls of the lepers, and to relieve their bodily misery he had taken his degree in medicine.

A friend and companion of Fr. Conrady would willingly have borne a long and arduous journey to see him, but the sublime test was withheld, and the earnest shepherd died at Hong Kong after a few days' illness.

"He had asked to be buried at Shekling, in the midst of his lepers, but the Chinese refused to grant his wish, and his body rests in the Catholic cemetery of Hong Kong."

TO AID WAR VICTIMS

ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION BUSY WITH PLANS FOR SENDING RELIEF SHIP TOMORROW

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—To lose no time in carrying out its decision announced yesterday to help the destitute non-combatants in Europe with the Rockefeller millions, the Rockefeller Foundation was engaged today with plans for getting the first ship away tomorrow and immediately sending its own commission to Europe to direct further work.

This is the first time that the Rockefeller Foundation, whose endowment is $100,000,000, has undertaken charitable work in such direct and wholesale way. Its philanthropic heretofore having been concerned mainly with work along scientific lines.

Although no announcement has been made of the amount of money which will be spent, the first move in sending a relief ship to Europe immediately involves an outlay of $250,000 and from the announcement of plans it would appear that this was considered only a small part of what was contemplated and that the appropriation might rank as the largest individual donation ever made for war relief.

At the Rockefeller Foundation headquarters today it was said that further action than had been outlined in last night's announcement was not yet decided upon. The steamer Massapequa, which had been chartered from the New York & Porto Rico line, it was said, will be loaded and able to leave New York for Bordeaux at noon tomorrow with 4000 tons of flour, rice and beans.

The commission which will be sent to investigate conditions will not get away on the steamer tomorrow but will leave on some other vessel within a few days.

FOR CITY AUDITORIUM

PLANS BEING PREPARED FOR FIVE MUNICIPAL HALL ON MIDDLE AND SHATTUCK STREETS

There is considerable speculation relative to the new city auditorium which George W. Cummings is endeavoring to promote. The estimated cost to the city of a new hall, land and all, is between $250,000 and $300,000 with a yearly maintenance of about $30,000. Old Huntington hall cost the city of Lowell about $15,000 annually to maintain and it is argued that the plan proposed for the new auditorium requires none of the city's money.

The proposed location for the new building would cover an entire city block of land surrounded by Merrimack, Shattuck and Middle streets, and the avenue back of old city hall, with a spacious entrance from Merrimack street. The plans for the proposed buildings are now being prepared by Harry Prescott Graves and P. W. Siskier, who are submitting the plan to the city council within a week or two. It is planned to lease the auditorium to the city on a yearly rental, including heat, light and janitor service.

LOST LEG AT VERA CRUZ

EDWARD K. GIBBURN WILL BE APPOINTED TO POSITION IN BOSTON POST OFFICE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Edward K. Gibburn of Dorchester, who lost a leg at Vera Cruz, while saving a comrade will be appointed to a position in the Boston post office under a special executive order of President Wilson. It was announced today.

"Gibburn," says the executive order, "was honorably discharged from the navy by reason of disability resulting from wounds incurred in the line of duty, and was awarded a medal of honor for attempting to save a comrade while wounded himself. This action is taken upon the request of the postmaster at Boston and the executive order is recommended by the civil service commission."

PAUL MAY IN VERA CRUZ

His "Indiscreet" Protest at the Treatment of a Belgian Citizen United His Own Expulsion

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 2.—Paul May, the Belgian minister at Mexico City, who was given his passports by the government because of an alleged indiscreet protest regarding the treatment of a Belgian citizen, arrived in Vera Cruz last night. He does not disguise the bitterness he feels over the treatment he received at the hands of Gen. Carranza. He will remain in Vera Cruz, under the protection of the American flag, until he receives instructions from his government.

Diplomats in Mexico City did their best to have the decision reversed, but they succeeded in doing so to delay the case of expulsion until Sunday.

tion headquarters today, knew nothing whatever about the workings of the system and at least one commissioner doesn't know very much about it, because he sent a man down to the register who has been in the employ of the department for the last five years or more.

If a man has been in the employ of the city within the last six months, if only for two days, or one day, he is not required to register. If he has worked for the street department, the street department will have to submit his name to the state registrar.

The labor in turn, will send the name to the registration clerk in this city, so that the name of the man in the employ of the city at the present time, or the man who has been in the employ of the city within the last six months will go on record automatically.

Only men who have not worked for the city within the last six months and who are desirous of obtaining city employment will have to register and it is a case of first come, first served.

First Aid Apparatus

The superintendent of schools has received the following opinion from the city solicitor relative to the obligation of the school committee to provide first-aid apparatus in case of accidents at the vocational school. In view of the recent accident at the vocational school, the superintendent of schools has called out the opinion that the school committee should be held liable for the result of the accident, but as a matter of fact the opinion was asked for several days previous to the Mann school accident.

October 27, 1914.

Mr. Hugh J. Molloy, Superintendent of Schools, Lowell, Mass.

In response to your oral request for my opinion relative to the obligation of the school committee to provide first-aid apparatus in case of accidents at the vocational school, which request has received my consideration, I will say that I know of no special commissioning of law providing for such requirement, but in my opinion it would be a wise policy of the administration of the school committee to provide such apparatus and such training as would be necessary to meet the needs of probable accidents at the vocational school.

In my opinion, it is wholly within the province of the school committee to establish such apparatus and of such necessary equipment to provide for first aid in case of accidents at your vocational school.

Respectfully yours,

J. Joseph Hennessy, City Solicitor.

Park Commissioner's Authority

If the park department sees fit to lay out lawns surrounding certain trees in the public thoroughfare it may do so, according to an opinion submitted the superintendent of parks by the city solicitor. The opinion:

Oct. 27, 1914.

Mr. John W. Kernan, Supt. and Engineer of Parks, Lowell, Mass.

In response to your verbal request for my opinion relative to the authority and right of the park commission to lay out lawns surrounding certain trees in the public thoroughfare, which request has received my consideration, I would say, as I have already said to you, that the park commission undoubtedly under the law has control of the trees in the public thoroughfares for their protection and preservation.

Insofar as the laying out of a lawn to any extent surrounding such trees, it would seem that the park commission has the right to do so, and if your board sees fit to lay out such lawn and expend money thereon, it is wholly within the province of the park commission to do so, provided that you have an appropriation sufficient to cover the expense therefor.

I repeat that it is a question of business administration, a question of policy whether you lay out such lawns in the streets surrounding the trees in the public thoroughfares for the purpose of establishing a lawn, and of course if you take up such a project you will have to do so by a vote, and if you once establish such a lawn, it is your duty to care for it and protect it from year to year.

Respectfully yours,

J. Joseph Hennessy, City Solicitor.

INDICTMENT AGAINST H. H. MEN

having sought to monopolize the transportation facilities of New England. President Wilson himself is understood to have instigated the investigation which led to the indictments. Although the charges are serious, the law has been found to be true but the first step made to determine whether the law can successfully be enforced.

The jury's investigation has been going on for about a month. The chief witness was Charles S. McKee, former president of the New Haven road, who was understood to have repeated and enlarged upon the testimony which he gave recently before the interstate commerce commission and which led to the indictment being returned upon the road's administration.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Criminal indictments were returned today by the United States grand jury against 20 directors of the New Haven road, including Rockefeller, Theodore N. Vail, George F. Baker, William Skinner, Charles F. Brooks and John L. Billard.

The indictments charge conspiracy in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law to monopolize commerce.

Under section 8 of the act, under which they were returned, the maximum penalty upon conviction is one year imprisonment and $5,000 fine. The amount of bail was fixed at $7,000 each by Federal Judge Foster.

The 20 men indicted only five are now in the New Haven directorate. They are: T. David Guilan, Henry K. McLaughlin, Edward A. Maxwell, P. F. Brewster and F. P. Maxwell.

The following officers and former directors of the New Haven are also mentioned as conspirators but not indicted:

Arthur D. Osborne, L. R. Morris, E. W. Cheney, Percy R. Todd, Richard H. McDermott, J. McK. Twombly, John G. Parker, Alexander J. Cassatt, John H. Whittemore, Timothy E. Byrne, Hiram M. Kockersperger, James McCredie, Edwin Miller, Anthony Lawrence, Augustus S. May, Ide De Ver Warner, Royal C. Talbot, G. N. Miller, Wilbur Hunt, E. T. Trowbridge, William Wilson, Nathaniel Wheeler, Henry C. Robinson, Edward G. Buckland, Arthur E. Clark, Frank Jones, Samuel L. May, George H. Gillette, W. F. Berry, W. H. Newman, Oakleigh Thomas, Marsden J. Perry, Edwin N. Reid, Charles P. Clark, George A. Brush, Charles French, Joseph Clark, Chauncey M. Dewey, Henry L. Lee, Leverett Brainerd, W. E. Barnell, Lucius Tuttle, Charles S. Mellen, J. M. Hall, Charles Choate, Nathaniel Lewis, and others.

The indictment charges that the conspirators "used certain corporations, including the N. E. Navigation Co., the Boston Railroad Holding Co., the New England Telephone Co., the New England S. S. Co., through their influence, credit and funds to impose upon the concerns and working arrangements of the New Haven road, a system of commerce in harmony with the design of such conspirators," reads the indictment. "This was to induce and compel the New Haven road to lease and convey of properties and facilities and such making of contracts and working arrangements and such engaging in the business of the New Haven road, to use the advantage possessed by the New Haven company and the accumulation of power arising from the control of some of the said other common carriers to grasp the commerce rightfully and normally belonging to said other common carriers, and to drive such other common carriers out of such commerce, except as they might engage in it in combination with and subordination to said New Haven company."

The commerce which it is alleged was monopolized by the defendants, consisted of the steam and electric railroad transportation in all the New England states, New York, New Jersey and "every other state of the United States."

The conspiracy is alleged to have extended from July 2, 1890, the day the Sherman anti-trust act became a law until the present time, and the presentation of this indictment.

The means and methods, continues the indictment, "which said conspirators were to use in so bringing said other common carriers besides said New Haven company under their influence, management, domination and control, for the purpose of effecting the means and methods involved, were certain unfair, undue, unreasonable and unlawful practices and practices of a kind to include others from carrying on and attempting to carry on said commerce."

PAPERS RECEIVED

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 2.—The papers had the criminal indictment of former and present directors of the New Haven road, which was received by the United States marshal's office here for service early this afternoon.

Of the men who are mentioned as conspirators but not indicted, William E. Barnell, a former vice president in the New Haven road, was the son of Nathaniel L. De Ver Warner, a former director, and Lizon B. Morris are dead.

TO TEST SHERMAN LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—In getting the New Haven indictments, officials of the department of justice feel that they have the best opportunity since the Sherman law was enacted to test its value as a criminal statute. There have been other indictments under the law but in no previous cases have so many prominent men been brought into danger of trial and imprisonment.

Attorney General McKennedy, before he left the department to become a supreme court justice, was convinced on the evidence secured by department investigators that criminal prosecutions were forthcoming.

His successor, Mr. Gregory, who was special assistant in the New Haven case, had reached the same conclusion. He and his staff, however, were never, President Wilson's negotiators for a peaceful dissolution of the New Haven system seemed doomed to failure, directed that the criminal phase be gone into.

T. H. VAIL SURPRISED

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 2.—Theodore N. Vail expressed surprise today when informed that he was among the former directors against whom criminal indictments were returned by the United States grand jury at New York in connection with the New Haven investigation.

Mr. Vail declined to discuss the indictment.

WILSON HAPPY

Is Confident That Both the Senate and House Will be Democratic

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—On the eve of the congressional election it became known today that men close to President Wilson are working upon the understanding that he will be a candidate in 1916 despite his own silence on the subject and that they have begun preparations for the campaign.

Although no formal statement was issued, White House officials say Mr. Wilson is confident both the senate and house will be safely democratic as a result of tomorrow's elections. Predictions were made that the majority in the house will be more than 20 and that the present majority in the senate will be increased.

On the outcome of tomorrow's election, however, depends whether the president will call an extra session of congress later this month. It was understood that there will be no extra session if the party retains control of congress, otherwise it was said the president would call an extra session in order that policies he stands for may be carried to completion during the life of the present congress.

The president received pre-election forecasts from different parts of the country today and was encouraged by all the information reaching him. He transacted little other business.

MEAT PACKING BUSINESS

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—The Union stockyards largest in the world and the state of Illinois, as well, were quarantined against the shipment of cattle, hogs and sheep on orders from Washington today, according to a statement made by Dr. S. E. Bennett, chief of the local branch of the United States bureau of animal industry at the yards.

The president received pre-election forecasts from different parts of the country today and was encouraged by all the information reaching him. He transacted little other business.

MRS. O'FLAHAVAN DEAD

The many friends of Mrs. James O'Flahavan will be grieved to learn of her death, which occurred this morning at her home, 62 Colonial avenue after an illness of about four months. Deceased was 70 years of age and well known in social circles of the city.

Mrs. O'Flahavan, who was formerly Miss Priscilla Cote was born in this city. For a number of years she was connected with St. Joseph's church choir, for she was possessed of a sweet contralto voice of wide range. She was one of the colists of the church.

The young woman was married in this city to James O'Flahavan and she leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband, four children, the youngest of whom is four weeks old. Their names are Katherine, Eileen, Margaret and Alice. She is also survived by five sisters, Mrs. Ursula Laro, Mrs. Joseph Sawyer, Mrs. Edouard Landry, Mrs. Origene Desseaux and Miss Diana Cote; three brothers, Joseph, Arthur and Ralph Cote, all of this city.

PARKS' BONES RECOVERED

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 2.—A few charred and broken bones, all that remain of the body of Private Samuel Parks, the orderly of Col. Taggart, U. S. A., who was executed last summer by Gen. Huerta's troops, were returned to the American authorities Sunday.

There was nothing by which identification was possible, but additional evidence of Parks' death was secured from a Mexican at Tejeria, a short distance from here, where the Mexican soldiers killed the American soldier and burned his body. The Mexican claimed that he witnessed the tragedy.

An American army surgeon and two assistants entered the Mexican lines by agreement with the Mexican government, and recovered the fragments of Parks' body.

DUNN VS. KIMBALL

There was something doing in ward six, Lynn, this noon, the home ward of Henry P. Dunn, the democratic candidate for senator in the seventh district. Without any previous announcement, Candidate Kimball of Littleton silently stole into ward six this noon and started to get after Mr. Dunn for the latter's criticisms of his legislative record.

He had hardly gotten under way when Mr. Dunn having heard of his arrival appeared on the scene in an automobile and as soon as the republican candidate had had his little say Dunn came back at him in a manner that made a big hit with the crowd. Kimball toured the ward with Dunn on his heels, while the latter announced to the noonday crowds that this evening he would go into Mr. Kimball's record in detail when there would be more time to tell all he knew about his opponent.

ROAST PIG DINNER

The members of the Citizens-American club enjoyed a roast pig dinner Sunday, the feast having been served at the well appointed quarters of the organization in Middle street. The gathering around the festive hog numbered several hundred and they were unanimous in saying that the meal was the best ever. The meal had been prepared under the direction of Arthur Lavoie.

At the close of the dinner a musical program was given and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. The affair was under the direction of the directors, Horstidas Aivalsis, chairman; Maxime Lepine, Joseph Provost and Victor C. Salois. In the course of the afternoon it was announced that the club would hold open house for the members and their friends on Tuesday night at which time the result of the state election will be made known.

WEDNESDAY ON LOWELL CASES—MURDER CASE LISTED

When the grand jury sits in this city next Wednesday it is probable that evidence will be presented in the case of Ghvont Mooradian, charged with the murder of M. Alie. Although the authorities are not yet prepared to state positively whether or not the case will be taken up this week, it is the usual proceedings to have the witnesses appear before the grand jury when that body sits in this city within a few days of the time that the preliminary hearing is scheduled. The Mooradian case is scheduled to be called in police court Friday of this week.

Other cases to be called are: Hippoli Busiweh, arson; Mohamed Jando, assault and battery; Joseph St. Arnaud and William Jalbert, two counts of breaking and entering and larceny.

BIENNIAL CONVENTION

A meeting of the captains of the local semi-military guards, affiliated with the United States Volunteer brigade of the United States will be held at Garde Frontenac hall, Dutton street, Thursday evening for the purpose of appointing a committee to look after arrangements for the coming biennial convention of the brigade, which will be held in this city next Friday of this week.

The meeting will be called at 7.30 o'clock at which time a president and secretary will be chosen. It is expected that the captains of all the guards will be present for the matter is an important one. The ways and means of taking care of the numerous delegates who will come here from all parts of the United States will be taken up and a large committee will be formed to arrange for the event. The convention will open up on a Sunday and will last three days. The guards to be represented at Thursday's meeting will be as follows: Garde Frontenac, Garde d'Orleans, Garde Sacre-Coeur, Garde St. Louis and the A. G. Cadets.

HELD HALLOWEEN PARTY

A delightful Halloween party was held at the home of Miss Matilda Dimodana, 211 Thorndike street, Saturday evening and an enjoyable time was had in playing games and in a variety of other amusements. A large number of guests were present and the occasion was with all the characteristic Halloween institutions, and witches and ghosts roamed around the residence at random.

Mr. D. Dimodana, accompanied by his daughter at the piano, opened up the evening's entertainment with several popular violin selections. A quartet composed of Messrs. Edward T. Murphy, Harry Brennan, Harry Neelon and Jack McAdams, sang a number of classical and popular songs and were very well received. A quartet consisting of William Gilbride, a violinist, and three vocalists, sang several selections, while Mr. Edward Murphy and Miss Helen Williamson upon applause in their duet. The accompanist of the evening was Mr. William Gilbride. Shortly before midnight

UNFAIRNESS TO WALSH

The statement made by Senator Edward Fisher and published in Saturday's issue of The Sun commands the respect and attention of all the voters of Lowell who are lovers of truth. The unassailable record of its author, his reputation for veracity and honorable dealing, his legislative achievements and his well known dislike of political hypocrisy give it a force which twenty campaign speeches cannot equal. Furthermore, the declaration of Senator Fisher that it was made "in order that justice may be done to all" recommends it to the attention of the fair-minded men of all parties who demand that a man be attacked, if at all, in the open and not stabbed in the back.

The Sun has heretofore called attention to the mendacity of the accusations made against His Excellency and to their rampant unfairness. Candidate McCall, in speaking of the Walsh administration in this city, accused the chief executive of extravagance—studiously omitting to mention that if the last legislature was extravagant, the responsibility rests on those who controlled it—the republicans. He did, however, accuse the governor of boosting the salary of his private secretary, Judge Meaney, and declared that, in this, Governor Walsh gave bad example to the legislature—a legislature, by the way, which would not be disposed to follow the example of the governor for good or evil and whose extravagance in many cases the governor strove to restrain.

Mr. McCall deliberately told this to the people of Lowell, but he failed to give the facts. Senator Fisher tells the facts, and in a way that must carry conviction to the most ardent republican in the city who is honest in his judgment. At the outset, the senator says that though "no member of the legislature fought harder or more consistently against salary raises and undue expenditures" than he did, he supported the bill to increase this salary. He then gives many good reasons why $4000 a year is not excessive, but this is not the particular point at issue, viz.: the injustice and unfairness of those who accuse Gov. Walsh of extravagance.

That the matter of the secretary's salary is comparatively slight does not matter. Where grave accusations are not obtainable, slight things must be exaggerated. Nevertheless it does not seem right that Mr. McCall or any other aspirant to Governor Walsh's present office should accuse him of anything for which the responsibility rests almost wholly on the republicans. Senator Fisher deserves the thanks not only of democrats but of the honorable men of all parties for coming out to tell the truth and expose the falsity of republican charges.

Incidentally, Senator Fisher says that for years the governors of Massachusetts have been wont to pay their secretaries partly out of their own pockets. As the governors have generally been men of unusual wealth, this has been easily done. Governor Walsh is not in a financial position to pay his secretary personally and, instead of being censured, he should be commended for meeting a salary problem so honestly. Even those who accuse him of boosting the salary did not call $4000 a year excessive. One air bubble has been punctured. A campaign lie has been nailed, and the facts vindicate Governor Walsh fully. Vote for him, not only as an expression of confidence in his administration but as a rebuke to those who have attacked him so grossly, so persistently and so unfairly.

This is but one sample of the arguments against the governor; but the only reason why the republicans want him ousted is, that he is a democrat. The only reason why they favor McCall is that he is a republican.

THE PUBLIC MARKET

The voters of Lowell will be called upon tomorrow to decide whether this city shall require or rent suitable structures for a public market, and we are to assume that on the answer will depend whether Lowell will have such a market in the near future or not. It may be that even an affirmative vote might be followed by the inactivity shown in the public hall, the contagious hospital, the high school, and many other matters, but this does not affect the principle of the public market. The point for the voters to decide is whether such a market is desirable in Lowell or whether it is impractical.

At the meeting held over a year ago relative to this same subject, the farmers of the vicinity seemed to favor the project. The argument published by the Lowell board of trade and purporting to speak for the farmer also favors it. There is certainly something wrong when farmers of Dracut, Tewksbury, and other towns just across the line transport their goods to Boston and sell to wholesalers, who in turn sell the produce to Lowell retailers. But whether the public market would furnish any remedy for this is largely problematical.

At the best, the public market cannot serve the entire city, because people will not put themselves out to do their own transporting. If such a market is located in a very populous neighborhood it might be the means of attracting a brisk trade in direct buying and selling, but to benefit the entire city, markets would have to be established in the various sections or in the chief transportation centers. The market may be a blessing, and Lowell may be one of those cities to avail of it to the full, but no one can vote on it intelligently who does not understand its inherent limitations.

Charles Sumner Bird, commenting on the Boston public market a few days ago, condemned it owing to the fact that it tends to eliminate the retailer instead of the wholesaler. On this phase of the matter the public will be little interested. Those who wish to make a market go a long way and those who favor old-fashioned buying would find the public market advisable—that is, the ideal public market. Only experience can prove whether Lowell wants such a market. Think it over in all its phases before you vote.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

The various candidates may have differed on many fine points but they all agreed on the fact that a large vote is desirable. The time will come when the successful aspirant of tomorrow, the defeated candidate and all the voters will have passed away from the world of politics and business, but Massachusetts will still be governed by a man chosen by the citizens of the future. The war in Europe should be an incentive to you to assert your prerogative as well as to perform your duty which is to turn out tomorrow and vote for the candidate of your choice. No matter whether you are personally indifferent to the fortunes of all the men on the various party tickets. If you are an American citizen who realizes what it means, you will go to the polls tomorrow and vote. It is especially desirable that you vote the democratic ticket, but if you cannot do so conscientiously, vote anyhow.

We suggest the democratic ticket because in a large national sense the democratic party is the party of reform, not merely promised future reform but demonstrated reform. No other party of late years has made such large promises and has kept them. From the top to the bottom it is permeated with the spirit of its great leader, Pres. Woodrow Wilson, who has written his name large in American history and in doing it has fulfilled his public pledges and kept America out of the hell of world war. In appealing for your vote, we only repeat the request of that same great president who asks that you give him practical support by electing members of his party to office.

We also ask your vote for the democratic party because it is the party of Governor Walsh, a chief executive who, under peculiar difficulties has had your interest at heart and who has served you well. Do not be misled by false attacks on him but vote fairly and squarely as a broad and public-spirited citizen. Vote also for Lieut. Gov. Barry, his accomplished and active co-worker, and for the other men on the democratic ticket.

A SING-SING CHAUFFEUR

Governor Glenn did the proper thing in promptly discharging the warden of Sing Sing prison after some revelations of the brand of justice administered by him. The specific charge was that a bank wrecker of some means was hired as the warden's chauffeur, having driven him on long journeys and sometimes having been left alone in New York and elsewhere for hours at a time. This was during the time that the banker was supposed to be doing hard labor in Sing Sing. The warden did not attempt to defend his use of the banker-chauffeur, merely saying that he chose him for the honorable position because he appeared to be a gentleman. Gilbert and Sullivan in their palmy days never conceived a hotter burlesque on justice than this incident which has too many humorous features to be condemned as it deserves. Sing-Sing officials learn very slowly; this is by no means the first revelation of laxity in its administration, though it is one of the most picturesque.

ONLY TESTED METHODS

Dr. Merrill's advice before the Middlesex County Teachers' association in Tremont Temple, that "only proved methods of education should be introduced into the schools, comes appropriately at a time when faddists advocate teaching everything up to sex consciousness. "We cannot afford to experiment with material so precious as childhood," he said, and wisely. The greatest men in our history and in all histories were men trained in the sound fundamentals of education and under systems that respected home and school discipline. There has been a danger of late years that the pendulum was about to swing in the other direction. If Dr. Merrill's advice is indicative of a realization of danger ahead, it is gratifying indeed. Let us have the tried and true educational methods that have given us clever and noble men and women.

SEEN AND HEARD

HE WAS ON ALL RIGHT!
City Girl—How savagely that bull looks at me!
Farmer—It's your red parasol, miss. City Girl—I knew it was a little out of style, but I didn't think a bull would notice it.—Philadelphia Ledger.

NOT NEEDED
Two college students were arraigned before the magistrate, charged with hounding the low spool in the road in their motor car.
"Have you a lawyer?" asked the magistrate.
"We're not going to have any lawyer," answered the elder of the students. "We've decided to tell the truth."

MILITARY OFFENSE
During the annual maneuvers of the British Territorials a private was riding one day in a train with his uniform coat unbuttoned. This caused a sergeant to say:
"Gibson, up that coat! Haven't you got any sense of military decency?"
But here a gentleman on the left interferred, saying to the sergeant:
"How dare you give commands with a clear in your mouth? I am Major Fitzgibbon Calbraith."

At this point an elderly gentleman with a white mustache, leaped over and murmured in the major's ear:
"Col. Brewster Parfax is sorry to remind you, sir, that to scold a sergeant in the presence of a private is a military offense hard to overlook."

FAMILIAR REASONING
In a certain home missionary movement every participant was to contribute 1¢ that she had earned herself by hard work. The night of the collection of the dollars came, and various and droll were the stories of earning and money. One woman had shampooed hair, another had made doughnuts, another had secured newspaper subscriptions, and so on.
The chairman turned to a handsome woman in the front row.
"Now, madam, it is your turn," he said. "How did you earn your dollar?"
"I got it from my husband," she answered.
"Oh," said he. "From your husband?" There was no hard work about that.
The woman smiled faintly.

REAL FALL WEATHER
"You may put it in your pipe and smoke it," says a weather wise man. "That we are to settle down to some real fall weather now. Oh, yes, well, get some good warm days probably, but for the most part, the general run of weather will be such as to make you at least think of your coat, if you do not have it with you. The nights will be of such a kind, too, that you will not be sleeping in the outdoor porch with not more than a sheet over you. Rather you will need some extra blankets even when you are safely housed indoors. The janitors from now on until the robins put in their first appearance will have all the work they can do to do and the householder might just as well get ready to sift the ashes for he will soon have to make a prediction, and that is that on Thanksgiving day we shall have skating on some of the ponds if not on all of them." There is something to put down in your notebook. If it doesn't come true, then you can put down this weather-wise gentleman as one of the usual variety of weather prognosticators. If it does come true, then give him credit, at least as being a good guesser."

LECTURE ON SOCIALISM
George Spence, Jr., gave a lecture on "Socialism" at the Y. M. C. A. hall Saturday night under the auspices of the Lowell Socialist club. He encouraged the socialists of this city and assailed the people who, he claimed, are misrepresenting the party.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED
When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."
Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach liver and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomachic or diarrhetic. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.
Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.
Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with content.

CASCARETS FOR YOUR BOWELS IF HEADACHY, SICK

Tonight! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Put aside just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oils or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.
Keep your "insides" pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.
A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, Severe Cold, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

LORD FISHER POPULAR

FIRST SEA LORD OF THE EIGHTH ADMIRALTY NOW 73 YEARS OF AGE

Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, now first sea lord of the English admiralty, has been admiral of the British fleet since 1905. He was born in 1841 and entered the British naval service when 13 years old, working his way up through all the grades. When the British channel fleet was reorganized in 1907 Fisher had a serious difference with Lord Charles Boscawen regarding its composition. Both the public and members of parliament took sides in the controversy, and ultimately Lord Charles Boscawen was forced out of the fleet. Lord Fisher is 73 years old. His appointment to succeed Prince Louis of Battenberg, who resigned, is popular.

J. E. CONANT & CO.'S SALE

DISPOSAL OF LUZERNE KNITTING COMPANY AT WEST PITTSFORD, PA. FOR SUM OF $21,000

The sale of the property of the Luzerne knitting mills at West Pittsford, Pennsylvania, went forward Thursday as advertised. The sale began promptly at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and was fully completed at half-past two. The real estate was purchased locally by J. M. Anderson, acting as attorney, for the sum of $14,500 and the taxes and insurance. The machinery and mechanical equipment went broadcast to purchasers from as far west as Michigan, from as far south as North Carolina, from as far north as Connecticut and from very much of the intervening territory. While the total sale was only about $21,000 against an assessed valuation of $28,000, it by no means shows the success of the spirit and activity of the sale.

WHO WANTS TO SELL

By the direction of the post office department, a directory of those who desire to sell butter, eggs, and general produce, shipping it direct to consumers by parcel post will be printed and distributed by the Lawrence post office to persons who wish or would be likely to make use thereof.

Those who have farm produce for sale and desire to be included in this list may send their names and addresses (legibly written) stating what articles they can supply.

Address: Michael F. Cronin, Postmaster, Lawrence, Mass.

WARREN CLUB PARTY

PRESENTED PRESIDENT FAIRBELL. TOKEN OF ESTEEM—HALLOWEEN PARTY ENJOYED

A delightful Halloween party was held at the Warren club rooms in the Old Fellows building in Middlesex street Saturday evening with all the characteristic witch astride brooms, ghosts, goblins and other Halloween spirits in attendance. There were many guests present, including friends from North Cambridge, Dorchester, Boston, Haverhill, Nashua and Reading. The rooms were elaborately decorated with pumpkin faces, Jack-o'-lanterns and other designs from which beamed the variegated lights.

But the occasion, aside from merely making merry on Halloween had a much more significant meaning, and after the opening of the evening's festivities with selections by Broderick's union orchestra. Mr. John Farrell, who recently resigned as president of the club was presented a handsome traveling bag as a testimonial of appreciation of services well rendered and of esteem by the members of the club. Mr. Frank Finerty, made the presentation speech, and in a few well chosen words expressed the sentiment of the donors in a most fitting manner. Mr. Farrell had entered into the spirit of the occasion, blissfully ignorant of the surprise awaiting him, but managed to express his heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift.

Immediately following the presentation, a delightful musical program was carried out, with Mr. Thomas Dowd, one of Lowell's leading musicians at the piano. The first number, a violin solo by Mr. Edward Dixon was well received, and in a few well chosen words expressed the sentiment of the donors in a most fitting manner. Mr. Farrell had entered into the spirit of the occasion, blissfully ignorant of the surprise awaiting him, but managed to express his heartfelt thanks for the beautiful gift.

The gathering then sat down to a sumptuous collation prepared by Caterer Dick Talferro and many grotesque and varied favors were passed around as mementos of the occasion. The dance hall was next visited and general dancing to the strains of Broderick's orchestra was continued till midnight.

Those responsible for the success of the affair were as follows: Fred Smith, general manager; Frank Finerty, assistant general manager; Edmund Preston, floor director; Louis Tallon, chief aid; aids, members and guests.

STATE NURSES' ASSOCIATION

Held Its Fall Meeting at Colonial Hall Late Saturday Afternoon—Reports of Officers and Committee Were Made

The Massachusetts State Nurses' association held its annual fall meeting in Colonial hall, Palmer street, Saturday afternoon. The meeting was called to order shortly after 3 o'clock, after which Rev. A. C. Ferrin of the High Street Congregational church gave an invocation. Miss Sara A. Bowen, superintendent of the Lowell General hospital, delivered the address of welcome which was responded to by the president, Miss Mary Riddle, R. N., of Newton Lower Falls. Reports of officers and committees were followed by speaking on various topics of special interest to the profession. Miss Emma M. Nichols spoke on "The Red Cross Nursing Service," Dr. W. P. Powers, secretary of the Massachusetts state board of nurse registration, gave some timely information on legislation and matters pertaining thereto; and the closing remarks were by Miss Linda Richman, the first graduate nurse in the United States.

LIEUT. GEN. CHAFFEE DEAD

Former Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army Rose From the Ranks—Wounded in Three Battles

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 2.—Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee (retired), former chief of staff of the United States army, died at his home here yesterday of typhoid pneumonia. His body will be taken to Washington, leaving Tuesday, for interment in Arlington National cemetery.

After his retirement, General Chaffee was appointed head of the Los Angeles water board. Later he accepted the presidency of an insurance company, but retired from business affairs a few months ago.

Wounded in Three Battles

Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee rose from a private to the command of the United States army. He never saw the inside of West Point except as a visitor, but he was one of the greatest fighters that ever led Uncle Sam's troops.

When he finally came to the office of the chief of state to the Washington he brought with him the scars of three bullet wounds, received at Chickamauga, Gettysburg and Santiago, and an unsurpassed record for personal prowess in the campaign and on the battlefield.

Few modern generals entrusted with the command of large military affairs have ever seen so much real bloodshed as he.

His most famous achievements as a field commander were the planning and execution of the attack on the stout fort of El Caney in the Cuban campaign, and the leading of the American troops in the capture of Pekin at the time of the Boxer uprising.

In the death of General Chaffee the army loses one of its most spectacular figures. Starting as a cavalry trooper, and later winning laurels as an infantryman, his conduct on the field of battle was the showy daredevilry of the cowboy.

Reckless Bravery on Field

His most famous exhibition of this was when he dashed out before his men at El Caney in the thick of the Spanish fire, and waved his hat to encourage them in the charge. More than one of his steps in rank was one of his reckless bravery in leading a cavalry charge.

But he combined with this characteristic remarkable cunning in the presence of the enemy. In the west he won the name of the "sleuth," because, it is said, he was never ambushed, or successfully tricked by the Indians in his many campaigns against them.

General Chaffee enlisted in the Sixth cavalry in 1851, and served as a private and non-commissioned officer till 1863, when he was made second lieutenant. He took part in more than 50 engagements in the Civil war, being present nearly in the battle of Palo Alto, Texas, against the Comanche Indians, received further brevets for gallantry for leading a cavalry charge over "rough and precipitous bluffs on the Red river" of Texas in 1874, and for his part in the action at Big Dry Wash, Arizona, in 1881.

When the Spanish war broke out he was made first brigadier and then major-general of volunteers, and took command of one of the divisions that went to capture Santiago. After that campaign he returned to Cuba as chief of staff for Generals Brooke and Wood.

Later he commanded the China expedition and then the American forces in the Philippines, coming home to wind up his service as lieutenant-general and chief of staff. He retired Feb. 1, 1905.

HOT FIGHT IN VERMONT

CHARLES A. PROUTY SEEKING TO DEFEAT SENATOR WILLIAM P. DILLINGHAM

Charles A. Prouty is the progressive, democratic and prohibitionist candidate for United States senator from Vermont. He is seeking to wrest the seat away from Senator William P. Dillingham, republican, who has been in the upper branch of congress since 1909. Mr. Prouty is former interstate commerce commissioner and is a republican. He tried first for the republican nomination, but failed to get it. Senator Dillingham winning. Then Mr. Prouty accepted the progressive and prohibitionist nominations. The democratic nomination came to him when Charles D. Watson, who had been chosen by the state convention, withdrew. The Vermont fight is among the hottest waged by progressives and democrats to oust an old republican senator.

DR. M. G. BRUMBAUGH, EDUCATOR, CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

Dr. Martin Grove Brumbaugh, republican candidate for governor in Pennsylvania, is one of the foremost men of that state. Born in 1853 he took up teaching and became the superintendent of schools of Huntingdon county, that state, at the age of 22. He studied law, but never practiced. He was appointed commissioner of education in Porto Rico in 1900 by President McKinley. He is a member of the state board of education in Pennsylvania and superintendent of schools of Philadelphia. He is opposed by Vance C. McCormick, democrat, both of whom want the position now held by Governor Tener, president of the National Baseball league.

OIL MILLIONS FOR THE EUROPEAN WAR VICTIMS

Rockefeller Foundation Will Start Relief Ship From Rotterdam Tomorrow—Loaded With Food for Belgians

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Rockefeller Foundation has determined to employ its immense resources for the relief of non-combatants in the countries afflicted by the war and stands ready to give "millions of dollars, if necessary," for the purpose.

This was announced last night by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., president of the foundation.

In pursuance of this philanthropy the foundation will send a commission to Europe in a few days to report first hand as to how, when and where aid can be rendered most effectively. At a cost of $275,000 it already has chartered a ship and loaded it with 4000 tons of provisions for the relief of the starving Belgians.

"This action is taken," Mr. Rockefeller says, "as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely to promote the well being of mankind throughout the world."

The ship is the Massapequa, the largest neutral vessel now in New York harbor. She will sail Tuesday morning direct for Rotterdam, with a certification from the British consul at New York that its cargo is destined for the use of Belgian non-combatants only, and should not be delayed in transit. The supplies are consigned to the American consul at Rotterdam, and will be distributed by the Belgian relief commission.

Mr. Rockefeller has been in communication with Ambassador Page at London, and makes public a cablegram, in which the ambassador describes the dire need of the Belgians, and says that it will require a million dollars a month for seven or eight months to prevent starvation.

"In fact," the ambassador said, "many will starve now before food can reach them." He added that the British government forbids the export of food, and that none can be bought on the continent.

It was in response to this urgent message and a similar one from C. Hoover of the American relief committee in London that the foundation decided to send a relief ship "at the earliest possible moment."

Work "Absolutely Neutral"
Mr. Rockefeller makes clear in his announcement that whatever steps are taken by the foundation in the administration of its relief work "will be absolutely neutral." The commission of investigation will be headed by William Rose, director-general of the International health commission, and will visit the several countries affected by the war.

The announcement follows:
"It having become clear that one of the most terrible and appealing effects of the war will fall upon the non-combatants—those most innocent of any part in the cause or the conduct of the conflict—the Rockefeller Foundation has determined to exert itself to the extent, if necessary, of millions of dollars for the relief of non-combatants in the various countries involved."

"This action is taken as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely, to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world."

"I have written the American ambassador in London that we foresee the probability that large resources will be very much needed for rehabilitation at a time when the resources now being drawn upon for immediate relief will be, perhaps, very nearly exhausted. Under the circumstances, we feel the need of further advice."

Commission to Europe

"In order to obtain expert opinion as to the time, place and means of rendering aid most effectively, the foundation has arranged to send to Europe within the next few days a commission which shall visit the countries affected and advise us first hand. The chairman of the commission will be William Rose, director-general of the international health commission, whose successful experience in organizing the campaign against hookworm disease in various parts of the world peculiarly fits him for the task. We are also seeking to enlist the co-operation of the two others experienced in the administration of relief to those in need."

"The sending of such a mission will not render unnecessary the efforts of other agencies of relief, for the need is widespread and millions of people are suffering. All steps which the Rockefeller Foundation takes will, of course, be absolutely neutral."

"To avoid delay and to provide relief at the earliest possible moment for the suffering people of Belgium, the foundation has chartered the largest neutral ship available in New York harbor and purchased a full cargo of supplies to be despatched immediately."

"This action will but supplement the public spirited efforts of the Belgian relief committee of which Mr. Robert W. DeForest is chairman. That the necessity is vital and worthy of the heartiest support is indicated by the following cablegrams which reply to inquiries we have received from Mr. Page, the American ambassador at London:

Belgians Starving

"Belgians on verge of starvation. I emphatically regard it most opportune to help. I have never known such a case of need. Committee to distribute food consists of prominent Americans here and influential Belgians in Belgium and American minister and consuls in Belgium, all under my direction. British government forbids export of food and no food can be bought on continent. Help needed is food, and clothing for women and children."

prevent starvation. In fact, many will starve now before food can reach them. No food can be bought and exported from any country in Europe. Every dollar you choose to give will save or prolong a human life, if you can give it quickly enough. No other time will come in any land when there can be greater need. Do not send money. Buy six parts wheat, two parts rice, two parts beans, and ship in neutral ships consigned to American consul at Rotterdam. Inform me when you ship and I will arrange all diplomatic requirements for landing, for transit to Belgium, and for distributions in small quantities by the commission of relief, which, as a means of reaching all the people, have taken over all grocery stores."

"Immediately upon receiving these messages the Rockefeller Foundation initiated the co-operation of the shipping department of the Standard Oil company of New York in securing the vessel, and at the same time gladly availed itself of the voluntary services of Mr. Lionel Haguenauer, a Belgian, now resident in New York, and member of the Belgian relief committee, in purchasing the cargo. The foundation encountered considerable difficulty in finding a capacious vessel, and the pressure upon the market for foodstuffs was such that it was impossible to complete exactly with Ambassador Page's suggestion as to proportions. To fill and despatch the ship called for an expenditure of $275,000.

On next Tuesday morning, therefore, the Massapequa of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship company will sail direct to Rotterdam, Holland, laden with 4000 tons of supplies consigned to the American consul.

"23,000 barrels of flour.
"14,000 packets (150 pounds each) of rice.
"3000 bags (200 pounds each) of beans.
"1000 boxes (100 pounds each) of bacon."

"The British consul has kindly agreed to certify that these supplies are absolutely for the aid of non-combatants and should not be delayed in transit."

"The extraordinary need in Belgium is further indicated by the following cablegram received from H. C. Hoover of the American relief committee in London:

Need Five Millions Monthly
"Have received reports from members of our commission, from the American minister in Brussels and from local officials that within three weeks the last vestige of foodstuffs in Belgium will have been exhausted and the entire population of over 7,000,000 people will be faced with starvation. The minimum supply of foodstuffs required amounts to about 90,000 tons of cereal per month, together with bacon and lard. The minimum monthly expenditure required is from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, of which some part returnable through sales. It therefore appears the problem of feeding the people of Belgium transcends other Belgian relief. The one function of Americans in Belgian relief is the purchase and despatch of food. We have expended every dollar that we have received in the purchase and despatch of foodstuffs already and it will take all the funds we can raise here to take care of the emergency pending arrival of funds from America."

"It is obvious that no philanthropic exertion will be too great to relieve the acute suffering of those victims of the war who are innocent of any participation in it."

Has $100,000,000
The Rockefeller Foundation, which was incorporated by congress last year, and to which John D. Rockefeller gave $100,000,000, has for its announced purposes the prevention and relief of suffering, the advancement of civilization by the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge, and the promotion of all elements of human progress by eleemosynary and philanthropic means.

Combing Won't Rid Hair of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. Do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use it gently to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

WHAT HORTENSE TOLD ME

The following is rather a good suggestion from Hortense, for those who travel on the trains at any time, or even for the girl who mends. The towels, she says, used on trains or for motor cars are apt to be rather rough for the face. Old soft, cotton handkerchiefs are the best thing to wipe the cream off with.

Cut them in pieces just large enough to use once, then you can throw them away after using. Old linen handkerchiefs will also answer.

The paper towels are sometimes used, but for wiping off the cream they are not as good as the soft cotton handkerchiefs. They are very useful though for drying the hands.

Hortense is an advocate of the water drinking habit. She declares that it is the greatest of all aids to a beautiful complexion. To have a clear complexion, it is imperative that all the secretory organs are kept in a healthy condition and skin diseases are the result of not drinking sufficient water to aid the system to carry off the waste matter. The water, of course, must be pure.

Take a glass a half hour before breakfast, several between meals and a glass before retiring.

Every morning Hortense urges me to take an early walk in the clear autumnal air. Sometimes I protest, but when I return with cheeks glowing and sparkling eyes I am thankful for her advice.

Deep breathing is naturally an accompaniment to walking. So if you walk well you will also breathe well. In walking hold the chest high and head erect, not dipped back or inclined forward. Take a firm, light stride.

The body should be balanced on the hips without swaying. Keep the mouth closed and breathe through the nose. Never allow yourself to acquire a slouching step.

Most women are fond of shiny perfumes and bath vanities, but usually they are expensive. Hortense sends the following one which can be made at home.

It is a very simple powder and useful to use after the bath and one which will absorb any unpleasant odor or excessive perspiration, and is made as follows: Boracic acid, one ounce; powdered chalk, two ounces; powdered talcum, perfumed, seven ounces. Of course, a smaller quantity may be made by substituting the same proportion.

After bathing the attempts with warm water and castile soap, dry thoroughly and then dust with this powder.

Hortense usually sets aside a day for the making of my soaps and creams, she especially wishes my readers to try the following head soap recipe for green liquid soap, which is recommended by skin specialists for fine skins, or for those which have the pores extended, and can be made at home.

Take equal parts of glycerine, water, alcohol and green castile soap. Shave the soap into the water and stir over the fire till the mixture is smooth.

Add the glycerine, and lastly, after the kettle is removed from the fire, the alcohol. Add a tablespoonful of eau de Cologne, if perfume is desired.

Hortense has given me the recipe of an excellent cleansing cream that is very good for those who are troubled with blackheads.

Every night before retiring apply the cleansing cream to face and throat with the tips of the fingers and wipe off thoroughly with a soft towel, then apply the blackhead lotion and leave on over night.

In the morning cleanse the face with the toilet water instead of ordinary water. White vasoline, one ounce; white wax, one ounce; oil of sweet almond, four ounces; extract of violets, ten drops.

It is claimed that there is always some one salient feature to be found in the fashions of every season and this winter variety seems to be the keynote. While there are as always must be, certain general lines, there is a really wonderful opportunity offered for the exercise of individuality, for there are many styles that are correct and many variations of each style.

Coats and coat suits, for example, show almost every possible length and, while in a general way it may be said that there must be some somewhere to be really smart, the flare is to be found over the hips and below the hips, in the tunic and in the coat, so that each woman is free to adapt the feature to her own needs.

In this group, there are shown both suits and separate coats and costumes that are made of one material throughout and of two materials and each one of the figures here represent some special demand and feature.

At the extreme left, there is a simple, graceful coat with a circular flounce finishing its lower edge. The cutaway lines render it extremely becoming to many figures and it can be worn over a plain gathered skirt as in this instance or over a tunic skirt, as suits the individual figure.

In the illustration, the entire costume is of one material but one of the extremely interesting features of this coat is to be found in its availability for the separate wrap as well as for the suit, for this winter a great many coats of velvet and of mohair and poplin silks will be worn over entire gowns and the model is charming for such use.

On the next figure is shown a belted coat and belts of various sorts make an interesting feature of the season. Here the costume is made of gabardine combined with velvet and there is a circular tunic over a plain two-piece skirt. All the lines are good and the costume is not alone a generally useful one, it also will be found generally becoming. If liked, the tunic can be made longer but, for many women this length is the becoming one. The round edges make an interesting feature also for this is a season of much braid and of such finish used to a great extent. While it is probable that the military thought that so completely fits the mind just now will find its greatest reflection in the later fashions, braids and trimmings of the sort are greatly in vogue.

On the third figure, there is shown a costume of broadcloth with fur-trimming and velvet revers. The materials are exceedingly handsome and exceedingly smart and the lines are the best obtainable. The long open tunic with its cutaway edges is eminently graceful and it flares in a most attractive manner while the fur serves to emphasize that feature.

Nothing more fashionable and nothing handsomer than broadcloth could be suggested for such a costume but there is no one model that can not be varied again and again and this suit can be made of velvet, of corduroy, or one of the new zibelines or poplin suitings or it could be made with coat and tunic of one material over skirt of another. In place of the fur could be used one of the handsomest fur cloths, for fur cloths were never so beautiful, never so rich in effect and they are being employed by the best tailors in just such ways.

The comfort of the separate coat that can be slipped on over a complete gown is not to be disputed. There are two shown here that are exceedingly smart and handsome and available for many uses. The long coat that is loose and ample and buttoned up closely at the neck seems especially designed for morning and occasions of the kind. Here it is made from one of the new velvet-finished cloths showing a slight striped effect and the collar and cuffs are of fox fur.

CARING FOR THE PIANO

"Do you know Marie, I haven't untuned today touched the piano all summer and it is in just awful shape. I know. I tried it just a little this morning and it doesn't sound or look good at all," was Marjorie's greeting to Marie one morning.

"You certainly should have it attended to at once, I should think," responded Marie. "Your aunt has been tuned at regular intervals. This is important for the sake of the piano itself and because it is bad for the player to accustom her ear to faulty tones."

"The piano will keep its tone sweet for years if it is tuned by an expert not less than three times a year. It should be exercised regularly, however, in between."

"An expensive piano is worth care. It will stand an amount of proper usage, but pounding, dust collection, disuse and neglect will soon spoil its tone and produce a jangling which is most unpleasant."

"Never stand the piano too near a heater, or directly over a furnace, because the heat will dry it out," the tuner said. "Really, for the sake of the instrument, the room in which it is placed, should have little or no heat at all."

"The tone is higher in a cold room than in a warm one, on account of the metal wires whose resonance depends upon their length and tension. A string is very sensitive to the difference of tone in the piano accompanying the voice, and an experienced vocalist often shifts upon singing in a room of certain temperature, the piano being previously tuned in that temperature to enable her to depend upon its tone."

"In dry weather the lid should be left off the keys, if care is taken to remove the dust daily. Keys will not turn yellow if in regular use and allowed plenty of air. The ivory keys used on old pianos would turn yellow, but the celluloid keys now generally preferred ought to keep white with a little care, especially if no one is allowed to touch the piano with sticky fingers.

"It humbers the fingers to soak them in hot water for a few minutes and for this reason, as well as for the sake of the keys, the habit of washing the hands before touching the keys is an excellent one."

"It is not good for the keys to wet them often, but now and then it seems necessary. In this case, a chance wrung out in cold water containing a few drops of ammonia, will remove finger marks."

"The wooden case of a piano is highly polished and after the damp heat of summer is apt to look smoky. A soft charcoal wet with cold water applied vigorously will remove this dullness ordinarily. If not, a few drops of household ammonia added to the cold water will have the desired effect."

THE SUN'S WOMEN'S PAGE

Many evidences of the interest the women take in this big feature of The Sun have shown that The Sun's Women's Page, which is a regular feature in The Sun every Monday evening, has won its way into the hearts of the women readers and captured their attention, for which purpose it was intended. This office has received many expressions of appreciation from delighted readers who have found the women's page very entertaining and helpful. One man remarked that the last admonition he invariably received from his wife as he left the house was, "Now John, be sure to bring home The Sun tonight. I want to see the Women's Page."

One instance which stands out more prominently perhaps than others is the fact that a great number of interested readers called up The Sun office to find out where they could buy the patterns of the latest styles pictured on the Women's Page. As these styles featured on this page are the celebrated May Manton styles, the editor informed The Ladies' Specialty Shop, 133 Merrimack street, who sell the May Manton patterns. The Ladies' Specialty Shop accordingly advertised these patterns for the convenience of the readers, as their ad on this page shows. This incident also demonstrates the great usefulness of The Sun's women's page.

LADY LOOKABOUT

Should any farmer so far forget the traditions of his sires, as to be late and in the city at night, I wonder that more than one looks with longing eyes on those beautiful lanterns that decorate the street corners. I wish they could know how glad some of us would be to see an occasional one removed. Take the one at Tower's Corner for example. Coming up Central and into Gorham it is all right; also passing either up or down Middlesex street; but, coming up Central to back Central the lantern is most awkwardly placed. It means that a driver must proceed up Central street to a point near the Lowell Trust company, where he must make an abrupt turn to his left, crossing just in front of the bank building; another abrupt turn, this time to his right, and he is finally headed up back Central street. There is no doubt but this light does good duty in its present position, but surely it could be more conveniently placed for the driver going up back Central street.

Ignorance of the Law

In New York the police court authorities find themselves face to face with a condition the parallel of which may be found here in Lowell. There the foreign population is so large and so varied, that the judges find themselves sitting in judgment on violators of statutes, who, on account of being ignorant of the law, do not always know they are lawbreakers until they have been apprehended by the police. The same condition was illustrated here a short time ago when a foreigner was fined for using a milk bottle as a receptacle for something other than milk. The victim was ignorant of the fact that he was violating a statute, but this of course did not excuse him. In New York the judges believe they have found a solution of the difficulty in having printed in various foreign languages lists of the statutes most commonly violated. These are widely circulated, and already there is a marked falling off in the number of violations of these statutes.

Something for Nothing Scheme

No matter how many times persons have found themselves victimized by the promoters of "something for nothing" still they rush headlong into every new scheme that comes along. Appearances to the contrary, no one has ever yet received something for nothing. We have also proven to ourselves that we pay most for the things that are given to us. How anyone can believe that a firm employing several clerks, using several delivery wagons, and paying heavy rent for a store, can afford to give away presents or premiums is most understandable. They see the proprietors of these stores grow rich, yet they look to them to get something for nothing. In the words of the humorist, "It can't be done"; it is simply another example of "fooling some of the people all the time."

Mayor Curley for Woman Suffrage

Mayor Curley of Boston has declared himself emphatically for suffrage. Whether suffrage for women be in accord with our own opinions or not, we cannot help admiring the man in high position who leaves no doubt in the public mind in regard to his position on the question. It has occurred to me that I have never heard Mayor Murphy's position on the question of woman suffrage defined. He may have expressed himself very emphatically in regard to it, but if so, I missed it and would like to hear the truth on the matter, particularly as I feel keenly on the subject myself.

Cultural vs. Vocational Training

In this day of vocational training, it did my heart good to hear Dr. Mullin, president of Boston University, hold forth last Friday in defense of cultural education. Surely a man of his training, his experience and his position, can speak with authority on the subject of education, and there is none among us who cannot listen with profit to his words.

He deplores industrial education for children in their teens, as it creates class distinctions—dividing young life up into sections, something most unfortunate in a republic like ours. He believes all young people should receive the same education in their teens that they may the better understand each other. He accuses the American people of blindly following the lead of Germany in the matter of education. "Where," he said, "ethics must go, honor must go, everything must go to keep industrial military efficiency."

It has been argued that it is a waste of time and energy for the boy who is not professionally inclined, to follow the study of Latin, Greek, literature, science, and upper mathematics, as given in the ordinary high school. This is not true. Surely the boy who follows a trade, will, in my opinion, make a better tradesman if he can read a good author intelligently, or if he can pick out the constituent elements of a good poem, story or picture, and he will be a happier man, because a world of pleasure and entertainment is his to enjoy, which ever remains unknown to the man who has learned only the use of the rule and square.

Cultural studies develop a person's sense of honor and of civility, and from common clay often produce a man. And when I write of culture, I do not mean the "culture" of the German soldier, but rather the culture of Emerson, Washington, Lincoln and Wilson.

FASHION NOTES

From the Originators of Styles — Features of Leading Garments

The present is an interesting season in matters pertaining to dress even while we are laboring under some few disadvantages, for we are making a great many new departures, we are learning a great many wholesome truths and we are altogether facing a new condition. The latest news from Paris assures us that the business of the city is as nearly normal as is possible under the conditions, that there is every effort being made to offset the inevitable strain. It would be well if we on this side of the sea would follow the same example and remember all that there is to encourage and all that there is that is good.

We are hearing a great deal of cotton manufactures and the exploitation of cotton is being discussed in many ways. While it may be some time before our factories can turn out a few kinds of materials, there are now upon the market exceedingly dainty and exceedingly beautiful ones that can be utilized for many seasonable costumes. It really would not require any self-denial whatsoever to clothe oneself in cotton for many occasions and we all know once the demand is created, the supply will be on hand.

There is being planned an exhibition of American fashions and American designed garments, too, and already we hear of the most wonderful gowns that are manufactured under the stars and stripes and so many materials of so many sorts that there seems little cause to cavil. Perhaps if we were shut up within our own boundaries for a little time, it might result in much good but, at this time, there is sufficient intercourse to bring us suggestions from across the sea, and, for the present season at least, we are sufficiently familiar with the general tendency to need no further impetus.

As might have been foretold, the circular tunic has dropped to the circular skirt and the plaited tunic to the plaited skirt but that statement in no way interferes with the fact that tunics over narrow skirts remain a favorite style. They are generally becoming, they are admired by the masculine contingent as well as by ourselves and they combine many things to assure their favor. They have grown longer until we see varying lengths from the tunic that shows only an inch or two of the skirt to the comparatively short one. To be smart, however, there must be flare and the flare grows more and more general. Not infrequently, both the flared and the straight effect are obtained in an evening costume by using transparent material over a heavier one and there is altogether most wonderful variety to be found even in the one idea. Exploited to-day, for example, is a dancing gown of white satin and white silk tulle. The satin makes a rather close and very prettily draped skirt, the tulle of which are held at the sides by bunches of artificial flowers. The tulle is of the net, very full wired at the lower edge and finished with a band of silver braid with a fringe of white ostrich feathers below. As a matter of course, the close under skirt is as clearly visible as if the tulle effect in the contour. The tulle, by the way, is about two inches shorter than the skirt.

LACE AND FUR ARE CONSPICUOUS IN EVENING GOWNS THIS SEASON—BEAUTIFUL BROCADED SILKS SHOWING METAL THREADS

It is doubtful if we ever have known a season that presented richer or more sumptuous materials designed for evening wear. There are the most wonderfully beautiful brocaded silks, both all silk and those showing metal threads. Plain silks, satins and velvets are to be found in fascinating quantities and colors and lace of every known sort is profusely used while fur trimmings makes a really important feature. For the dance, the short skirt is of course a necessity but for the opera and dinner, the skirt with a narrow train is an interesting one.

The fringe of ostrich besides emphasizing the flare of the tulle goes to show one of the many uses to which feathers of the sort are being put. We started out with a season promising much fur trimmings. Undoubtedly a great deal will be used but feathers are being substituted in many instances and the ostrich is converted into trimmings of a great many beautiful sorts.

All sorts of furs are fashionable but the beaver is having great vogue. All the bear, the monkey, all long-haired furs are being used much after the manner of fringe and the fish continues the vogue of last season. Since fur is not a necessity, the fashion becomes, in a sense, an economy, and many of the newest models show simple cloakers and sleeve bands of the fur. The high collar is rapidly gaining vogue and makes a somewhat interesting feature of winter fashions. That it will not be exclusive in this climate is a foregone conclusion. The temperature is variable. We need and draperies are found in the most attractive and graceful form. These two gowns are fairly typical.

The one on the right is made with apron drapey that is caught up at the back in a looped effect and with a bodice that is one of the very newest and prettiest of the season. It suggests the basque idea in the fact that it extends over the skirt and it includes the most gracefully draped sleeves and the V-shaped neck that marks the latest models. The brocaded silk illustrated is one of the new ones with metal threads which in spite of greater warmth one day than another. The coat that is made to be fastened closely up about the throat can not be thrown open at need and, while it has a certain smartness of its own and will gain many adherents, it is not likely to become an exclusive fashion. Even in houses manufacturers who cater to the most fashionable have found that there is a decided tendency to open necks and it is not at all unlikely that a compromise will be found in the very pretty neck trimmings that are designed to be worn some with coats and some with gowns.

Some of the very newest of the chemisees are made with high collars and are buttoned right down the front. These are sometimes made of satin and silk but there are some of fine muslin that are charming for wear with many costumes, and, while the collars are all high, they show interesting variety in shape and finish. For the street costumes, there are collarettes of velvet and of silk that are extremely becoming and give a very smart touch and, in some instances, there are similar accessories with upstanding ruffles of tulle that make exceedingly attractive frames for the face.

It is almost inevitable that the military suggestion should be found in the newest fashions and high collars and braid trimmings follow as a natural result. The Zouaves have attracted especial notice and immediately that fact is as soft and easy to drape as charmeuse satin itself.

The second costume combines one of the new satin crepes with lace and the skirt is made with an apron drapey that allows very charming and attractive use of the artificial flowers that are so well liked for trimming. In the small view, this same gown is shown with short skirt and long sleeves. Treated in that way, it can be utilized for the afternoon dance and made of lace, of chiffon, of net or of any material that is soft and becoming. Silk tulle with an edge of fur makes a handsome effect and is very charming, very attractive and so essentially youthful in effect that it is certain to gain adherents. In this instance, the braid is applied on the outside but one of the newest fancies is for braid or cord applied on the under side of the material, so giving a raised effect, but following the stamped pattern as would be done slightly rolled over at the ends. It is

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

Save all pieces of bread, cook advises. The larger pieces will make good toast and the smaller ones will roll into crumbs.

It is a good idea to place near the stove or on the warming oven a covered dish, and into this dish put every small scrap of bread, when you have collected enough roll them and put them into a fruit jar; the over top of the fruit jar a piece of cheese cloth. This will keep out the dust and prevent the crumbs from becoming musty.

Cook makes the nicest salad dressing I ever tasted. Here is her rule for mayonnaise which seldom fails: Have your mixing bowl cold. Mix together a teaspoon of salt, the same of mustard and one-quarter teaspoon of cayenne and paprika.

Beat the yolks of two eggs. Add to seasonings and stir and beat until it is thick. Add slowly four table-spoonsful of olive oil and lemon juice. Then add oil and lemon juice and vinegar until a cup of all and a tablespoonful of each of the acids has been added. If desired, the white of one egg-beaten to a stiff froth, may be added, or half a cup of whipped cream.

Cook is an expert on laundering lingerie. She told me how to do it this morning so I pass it along to you. She says to wash it carefully in the usual way; when "bonedry" dip in fashionable. The girdle that swathe the figure can be either of the same material or of a different one. Velvet on satin would, for example, be handsome or, if liked, any one of the ribbons that are made for the purpose should be substituted for the silk. Long sleeves of thin, transparent material with low or half-low necks are smart and the frills that fall over the hands make a becoming finish. If something heavier than the satin is wanted, the over-bodice, train and girdle could be made of chiffon velvet with the skirt of satin and the drapery, sleeves and trimming of lace just as shown here.

very charming, very attractive and so essentially youthful in effect that it is certain to gain adherents. In this instance, the braid is applied on the outside but one of the newest fancies is for braid or cord applied on the under side of the material, so giving a raised effect, but following the stamped pattern as would be done slightly rolled over at the ends. or and keeps fresher longer than when starch is used.
This is particularly satisfactory for infants' clothing. Borax makes Irish lace "just right."

Some potato hints from cook this morning: were very welcome to me and I hope you will find them useful. When mashing potatoes or other vegetables, she says, never use cold milk but hot, then they will be light and fluffy.

To get the full nutriment from a potato, it should be cooked in the skin, retaining food salts. He just inside the covering.
Mashed potatoes, left over, should be packed in a cup or bowl until needed for frying. Another way to use it is to put into a double boiler with some warm milk. It will be quite tasty.

Cook was cleaning the teakettle with vinegar when I went to the kitchen this morning. "I never heard of that," I told her. "Oh, yes, ma'am," she remarked. "Sulphuric is good, too, but one should be very careful to wash the kettle thoroughly after using. Both are fine to remove the lime coating."

In filling the tea kettle in the morning, cook warns against using the water that first flows from the faucet, as this is stale from standing in the metal pipe besides it sometimes contains particles of the lead.

Food cooked with stale water is insipid and unwholesome. Also, do not neglect to empty the tea kettle, she says, before refilling with fresh water. Stale water loses its flavor that is imparted to foods cooked with it.

Cook washed the dishes this morning with milk in place of soap. Half a cupful of milk put in a dish-tub full of hot water, she says, will serve instead of soap. It softens the water, keeps the hands better, because it will not roughen them like soap, and brightens dishes, cleaning off all grease and leaving no scum in the pan.

When washing china with gilt upon it, she advises against using soda. Rub a little soap on the dishcloth to make a nice lather, then rinse in clear water, is her way.

CAPTURED CANNON SHOWN TO AWAKEN WAR SPIRIT

Photos by American Press Association.
1.—Crowd at London recruiting station. 2.—British regiment marching through London on way to front. 3.—Captured German gun taken to England. 4.—Captured French guns paraded in Berlin. 5.—German war poster—translation, "German war surprise, 1914; our 42 centimeter bombardier; Liege, Longwy, Namur, Maubeuge; with God for king and fatherland."

By JOHN J. BREEN.
UNIQUE methods have been adopted by the nations warring in Europe to arouse the patriotism of the people at home. Frequently the news of a victory has been accompanied by a silent witness of a great battle. Captured cannons and flags have figured largely in demonstrations which were calculated not only to raise the drooping spirits of the populace, but to gain new recruits for the army.
One of the most striking and powerful methods was adopted by Great Britain. In the battle of the Marne English soldiers captured many of the Germans' powerful guns. Several of these were mounted on flat cars and shipped to a British base on the continent and later sent across the channel to England. Then they were decorated with signs briefly detailing what they were and hauled through the different cities in Great Britain and Ireland. In many cities and towns the effect was electrical. Thousands cheered and prayed for the success of the British arms, and other thousands made their way to the recruiting stations.
When Berlin was convinced that the powerful guns of the Krupp works had made good and reduced many of the forts that were regarded as impregnable enterprising merchants, with the sanction of the government, had composite pictures taken showing the big guns and pictures of the devastation they had wrought. These pictures were reproduced on postal cards and sent throughout the country. They made a profound impression on the people, particularly those in the country districts. Those who remained at home were more confident than ever of the ultimate success of the German arms.

Looked For Quick Decision.
During the first two months of the great war in Europe it was natural, it was inevitable, that the whole world should watch for and expect battles and campaigns which might be decisive. The reason was simple. The three great conflicts of the nineteenth century which had impressed themselves upon the imagination of mankind had been short and sharp. Napoleon's Waterloo operations lasted barely two weeks. Six weeks measured the extent of the Austro-Prussian war. Forty-four days after the declaration of war in the Franco-Prussian conflict Napoleon III. surrendered and Bismarck was imprisoned in Metz.

At the outset of the present war, too, all the preliminary operations seemed to promise one more swift, sure, fatal drive of the enemy of France. German mobilization was complete by Aug. 14, and on Aug. 20 German armies stood in Brussels, and three days later broke through the first line of French defense after defeating the allies at Mons and Charleroi. Ten days after the occupation of Brussels, Laon and La Fere the second line of French defense had been pierced and there was no further line of permanent forts between the French capital and a victorious German army.

Now, however, it is becoming more patent that we are no longer to look for a quick decision. Sedans and Waterloos are possible before nations are in arms, before millions of men have taken position in numbers fairly equal along lines equally defensible and sustained by resources in men, in money, in supplies wholly unexhausted and, for immediate operations, inexhaustible.

Such a transition, in popular expectation, in the character of military operation, was wholly discernible both in the north and in the south by the close of the second year of the civil war. Confederate generals who had talked glibly of a speedy capture of Washington, Union politicians and soldiers who had chattered about a swift sweep "on to Richmond," had become silent.
Already there were in either army sound thinkers who recognized that neither side could win by any single victory. The collapse of McClellan's campaign on the Peninsula, the bloody defeat of the Second Manassas, had been promptly followed by the solid stand at Antietam. On the defensive both armies had shown that they could not be defeated.

Becomes Test of Endurance.
By 1863 the civil war had resolved itself into a frank test of endurance. The north had control of the sea, the advantage of numbers, of wealth, of industrial resources; the south, the strength that comes from a defensive position, a united and determined population and a military prestige still unshaken.
It was General Grant who first clearly recognized the extent of the task of the Union government before the Confederacy could be crushed. It was he who first and frankly adopted the policy of destruction by "attrition." With his coming the civil war ceased to be a splendid and stirring spectacle, a contest in which chivalry, individual gallantry, even collective military superiority played the decisive or the conspicuous role. It became a business, the brutal, grim business of battering to pieces a brave opponent inferior in numbers and resources.

Now between the situation of Germany today and that of the Confederacy in 1862 and 1863 there are parallels which, if they become misleading when followed too far, are still worthy of note. Outnumbered, the Germans already are even with the weakening aid of Austria. German armies can no longer keep equal strength on all fronts in the face of French, Russian, Belgian, British and Serbian armies already in the field, and the balance is bound steadily to turn against them. Just how far Germany's military efficiency will counterbalance the weight of the allies' numbers remains to be seen.
Again, in resources she is already incomparably weaker than her opponents, for the sea is closed to her as it was to the Confederacy. The industrial life of England will continue, just as that of the north did. In capital both England and France are better off than Germany, whose recent rapid development has been on borrowed wealth in no small measure. Her industrial life is now paralyzed by the blockade of all of her ports, of all of her avenues to the neutral world.
If London and Paris cherished ridiculous notions of speedy victory in the days of Belgian battles they are now frankly conceding that a long war is certain. Kitchener is preparing not for the first, but the second year.

Are No Forts Impregnable to German Guns?

Photos by American Press Association.
VIEW OF ANTWERP AND GERMAN "CATERPILLAR" SIEGE GUN.

AFTER Paris, Antwerp was said to have the most formidable system of fortifications of any city in the path of the Germans. Yet in the first practical test they proved inadequate for a prolonged resistance. The capture of Antwerp after three days' bombardment, following the swift reduction of Liege, has strengthened the impression that the strongest forts are virtually helpless against the fire of heavy siege guns.

If forts are so valueless as a protection in time of war as might seem from the experience of Belgium the question remains to puzzle the layman why such enormous palisades have been taken to build them. Why have both France and Germany placed so great dependence upon them?

Pictures of the demolition at Liege

and Antwerp bear striking testimony to the power of the new 42 centimeter (16.5 inch) siege gun of the German forces. A single projectile demolished utterly walls of reinforced cement and steel, ripped open steel towers and piled the mass upon the fort's defenders.
This new siege gun has been the surprise of the war. Only a limited number of high German army officials themselves had so much as heard of it. A member of the reichstag, whose name is not given, is quoted as follows:
"The fact that the German army possessed such a gun was as much a surprise to the Germans as to foreigners, for its construction and nature were kept secret, as the situation demanded, so that even in the empire only a limited number knew about it. When the trials were finished and all was ready to begin the construction of the new gun the problem presented itself of making this wonderful work of war without attracting any attention.
"More than fifty officers participated in the preliminary discussion over the preparation of the military budget for the consideration of the budget commission of the reichstag. When the subject of 'arms' was reached the head of this department requested that this part of the budget be not debated at that time. At the close of the session he told me confidentially that a new siege gun was in consideration.
"The request of the general staff for secrecy was observed. Then work began. A number of the guns are already at the front and others are in the arsenals. Six weeks ago, as member of the commission on arms, I was in a gun factory and was informed that any number of tubes and projectiles for the guns can be finished in a very brief time, not to mention the great supply on hand. I asked whether these guns were themselves not quickly and was assured by an expert that there are not enough forts in the world to wear out a single gun."
The German official report on the capture of Antwerp says:
"The first shot was fired on Sept. 23 at the outer line of forts. On Oct. 1 the first forts were taken by assault. The river Nethe was crossed by the German infantry and artillery on Oct. 6 and 7.
"On the 7th Antwerp was notified that a bombardment was imminent, and this was begun at 12:30 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 8. Simultaneously an attack was made on the inner forts.
"On Oct. 9 two of the inner forts were taken. At 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of Oct. 9 the city of Antwerp was occupied by German infantry without resistance on the part of the Belgians, whose conduct was valiant."
WALTON WILLIAMS.

INDIAN PRINCES FIGHTING WITH ALLIES

RULERS of the Indian possessions of England have rushed to her aid in the conflict now raging in Europe. Not only have they offered their fearless troops, but they have also agreed to furnish financial aid. At the outbreak of the war this was the message sent by two princes of India, Colonel Maharajah of Bikaner and Major General Sir Pratap Singh:
"What history does our lord the king emperor desire written? Let us know and our blood will write it."
These men are regarded as among the greatest rulers of India both in wealth and following. Both have seen considerable army service and are well known in diplomatic and sporting circles in England.
One of the most enlightened of the native Indian princes is Sewai Madho Singh Bahadur, the maharajah of Jaipur. He is a wise and capable administrator of his dominion of some 15,000 square miles and takes a deep interest in all matters affecting the welfare of the British empire. Aside from what he has contributed in this war he has been princely in his benefactions. He subscribed 2,000,000 rupees toward the permanent Indian famine fund. He is patriotic, too; from the British point of view, for he donated 100,000 rupees for the Transvaal war fund. When he visited England for the coronation of King Edward he chartered a whole ship, and all catables and drinking water for the period of his tour were brought from India. He was made an LL. D. of Edinburgh university in 1903.
Scarcely any Indian nobleman or commoner has so effectively won the admiration of Britons and Indians alike as his highness the Maharajah General Sir Pratap Singh.
It is in the personal aspect of his character that Sir Pratap is most familiar to the outside public, and more especially is he renowned as a sportsman. Horsemanship was his passion in boyhood, and it has continued to be his passion ever since. He is nearly seventy years old, having been born in 1845. In his youth he won the Calcutta Derby against some of the best professional jockeys of the day. He made polo the fashion in Rajputana.
Sir Pratap was born brave. When barely four years old he gave a remarkable proof of uncommon pluck and daring by boldly seizing a ferocious monkey that had hurt his brothers and carrying on a regular fight with it until he fell exhausted and senseless. At various times he has had accidents at polo, hunting and pigsticking, to say nothing of his wounds received on many a field of battle; but, however severe the pain or suffering caused by such accidents, Sir Pratap has never been known to be deterred from taking part in sports as regularly as ever. In the course of his administration he had several opportunities of showing what iron nerve he possessed. Once he had to suppress a gang of rebel outlaws. Taking a few chosen followers with him, he made a night ride of forty miles and surprised his quarry at early dawn, and in the conflict which ensued between himself and the rebel chief he was completely in the saddle. The ambition that he has always cherished is to lead his troops against the enemies of his suzerain and to die fighting.

TOWSER AND DICK

Once upon a time a little lad named Richard—every one called him Dick—had as a playmate a yellow and white dog.

Towser was the dog's name and every day after school Towser and his little master would play in the yard back of Dick's house. One day, just about this time of year when the leaves were all over the ground, Dick told Towser he was going to play "Hide and Go Seek" with him.

"Woof," said Towser, which meant that he didn't understand how to play but that he would try. "Now you stay here," said Dick and he put Towser in the woodshed and then ran out. Before the dog could get out himself Dick had crawled under some leaves.

Pretty soon the dog came bounding across the yard. Then he stopped short. Where was Dick. He couldn't see him anywhere.

"Here Towser," cried Dick from under the leaves, and when the dog heard but couldn't see him he ran around whining and barking. At last he saw the leaves move, so he ran over and there he found Dick all curled up.

After that Towser knew how to play "Hide and Seek" and he would run around till he found Dick who hid in all sorts of places. But Towser always found him.

Sometimes I will tell you how Dick taught Towser to hide so that Dick would have to find him.

THE AFTERMATH OF SUMMER

With the passing of summer, beauty parlors in town are thronged with women returning from their holiday haunts, all eager to repair the complexion damages encountered during their vacation.

Facial massage covers a multitude of blemishes. Its efficacy is too well known to require praise for eliminating wrinkles, filling in the hollows and restoring tone to the underlying tissues.

Furthermore, it is beneficial alike in removing marks of the sun, subcutaneous and freckles and in removing depilations which arise from one cause or another. Massage stimulates the functions of the skin and so provides for a greater outflow of impurities.

Perseverance is a great power and the skin is much clearer in summer than in winter on this account.

Massage reduces the texture of the skin, beautifies it and imparts a soft velvety glow through its gentle manipulations which may be secured in no other way.

Therefore you should make it a practice to devote from twenty minutes to half hour massaging the face, throat, arms and hands. This work is preferably done at night, for during sleep the muscles are in repose and the benefit gained will last longer.

On these inspection you will observe that a number of fine wrinkles have crept into the complexion during the summer season. These are a rule manifest themselves under the eye, from the nose across to the temples, between the eyes and across the forehead. These wrinkles have in a great measure been encouraged by not providing the eyes with proper shade and protection while in the sun.

Where the eyes are weak, squinting is sure to follow and nothing will produce a more flourishing crop of deep lines than this practice of squinting. Oftentimes hard water and strong perspiration tend to dry out the natural oil, leaving the skin dry, harsh and in a prime condition to take wrinkles.

Chemical creams are highly recommended, as they not only tend to penetrate the skin, but act in the capacity of a gentle bleach. They render the skin delicately smooth and pinkish in tint.

MACHINE TO DIG POTATOES

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., Nov. 2.—Geo. Kreiger of this city has completed a machine which will considerably lighten the work of the farmer.

Digging potatoes was once one of the farmer's back-breaking tasks. That was in the old days when a fork was used. Now this is all changed. The Grand Rapids man's machine is drawn by a horse, digs the potatoes, cleans them and hoists them into the wagon. Another contrivance will sack the potatoes.

The machine is operated by one man. All he has to do is to drive the horse.

He has kept up the search with more or less industry for four years. A few months ago she bought a round trip ticket for the Pacific coast, good for six months, and came west, and here she found her husband living on a farm north of town.

CHILD NEARLY DROWNED

FELL INTO CANAL AT NORTH BILLERICA YESTERDAY AND WAS PULLED OUT BY GIRL

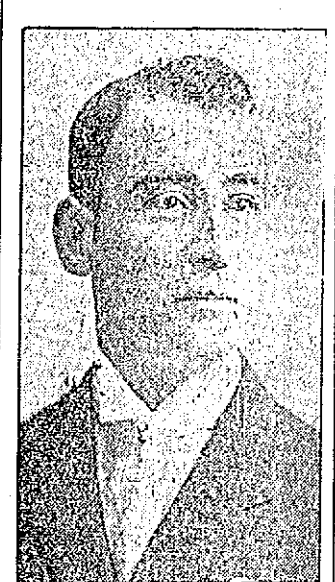

George Smith, aged two and a half years, had a very narrow escape from being drowned in the Middlesex canal, near the Boston & Maine repair shops at North Billerica, yesterday forenoon about 10 o'clock when he fell into the water while playing on the bank of the canal and had gone down for the third time when pulled to shore by a small girl whose name could not be learned. Dr. Neil K. Forhan of North Billerica was summoned and after working over the child for nearly a half hour succeeding in resuscitating him.

When the doctor arrived the child

MARCHAND A Winner

Republican Candidate for Senator 8th Middlesex District

He is a native of Lowell and a product of her public schools; has served with distinction in the Lowell City Council and the Massachusetts Legislature.

WHAT HE HAS DONE

As a representative, Mr. Marchand voted for:
The eight hour bill for cities and towns.
The nine in 11 hours bill for street railway employees.
The 54 hour bill for mill employees.
The workmen's compensation bill.
He introduced the horse drawn vehicle light bill and carried it through, and the bill for a naturalization court for Lowell.
He assisted materially in the passage of the corporation tax bill, thereby bringing thousands of dollars to Lowell.

WHAT HE WILL DO

IF ELECTED TO THE SENATE, MR. MARCHAND WILL

Introduce a bill to REPAIR THE LOWELL END OF FIRST STREET, which requires legislative action.
Introduce an AMENDMENT TO THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT, providing the wages of the injured to go on from the date of the injury instead of two weeks later, as at present.
Introduce a bill providing that a portion of the automobile tax now going to the highway commission in its entirety, be divided among THE CITIES AND TOWNS.
Mr. Marchand, after serving two terms in the legislature gracefully stood aside to permit others to have the honor and if elected senator will attempt to make the position a life-job.

CORNELIUS J. O'NEIL

Elected President of the South End Club Yesterday at Annual Meeting—Other Officers Elected

The annual election of officers of the South End club took place yesterday and though a few interesting contests enlivened the meeting the best of feeling prevailed. Pres. Thomas H. Donoghue presided and routine matters were disposed of in short order.

The election of officers followed routine business with the following as the choice: president, Cornelius J. O'Neil, vice president, Terrence P. Casey, recording secretary, Arthur T. Cull, financial secretary, Paul J. Hone, treasurer, John A. Quinn; sergeant-at-arms, J. Walter Lyons. Interesting remarks followed by the new officers and some good suggestions were made.

Just 25 years ago the Australian ballot was used for the first time in Lowell and it proved a big success and its debut was marked by some amusing incidents. Lowell elected a democratic senator 25 years ago after a lively campaign. The Burkes held their first Memorial Sunday just quarter of a century ago. Other interesting reminiscences by the Old Timer.

Motor enthusiasts will find a large amount of good reading matter concerning automobiles and motoring on the Automobile Page tomorrow. There will also appear the advertisements of the local dealers. The auto page has been a successful weekly feature for several years.

Numerous little suggestions for the home dressmaker will be found in "The Lady's Workbag." A simple and inexpensive method of making lace collars is described, and the writer describes how the effect may be made highly attractive. How to make lingerie pins from ribbon, how to make "The Rabbit's Foot" articles tomorrow will deal with "High collars and their effect." The writer tells how the lines on the throat and other bad effects of collars that are too high may be removed. This article also tells how the neck and shoulders may be made more beautiful.

The care of the child's teeth and throat are explained in "The Slick-lady," how to overcome fatigue, dieting and weight-reducing will also be dealt with in this article.

Marjorie was given a present of a canary and went to Marie for information as to how she must care for the bird. Whereupon Marie gave in detail numerous little bits of information concerning the care of the canary. Marie's instructions are published in "What the French Maid Said" which will be printed in tomorrow's Sun and they will be of aid to all canary owners.

Wednesday, Nov. 4th at 10 O'Clock

I will sell at Public Auction Wednesday, Nov. 4th, at 10 O'Clock, continuing until stock is sold, at the store of Mrs. C. B. Welch, 351 Middlesex Street, her stock of goods, consisting of women's, misses' and children's wearing apparel of all kinds: 60 boxes toys, jewelry, laces, ribbons, silk and cotton threads in quantity, perfumes, lace collars, 10 fur collars, dolls, 500 bags and purses, worsted yarns, 1000 pairs of women's, misses' and children's stockings, boxes of handkerchiefs, lot of fireworks, valentines, Christmas goods, Home sewing machine, desk, ice chest, Morris & Ireland's safe in good condition, 3 counters, 3 show cases, lot of shelving and other articles too numerous to mention. Mrs. Welch is retiring from business.

I have been asked to give the reasons why I should be elected governor of Massachusetts and why the democratic candidates should be elected.

The record made by the democratic administration under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson in Washington and the record made by the democratic administration in this commonwealth furnish the basis for our claim of popular support upon Tuesday next.

The accomplishments of the administration of President Wilson and of my own administration, which hereafter I shall enumerate in part, are entitled to the support of the electorate of Massachusetts because what we have done has not been merely the work of public officials but the record which we have made should be accredited to our political party, for after all is said and done we have only sought to make the principles and policies of the democratic party effective in the national and state government. We have both been but the instruments of those policies which have tended to make a government of the people consistent with the fundamental principles in which the democratic party believes. Therefore, all democratic candidates in this election are entitled to the benefits of this record.

Personally I am content to be judged upon my work and I welcome a verdict of the people based upon a consideration of my public service.

In the contest which is now practically ended, the democratic party has been showing specific things accomplished, while our opponents have only vaguely criticized and denounced what they know have been effective reforms.

The promises I made to the people of Massachusetts as a candidate for governor I have kept. I have sought to do what in my judgment was fair and honorable and just to every citizen, high or low.

While always willing to listen to the opinion and judgment of others who differed with me on political policies and principles, I have kept faith with the political principles I espoused when a candidate for public office. In my mind has been the thought, in my heart the purpose, and in my action the strength to make it plainly evident that I was governor in fact, as well as in name, and responsible to no one but all the people under my oath of office.

Over 200 appointments have been made by me, and not even my bitterest opponent has accused me of naming any man unworthy or unfit for the public service. In my messages to the legislature, I made over 60 specific recommendations; I signed 785 acts and 160 resolves, and vetoed 14 bills, all of which votes the legislature sustained. No man in Massachusetts, not even my most active opponent, has criticized my judgment in these matters except in a few trivial instances.

My administration has kept the state with an unusually large number of difficult and trying problems, particularly the intricate and complicated railroad question, and the unexpected situation that developed at the time of the conflagration at Salem, in providing relief and funds for the people of that city. My efforts in these two matters have not been criticized in any particular during this campaign, and it is to be especially noted that there has not been even the slightest hint of dissatisfaction at my handling of the railroad problem with its many ramifications.

My administration reorganized more departments of the state government than any other in many years, viz, the state board of health, the state board of insanity, the commission on economy and efficiency and the directors of the port of Boston.

My administration has insisted and demanded that indifference and inefficiency in the public service be ended and that all well-paid public servants be obliged to give their undivided time and attention to their duties, taking the first step to end the system which has grown up in too many instances in Massachusetts of high-salaried officials making the public business secondary to their own private affairs.

My administration has established for the first time in Massachusetts the policy of giving to the minority in this state a representative in the executive branches of the government. I have stood for the principle that because the chief executive of the commonwealth happened to be of one political party this did not justify him in making appointments to the public service to deny representation to the minority parties.

My administration has made the workmen's compensation act, in fact as well as in purpose, a law that fairly and justly compensates injured employees rather than a law pretending to provide insurance against accidents to injured employees, but in reality giving greater benefits to the insurance companies.

My administration has taken the first steps necessary to remove the inequalities and injustices existing under the present taxation system in Massachusetts.

My administration has made more useful and effective the service of the uno board in the state which more than any other agency can lessen the burden of taxation and promote efficient government, viz, the commission on economy and efficiency. In order that the recommendations of this board should be free from partisanship and that their suggestions to the legislature should have force in insisting on efficient management of our state departments and reducing to a minimum extravagance and waste in the distribution of public funds, I have made that board non-partisan by naming one representative of each of the three leading parties to perform these duties. Herein, to my mind, lies the potency of such a board.

My administration has promoted and encouraged the conservation of our natural resources by providing for state-owned forests and by establishing a fire hazard commission to reduce the tremendous loss of life and property caused by careless and accidental fires.

My administration has given the people more effective and more extensive powers in the regulating of public service corporations; cooperated with the efforts to amend the constitution to enable the government to help people of small means to acquire their homes; accomplished means for providing for rural credits and making the lending of money on farm property on more liberal terms.

My administration has kept the state tax below the estimate made by the retiring republican state auditor and has pointed the way to several means of increasing the revenues of the state in the future.

My administration has given to the people the right to determine in what manner their primary elections shall be conducted, restoring to them the opportunity to demand a secret ballot if they desire it.

In a word—for space will not permit the enumerating of many other accomplishments which have been presented on the public platform during this campaign—my administration has been concerned about promoting an efficient, economic government for the business problems of the state, and special consideration has been given to those problems, the correct solution of which would contribute in a most direct way to the happiness and prosperity of all our people.

The Truth

J. JOSEPH O'CONNOR,
Candidate for Congress

I am making this fight against great corporations, powerful moneyed interests and special privileges—ALONE.

I have sought neither factions nor leaders—but have tried to present to the great rank and file the ISSUES of this campaign fairly and squarely.

NO EVASION on the issue of the Currency Measure has marked my campaign.

NO DECEIT on my stand for uplifting the conditions of the wage-earner.

NO REFUSAL to meet the issue of nation-wide prohibition face to face, and

NO FEAR to openly and unalterably subscribe to the administration of President Wilson.

If you believe that I have honestly met every important issue of this fight and that the doctrine I preach, "EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY" is vital to the interest of the country, then I ask you to stand by President Wilson and endorse my candidacy

COUNCILOR HOGAN

RE-ELECTION

Lowell should stand by a Lowell man.

Lowell needs a representative in the governor's council.

Lowell believes in a second term for a distinguished Lowell citizen.

If you have any political pride in your own city, Mr. Voter, you will help double the vote which was given Hon. John J. Hogan last year.

IT DEPENDS UPON YOU. WHAT DO YOU SAY?

There is every good reason for giving Hon. John J. Hogan a second term in the governor's council.

A lawyer—of large experience.

A leader—of strong personality.

A man—of broad views.

Mr. Hogan, served his native city in many official capacities, and has made good as councilor during the present year.

HON. JOHN J. HOGAN
Candidate for a second term in 6th Councilor District.
JOHN M. HOGAN, 198 Cross St.
